The Cambridge News.

CAMBRIDGE MD.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB'Y 19, 1881.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

February 22d being a legal holiday, the Cambridge National Bank will be closed on that day.

The time for holding another town election is approaching. Candidates are now in order.

According to the Chronicle the Cambridge band will live again. The lost instruments are to be replaced.

The county roads are still almost impassible, and nothing can be done to improve them at this season of the year.

The citizens of Caroline county have subscribed the necessary stock and applied for a charter for a National Bank to be located in Denton.

Rev. Wm. F. Bain will preach at Buck-town to-morrow (Sabbath) morning, at 11 o'clock, at Friendship Church at Eldridge. It will cost the citizens of Cambridge ten thousand dollars to keep all active work in its continuance.

Farmers on the line of the Dor. & Del. railroad should avail themselves of the present opportunity of securing shells in sufficient quantity to lime all their lands.

The lecture of Miss Jennie V. Stanton, M. D., at the Court House on Tuesday evening was a most ably written production and very beautifully delivered. The lecture was well attended. Some of our young men are still debating in their minds what they shall do with their girls.

A large force of ship carpenters are now employed both at the yard on the point at and the Cambridge marine railway, and Mr. Johnson, the proprietor of this railway, is needing twenty-five or thirty more skillful mechanics. The employment will be constant during the season.

Hon. Daniel M. Henry has appointed Master Pearce Crisfield, of your county, to the vacant cadetship at the U. S. Naval Academy. The young man is a grandson of Hon. John W. Crisfield on the one side, and ex-Senator James Alfred Pearce on the other.

Mr. Wm. P. Mills has been appointed collector of taxes for Cambridge district, vice Wm. F. Drain resigned. The appointment is excellent and appropriate. Since Mr. Drain's appointment as book-keeper in the National Bank of Cambridge his time has been so absorbed that he could not attend to other business.

We notice that a number of our lumber men are still having their cord wood cut instead of sawed. Nothing can be more stupid or unbusiness like than cutting cord wood now, as the cost of sawing it is only about ten cents a cord more, and the same quantity of wood will bring from one to two dollars more in any city market.

The ice embargo broke up here a week ago, and all the ice has disappeared from the Choptank and harbors. All the oyster boats left the harbor for the oyster rocks on Monday and commenced work, returning loaded on Wednesday, on which day all the oyster houses resumed work; and now the hard times with the poor are over for this season.

The directors of the Cambridge Agricultural Society have called a county meeting of farmers at the Court House, on Tuesday, March 8th, to select delegates to represent this county in the Farmers' Convention, which is to meet at Salisbury, March 29th, 1881. It is hoped that a full representation will be in attendance from each and every district in the county.

The overseer on Appleby road has shelled a part of said road, and the improvement of that part over the mire and mud contiguous to it is so great that every traveller feels thankful even for a quarter or half mile of good road. The people in all sections of Dorchester county are now relying upon the growth of Cambridge and district, and the increase of property here, to compensate for the decline of property in many other districts, and the district certainly ought to have all the advantages in improvements possible; but instead of this there is less done for this section, proportionate to its importance, than any other part of Dorchester.

The steamer Enoch Pratt arrived here on Wednesday morning on regular time, and will hereafter run on her usual trips as advertised. The steamer left Cambridge at 7.30 P. M. almost sunk with freight, and for a week or two the company will reap a golden harvest in freight. Cambridge is becoming the emporium of trade of the Eastern shore. It is here that the steamers find their heaviest freights. It is here that other three large steamers are constantly engaged in catching and shooting oysters for the oyster houses located here.

The county commissioners were in session three days of this week. The meeting on Monday was for the purpose of examining and cancelling county orders, coupons and other vouchers accompanying county treasurer's statement of receipts and disbursements for three months ending December 31st, 1880. Tuesday and Wednesday accounts were examined and ordered to be paid to the amount of $1400, the most of which was for lumber and work on the public roads. The bond of William P. Mills, appointed collector of taxes 1880, District No. 7, vice Wm. F. Drain resigned, was approved and ordered to be filed for record in the clerk's office. The county treasurer was directed to charge Sheriff James with $298,57 for fines placed in his hands for collection, as per statement of the clerk of the Circuit Court, and to allow the sheriff a commission of six per cent. on the said amount when paid. Adjourned to meet Tuesday, March 8th, 1881.

One of the wise men who knows everything declares that in a few years every physician in the country will prescribe Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup to his patients. We believe it.

For Rent—The second story of the Masonic Temple, Cambridge. Apply at this office.

This has been the first week since last November that ship carpenters and other out-door laborers have been enabled to make full time.

Acadamy street should be extended at once to the county road leading to East New Market, and a street commencing on Race street near Mr. Moler's blacksmith shop to intersect Acadamy street should also be opened. These proposed streets would add fifty per cent. to the value of the land through which they would pass, and if divided into building lots and put on the market at a fair price they would find ready purchasers.

