DON'T READ THIS!

"There is a place where I go
Where people like to go
They find the price low
This fall and winter.
I'll do no harm to tell
The place—do you know it well—
The looks and shoes they sell
At Blackiston's.
Some merchants think it nice
To get a double price.
They never sell you twice;
It takes gull.
With much exaggeration
They raise your expectation,
Wake your imagination;
It does pall—
Upon the ears of some
Who know their trade is won;
For they have seen it done
By Blackiston.
With best stock in the town
They keep the prices down;
Their patrons when in town
Never fail to call on Blackiston's.
This stock is more complete
Than any on Main street;
In prices they compete
With all.
They know the public voice,
Who found the place to trade,
And when they came they stayed
With Blackiston.
Don't stay behind my friend;
You'll regret it in the end,
You'll have a loss to mend,
You'll feel small.
Better take your silver,
Make a break for—
Blackiston's—
I am stuck; can't find a word to rhyme
With silver; and just eleven verses. 'Twill surely be unlucky. What shall I do?
Happy thought! I'll away to Blackiston's;
he will advertise for a rhyme.

TAKE NOTICE!

Blackiston offers a $3.50 pair of gent's waterproof (warranted) hand-made shoes to the first person who will bring to him two English words of two syllables each to rhyme with silver, so that the poet may find the 11th verse of this poem. This offer is good for ten days only.

GREEN HATED MEN IN SEVADA.

There is a curious effect wrought on the hair and beard of men engaged in the Martin White mine at Ward. The hair is frayed, but no disagreeable perfume arises from the heating process, yet there is some unknown substance that changes the hair, beard and eyebrows as green as grass. The color of the hair, but retains its softness and gloss. It is probable that the fumes of the green tint of copper contained in the ore change the hair to that color.—Virginia City Chronicle.

THE JOLLY MAN.

Long life to the jolly man. Wherever he goes the folks smile and welcome him, or behold the refreshment of a shower that turns the withered complexion of life green as an April meadow. I have no patience with the man who is not a jolly man. In fact, a proper diet would include these articles in comparatively small proportions, but meat and fruit in abundance. "It is all very well for vegetarians to claim that their diet is more cleanly, more refined, more economical and more healthful than ours, but you will find that they are not so healthy as we are. They are not so strong, and they are not so long-lived. They are not so full of life, and they are not so full of vigor. They are not so full of energy, and they are not so full of power. They are not so full of spirit, and they are not so full of soul. They are not so full of heart, and they are not so full of mind. They are not so full of love, and they are not so full of mercy.
