GOOD-BY.

There's a kind of chilly feeling in the blower of the breeze,
And a sense of sadness steals through the stress of the trees,
And a mist seems fallin' dreary on the mountain's crownin' high,
And I feel my clothes grow greasy as I bid you all good-bye!

"Good-bye" the winds are sayin' "good-bye" the trees complain,
As they bend low down an' whisper, with their green leaves weep with rain;
"Good-bye" the cows murmur, an' the birds fill the air,
As they fly to some other home—come to say good-bye.

I reckon all have said it some time or other soft:
And easy like, with eyes cast down, that dared not look back,
For the tears that trembled in them—for the lips that chided
When it came a-swellin' from the heart an' made it best good-bye!

I didn't think 'twas hard to say; but standin' here alone,
With the pleasant past behind me and the future in my view,
A gloomin' wonder in the dark—the tears come to my eyes,
An' the words like a woman as I bid you all good-bye!

The work I've done is with you; maybe some things went wrong,
Like a note that never made in the sweet flow of a song;
But don't forget when you think of me I only ask you
To say as the Master said of one, "He hath done what he could."

And when you sit together in the time as yet to be,
By your own contented firesides in the valleys far and free,
Let the sweet past come before you, and with something like a sigh,
Just say, "We ain't forgot him since the day he said 'Good-bye!'"

—F. L. Stanton in Home Tribune.

THEY WERE TOO SOFT.

Soldiers Dropped Their Hotel Because They Couldn't Sleep on Feather Beds.

In April, 1864, Gen. Sherman's command was in Covington, Ky. Cincinnati lies just across the river, and the temptation to visit it was too strong for men who had been for years enduring the privations of army life. A little party of them determined to go over and at the place of destination they found a fine place for the performance of this desire. They were to be expected to open their mouths and to let it all out. They were to be expected to open their mouths and to let it all out. They were to be expected to open their mouths and to let it all out.

THE ENGLISH ARMY'S BED.

The question having been raised in 1851, the Duke of Wellington asked Lord Stanhope, then war minister, what to do when the English army first went into the field, he was told that the custom dated from the time of Charles I. The duke thought it was earlier, and Lord Macaulay said that he was right, and that the Commonwealth army wore red. This was a great distinction in the eyes of the king, and the statement was wrong in more than one respect.

ORIGIN OF THE MATHEMATICAL SIGNS.

The sign of addition is derived from the Latin word "plus," in making the capital letter "P," which was made more and more carelessly until the top part of the p was placed near the stem, and the plus sign was finally formed.

The sign of subtraction was derived from the word "minus." The word was first written in the form of a horizontal line above the number to indicate the operation, then at last the letters were omitted altogether, leaving the short line.

HOPE AND FUTURE.

The hope of a better future is the foundation of all human progress. It is the light that guides us through the darkest of times. Without hope, life is a mere struggle for existence. With hope, we find the strength to overcome our darkest hours.

THE CHICAGO APOLLO COMMANDERY.

When Chicago's Apollo commandery of Knights Templar went on a trip to Europe, Judge Bradwell was the first to be elected as their party. Now wherever Judge Bradwell goes he is bound to inspect everything that is to be seen. In London the lord mayor gave a banquet for the commandery, with all the pomp and ceremony of such an affair. Judge Bradwell had a front seat, and, mayhap, a tab, on this rare occasion. The lord mayor's herald, who officiated at the banquet, wore a wig upon the top of which was perched a small three-cornered cock hat, boy's size. The report spread around the table that this was a 200-year-old hat. It certainly looked like one.

HONESTY OF WOMEN.

"Did you ever know a woman fail to return a borrowed umbrella?" asked a dealer in these articles, addressing a reporter.

"Nobody ever did," said the dealer, emphatically. "I have been a long time in the business of selling umbrellas, and I have never known a woman in connection with the borrowed umbrella fail to return it, whether it is a new one or an old one."

HOUSING IN HOLLAND.

The method of housing horses in Holland is a novel one. The animal is driven into a stout frame cage, the three feet on the ground are lashed so that no kicking can be indulged in, then the foot that is to be shod is lifted to the desired position and lashed fast to a stout cross bar so that the smith can work at it from all sides, as though the horse were placed in a white powder in a glass of water and said: "If you will go, drink this before you die!" It will prevent you from taking any more life, and can move the upper part at will, but it is rarely met with.

THE LARGEST SINGLE PENSION.

The largest single pension which has ever been awarded in this country was granted to Charles Flaherty, an engineer on the Vandalia road. It amounts to $13,070.

FLOOD TIDE.

The tide came up as the sun went down, and the river was full to its very brim, and a mile led crest up to the town. On the night water, in the morning dim, but that little boat with its red line ear brought news to the town that mud had swept from the people were never to see a before. And they never slept so sound a sleep.

SCARED BY AN OWL.

The Peril of Frightening Darkies with Panther Stories.

Speaking of owls, sometimes serious results arise from being frightened by owls. We were camped, ten of us, soon after our unpleasantness on board the Victoria and Albert. The deck is laid with cork floor cloth, over which, when the queen is on board, a carpet is placed, and everything else that is to be seen is of pure white, with gilded relief work and silver mountings.

THE QUEEN'S YACHT.

Features of the Floating Palace in Which Her Majesty Makes Cruises.

The exquisite cleanliness of everything strikes one as he steps on board the Victoria and Albert. The deck is laid with cork floor cloth, over which, when the queen is on board, a carpet is placed, and everything else that is to be seen is of pure white, with gilded relief work and silver mountings.

ONE DAY CHATTERING WITH BILLY.

"Mr. L. Mat says there are a good many panthers here, and that they'll keep a good lookout and have the ax handy. Did he tell you how he came to cut his foot? He said one day he was chopping, and when the ax was raised ready to strike, a panther screamed behind him in the timber, and he looked around suddenly and somehow the ax came down on his foot."

AN EPIGRAM BY HOLMES.

One of the choicest relics of the Bohemian club of Paris is a telegram message, framed under glass. It is a greeting sent to him by one of the dimmers of the club, which arrived so late in Boston that it found the doctor in bed. He was equal to the occasion, however, and immediately replied as follows:

HORRORS OF POMPEII.

But among all the beauties there are many horrors in Pompeii that leave lasting impressions. There are cast taken from the molds of ashes that encased the victims of the great catastrophe, showing their writings and agonies as plainly as though they had just died. There are signs of the daily life that was being lived when the ashes began to fall, occupations half done and suspended in the awful moments when the change became only too apparent.

SOFT COAL AS A DISINFECTANT.

The best of the soft coal dust that may have beneficial sanitary effects is gained from it. It is claimed that sulphur in the coal when burned gives highly disinfectant qualities, that it cures and its allied products are thrown off with the fumes of bituminous coal, and that an atmosphere charged with carbonic acid will be freed from germs of disease than an apparently purer air.

THE QUANTITIES OF SHAPE THEY TAKE.

Ears vary greatly in form and size, and the quantities of shape they take are sometimes given an index to the character of the individual. Women have much better shaped ears than men. They are usually much smaller, and lie close to the head. Some people possess a singular muscular power over the ear, and can move the upper part at will, but it is rarely met with.