Mr. L. J. Ballard, the popular clerk of the Cambridge Hotel, has received the appointment of agent for the Maryland Steamboat Company at Cambridge, in place of Mr. Joseph Bradshaw, who some time since resigned the position. Mr. Ballard will find his duties in his new vocation much more arduous than at the hotel; but then the pay is better, and he is an active, athletic man, and we have no doubt will give the utmost satisfaction to our people and look well to the interests of his employer, who is a great favorite with the people.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Building Association on Thursday evening the following named officers were elected: President, J. Benj. Brown; Vice President, Thos. E. Dail; Secretary, Jas. W. Waddell; Treasurer, Geo. J. Meekins. Messrs. Thos. E. Dail, J. W. Waddell and Geo. J. Meekins were appointed a committee to receive subscriptions. The secretary and treasurer were instructed to procure the necessary books for the use of the association, and to have the by-laws printed. The by laws adopted contain some excellent provisions, and practically insure that the association will be conducted on strictly business principles. Mr. Henry Lloyd was appointed attorney for the association.

Work Again

We suppose there are at least one hundred operatives employed and actively at work to day within eighty yards of our office. This force is employed at the wharves, marine railway, Wallace & Son's oyster canning establishment and Meekins & Phillips oyster packing house. Next week the number of employes at work in these places will probably be doubled.

Mail Routes in Dorchester.

The longest mail route is over the Dor. & Del. railroad, and carried by the railroad company for $1200. Williamsburg to Crotcher's Ferry, by John Medford, at $89. Linkwood to Drawbridge, by S. W. Corkran, at $220. Cambridge to Hill's Point, by C. B. Frazier, at $179. Cambridge to Taylor's Island, by Z. T. Carpenter, at $394. Taylor's Island to Bishop's Head, by J. W. Jones, at $237 Golden Hill to Hoopersville, by N E. Gore, at $239. The route from Baltimore to Cambridge via the Maryland Steamboat Co. is not included in the above, as it belongs to what is [illegible]

Explosion of a Saw Mill and Narrow Escape of Life.

On Monday afternoon the steam saw-mill of Calvert Orem, in Town Point, exploded, throwing the huge boiler sixty feet from its foundation, and scattering ruin and devastation in every direction. Mr. Orem was standing a few feet from the mill, and was fearfully scalded about the head, face, hand and arm, and his right leg was severely bruised. The concussion threw him ten feet from where he was standing, and the shock to his nervous system, together with his other injuries, was so great that for a day he was scarcely able to move a limb. Dr. Steele was summoned immediately and rendered all possible medical assistance. Mr. Orem is now considered out of danger.

Sale of Town Property.

Col. C L. Burnet sold on the 16th instant his residence on Glasgow street, in Cambridge, to D M. Henry, jr., for $2,500. This is very desirable property, and the best bargain sold in town for years.

Sheriff Jas. G. James has purchased the property of Mr. Wm. Grason, consisting of a lot, store-house and out-buildings, on the corner of Race and Cedar streets, for $1,500, and will immediately improve the property by adding another story to the store-house.

Mr. Jas. S. Shepherd, as administrator, has sold the lot on which the Chronicle building stood to Mr. John G. Harley for $500. The Cambridge Nat'l Bank purchased through its president, W. H. Barton, jr., the lot on which the dwelling of Miss Jane Brown was burned for $2,000. Mr. Harley will at once proceed to erect an excellent store and dwelling, and the other lot will be improved by a commodious and convenient building for banking purposes.

"I have met [illegible] in the banks, and business has been great, much greater than I ever anticipated To my people up in the Institute—young men and women—I am continually saying, "Never run in debt, pay as you go"—Peter Cooper.

"The credit system is the curse of the country, and could it be removed the thrift of the United States would exceed even that of the people of France. It prepares the way for panics. The abolition of the credit system would probably prevent the occurrence of another panic like that of 1873—a calamity which many are beginning to predict to be near repetition. The person who adopts Peter Cooper's rule of life, strictly adhering to the cash system of business, will never have reason to regret it"—Cecil Whig.

Credit, like all other systems, has two sides. We are very intimately acquainted with a gentleman that would have been in all human probability to day a poorly paid teacher, instead of owning and conducting the largest business possessed by any one individual in the county, had it not been for a judicious use of credit The man who unnecessarily goes in debt for luxuries, display, or articles to be consumed, is a fool. The man that refuses to make judicious investments because he incurs a debt that he could easily control, is no better.

[COMMUNICATED.]

