SATURDAY, June 6th, 1891. EDITORIAL NOTES.

President Harrison, to the delight of the McKinleyites, was recently photographed while standing by a huge mass of tin ore, with his hand resting upon it as the hand of a father rests with blessings upon the head of his firstborn. Now, let Secretary Foster be photographed with his hand resting keeping Furs and Plush Garupon the empty Treasury safe, and the story of this much lauded business administration will be complete and ready age of any kind.
