BAILIFF'S NOTICE.

THE subscriber has received the Town Levy List, for 1835, and will furnish each person with a bill of his tax some time in the course of next week. As the act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed November, 1793, chap. 66, sec. 2, requires that the Bailiff shall account to the Commissioners of the Town for the amount of such list, at the end of two months after the receipt of the said list, and as the subscriber indulged last year sundry persons who are yet delinquents to his great inconvenience, he is determined to seize and sell, without further notice, the goods and chattels of all persons failing to pay their town tax within twenty days from the receipt of their tickets. This determination he will most assuredly adhere to, in accordance with the positive instructions of the Commissioners.

DISSOLUTION.

THE copartnership heretofore existing under the firm of J. & R. VALLIANT is this day dissolved by mutual consent They have taken a counting room in the store of Mr. Wm. F. Ruderatun, No. 6 Light street wharf, for the purpose of making a final close of their business in Baltimore, where one of the late firm (or Robert Valliant, their clerk, who is equally authorized,) may always be found to receive any money that may be offered, or attend to any other matter connected with their business. We need not remind our friends, as all must be aware, that, to make a speedy settlement with our creditors, they must make to us prompt payments, as the former depends exclusively upon the latter, and as we do not wish to remain longer in Baltimore than the last of this month to close our business heres We shall regard it as a special favor if our friends will make us as large payments a they can in all this month.

POETRY.

Written for the Saturday Courier.

THE SAILOR'S GRAVE.

No useless coffin cramped his limbs,
Nor cased his manly breast;
The rank sea-weed was all his shroud,
His tomb the sea-bird's nest.

No chaplain o'er him chanted prayers
For his departed soul;
His dirge the foaming billows sing
As o'er his form they roll.

His hapless fate the wild sea-bird's,
With bitter croakings tell,
And nothing but the howling wind
Vibrates his funeral knell.

He sunk unnoticed and alone,
On some rich coral bed
To sleep until the mighty trump
Shall wake the slumbering dead.

He sunk, the brave, the generous tar,
Between the mountain wave,
Then let each sympathetic heart
Mourn o'er the sailor's grave.

From the Charleston Courier.

LINES.

Sleep on, thou fair and beauteous one,
Light may thy slumbers be
Near thee, unseen, unknown, I come,
Thy faithful guard to be.

When in the gay and brilliant throng,
All eyes are bent on thee;
Thou canst not hear my humble song,
Thou dost not think of me.

Faithful I come, when others sleep,
And the proud day is o'er,
I come to watch thee and to weep,
Unheard, thy love implore.

Sleep on, thou sweet and lovely one,
From care and sorrow free;
Nightly, unseen, unknown, I come,
To watch and weep by thee.

LOVE BALLADS.

MARY'S ADDRESS TO WILLIAM.

I your loving sweetheart still am,
Lovely, sprightly, manly William;
For if love should ever kill
Thou mayest die, my lovely Will.
But if that should chance to kill thee,
With that I'd woo thee back, dear Willy;
My heart is now and ever will
Be linked to thine, my handsome Bill.
My love and truth must surely fill ye
With love for me my gallant Billy,
Should all forsake I'd love thee still,
Will, William, Willy, Billy, Bill.

WILLIAM'S ANSWER TO MARY.

Cheerful, cherry-cheek'd and chary,
Mild, majestic, modest Mary—
Void of Pride and free from folly,
Peaceful, prudent, pretty Polly—
Gayer than the gayest doll,
Is my modest maiden Moll—
Changeless as the unfading holly,
Is my mindful, mirthful Molly.
The moon, the stars, or brilliant Sol,
Are naught compared to thee, My Poll.
Adieu! I've shot my loves last volley,
Mary, Molly, Moll, Poll, Polly.

CUPID.

APOLLO COME TO JUDGMENT.—The good people of Michigan are invoking the muses in support of their claims to the disputed territory. One of their late papers contains a poetical production, commencing thus:

"A quarrel lately did begin
About a strip of land—
It seemed Ohio claimed this strip
And so did Michigan."

And concluding thus:

"Old Lucas, you had better stop,
You cannot get that land, sir,
For Uncle Sam will fight for us,
And we for Michigan, sir."

A SMALL AFFAIR.—A country editor, in speaking of a contemporary says,—"his soul is not large enough to fill the socket of a musquitoe's eye." Saturday Cour.

LYING—There was a famous problem among the Stoics, which ran to this purpose: "When a man says 'He,' does he lie or does he not? If he lies, he speaks the truth; if he speaks the truth he lies." Many were the books written upon this wonderful problem; Chrysippus favored the world with no fewer than six; and Philetus studied himself to death in his vain efforts to solve it. Ib.

"Who writ Shakspeare?" asked a literary gentleman, of an equally intelligent lady, a few days since. "Why!" cried the astonished blue stocking, elevating both hands, "don't you know? I am surprised! 'twas Miss Hemans, you ninny you." "Do tell, now! hang me, I always thought 'twas Miss Sigourney." —Ib.