MR. EDITOR: The recent fire and the usual talk about establishing fire companies, &c., has so engrossed the public mind lately that it has operated severely against the Blackwater Canal scheme and other very important enterprises which are to follow. Fires, of any magnitude, are always great drawbacks to the commercial advancement of a town, but in this instance it has indeed proved a serious obstacle to the bright future held out to us a few weeks ago. It is not only the grand Blackwater Canal scheme which has thus suddenly been ruthlessly torn from the public mind and attention, to give place to the commonplace topic of how to renovate an old fire engine, but with the canal has fallen one of the greatest ventures of the nineteenth century. We have it from undoubted authority that a number of energetic and speculative persons contemplated incorporating an Air-boat company, to be propelled at an incredible velocity by a newly-invented motor, on the practical workings of which we were soon to have been enlightened in a speech from a distinguished gentleman from abroad. The friends of this enterprise claim that one of their boats would leave Cambridge at an early hour each morning for Paris, (just think of it!) stopping along the route and making close Shorter's wharf, Blackwater canal at spring chickens and other articles of produce in the Parisian market by 10 o'clock, and returning with the European mails by early tea time, stopping at Shorter's wharf on the return to deliver empties. It would be useless to expatiate on the incalculable benefit to be derived. The advantages of the Parisian market to our people, besides establishing a thoroughfare for the great west, are sufficient in themselves to recommend the measure to all unprejudiced minds, (excepting the old fogies, who, we are happy to say, are now almost extinct in progressive Cambridge.) The danger now, however, is that since the drawback to the canal, the parties interested may look for other fields wherein to establish this great enterprise, and before we are aware of our indolence we will wake to realize the fact that another section is reaping the benefit of our lost opportunities. Its successful establishment is in the words of Soakspeare "a consummation devoutly to be wished," and before it is too late, I wish to submit a proposition for the consideration of our good people, which if followed without delay will, in my estimation, accomplish all desired results. It is this: Open up the books for the Blackwater canal immediately; get out a prospectus; advertise and invite capital,—something like this:

PROSPECTUS:

"The Only Direct Grand Trunk Canal to Fishing Bay!

Uniting the great waters of the Chesapeake with the Choptank!

An Unprecedented Opportunity for Permanent Investment!

First Instalment, $50,000—shares $1000 each.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES:

Carolus Motor Senator, [illegible]
Ephraim Vanderbilt, Tuckahoe Neck.
Monsieur Lesseps Eads, Barbadoes Point.
Counselor, Uriah Cheatum, Esq.
Secretary, Thaddeus Goosequill, Esq

The necessity of a direct line of communication through the fertile and populous district known as Blackwater has long been felt and universally acknowledged. The surpassing grandeur of mountain scenery and its importance as a summer resort are well known to all students of geography.

It has been calculated by the most eminent authority that every acre in Blackwater is capable of rearing twenty head of cattle, and as has been ascertained after a careful survey, that there are not less than 50,000 unprovable acres immediately contiguous to the proposed canal, it may be confidently assumed that the number of head of cattle to be conveyed along the route will amount to one million annually, which, considering the state of the beef market, would yield a larger revenue in proportion to the capital subscribed than any canal, (not excepting the Chesapeake & Ohio) as yet completed in the United States.

From this estimate the traffic in bull-turtles, muskrat skins and mud shad have been carefully excluded it having been found quite impossible from its extent to compute the actual revenue to be drawn from this most important branch. The population of Blackwater is so dense as to be black. Its situation affords its inhabitants means of direct communication with the Atlantic seaboard. Minerals are most abundant. Among them may be reckoned brass, zinc, nickle, pure bronze and the finest bell metal. The grading along the route is all level and the curves all straight. The only improvement of any importance will be a Suspension Bridge over Mapledam for the accommodation of pedestrians and the travelling public generally

In conclusion, the projectors of this great thoroughfare through the heart of Blackwater have resolved to make no discrimination as to the rates of freight, but will make their tariff for way business proportionally as low as for through freight and travel.

By order of the Board, Mr. Editor, and a strict observance of the proposition as laid down above, we may soon see this great enterprise in full operation, and then will follow the greater enterprise—the all-important air-boat line. Then will the wilderness be reclaimed, and the fertile valleys of Blackwater will be fringed with her shining towns and smoking factories, the sound of the hammer and saw will resound along her rocky banks, and the home of the bull-frog, the owl and the mosquito will be known in her fair borders no more forever. When this is all accomplished then will it be time, and not before, for our people to turn their attention to such minor projects as a proposed canal to be known as the Chesapeake & Delaware canal, and a proposed Railroad, now slumbering, and to be known as the Fox Creek Railroad.

Look out for the fruit and ornamental tree swindling agents. It is about time they were around. These men go to our seriess and buy any kind of fruit trees such as the nurserymen will not send their customers, and sell them to Dorchester fruit-growers as the finest varieties. If you want fruit or ornamental trees give your order to Mr. Wm. M. Bride, and you will get exactly what you order.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN ON THE LOSS OF MANHOOD
A LECTURE on the Nature, Treatment, and Radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the Green Book," &c.
The world-renowned author, in this admirable lecture, proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
☞ This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps. Address the Publishers,

More Truth than Poetry.

It is positive—nobody can deny—
That at the Baltic, Branch Store you can buy
Dry Goods, Notions, Millinery, Fancy Goods,
Ladies' Coats, Dolmans and Childrens' Hoods—
In fact, everything found in a First-class Store—
Which we sell at prices that make the Merchants so sore,
As for truth and competition, any of them we defy;
Our motto, (what of George Washington?) "never tell a lie."
O, do you remember, before the Jew Store was here,
How you had to pay for everything so dear?
Please think of this—I won't say any more—
If you're in need of Dry Goods, buy them at the Jew Store.
HENRY MAYER, Proprietor.
