SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 1, 1901.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the decisions handed down Tuesday the Supreme Court of the United States has decided against the position taken by the Government on the great question of this country's new possessions. Four judges dissented from the opinion. In one of the famous cases known as the Insular test cases the court holds that Porto Rico is not a subject colony, but a Territory of this country, and that all taxes levied on goods imported from Porto Rico are illegal. The Government contended that a tax on imports from Porto Rico was legal and imposed such a tax. The Supreme Court's decision specially declares that this country cannot hold Porto Rico as a subject colony, but must regard the island as a Territory. Justice Brown delivered the opinion. In the most pronounced tones, Justice Brown declared that territory acquired by the United States by conquest or treaty, could not in any sense be considered foreign. In the Goetze case and Crossman case the Supreme Court also decided against the Government, holding that all tariffs on goods imported from Porto Rico and Hawaii are unconstitutional.

The serious illness of Mrs. McKinley has cast a shadow over an otherwise enjoyable trip and called forth universal sympathy. It is a matter of profound gratification, however, that she now is on the road to recovery. Her convalescence began, fortunately, in time to permit the President to attend the launching of the battleship Ohio—the event which led him to undertake the journey across the continent. The incident has brought out in strong light Mrs. McKinley's heroic effort to meet the responsibilities of her position, in spite of feeble health, while it has given new evidence of the tenderness and devotion of the chief executive—Mr. Bryan's Commoner.

After a very acrimonious debate between the United States Senators from South Carolina on Saturday night last, both agreed to resign and submit their respective claims to the people at the approaching election. McLaurin said in his opening speech that he had been accused, by Tillman, of deserting the South, and asked if Tillman had stood by the South in supporting Teller and Towne. Tillman sneered at his rival and challenged him to resign with him and go before the people. McLaurin accepted. Now there is a hot campaign ahead in South Carolina.

Quite a number of the members of the Democratic Editors' Association went to Fredericksburg, Virginia, on an excursion last week, and enjoyed a two-day's stay at that historic town. While en route the editors re-elected their officers for the ensuing year as follows: Joseph M. Streett, Belair, president; William B. Usilton, Chestertown, vice-president; Frederick Sasseer, Jr., Upper Marlboro, secretary and treasurer; George E. Haddaway, C. H. Vanderford, John W. Avirett, Francis V. King, and William J. Price, executive committe.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is now under the control of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Mr. L. F. Loree, fourth vice-president of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg taking the place of Mr. John K. Cowen. The two great lines will hereafter work in harmony, and it is understood that vast improvements are to be made in the train service of the Maryland road. Hereafter Mr. Cowen will have charge of the legal department of the Baltimore and Ohio.

In a recent lecture in Easton, Mr. A. W. Lightbourn said: "The twentieth century girl will express and illustrate a new womanhood; the soul, emotions, refinement and tendencies of the race. She will be the queen of the home and empress of society. She will differ from the nineteenth century girl, who was a composite, in that she will retain all the admirable qualities and develop the real sphere of the woman to almost ideal perfection."

The desire for the renomination of Dr. Joshua W. Hering for Comptroller of the State Treasury and the nomination of Hon. J. Frand Turner for Clerk of the Court of Appeals seems to be general. They will likely be the Democratic standard-bearers this fall. Where could two better men for such positions be found? The people will elect them beyond doubt.

Mr. A. Frederick Collins, of Philadelphia, has proved beyond cavil that telephone messages may be sent from one point to another, no intermediate wires being used. The messages, in fact, are carried from the telephone transmitter to the receiver by the agency of the natural currents of the earth.

General Fitz-John Porter, whose name has been before the country for years, more especially on account of his efforts, finally successful, to be reinstated in the army and be relieved of a court-martial sentence, died at Morristown, N. J., last week.

It takes $115 a year, says a statistician, to give a college education to the average American youth.

The State convention, to nominate candidates for Comptroller and Clerk of the Court of Appeals, will be held in Baltimore on the first day of August. It is generally believed by the members of the State Central Committee, who fixed the date at the meeting in Baltimore this week, that a long campaign will be to the advantage of the Democrats.

Ex-Senator Arthur P. Gorman, whose great delight is in beautifying and improving the appearance of "Fairview" his Howard county home, is now engaged in extensive improvements there in the way of new outbuildings. The Senator is said to have the finest-looking wheat field in all his neighborhood. He is now known as "Farmer Gorman."

There is ever a battle waging between an idler and time, the object being to kill each other.

PANAMA AND NICARAGUA.

A Washington letter says: "Having secured the Administration favor for the notoriously disreputable Panama Canal, the men who are manipulating the scheme to make millions by unloading the Panama Canal upon the United States are now working to create public sentiment in favor of the Panama Canal and against the Nicaragua Canal, and it cannot be denied that they are doing it cleverly. Some high-priced brain work is being put into articles given to the press, under Washington datelines and otherwise, in which advantage is taken to point out everything that can be called an obstacle to the Nicaragua Canal, and specious reasons are being given for changes of opinion among Senators and Representatives who favored that route. And the most is made of the opposition of England and its right to oppose the construction of the Nicaragua Canal, except upon conditions of which it approves. The latest reason is also being made use of by the Administration in an indirect way. Tips are given by prominent officials to the correspondents of influential Republican papers, hinting at the possibility of politieal complication with England, making it necessary to abandon the idea of a canal over the Nicaragua route, and, of course, those hints are reflected more or less in the matter sent from Washington. As yet, neither the Panama Press Agents, nor the Administration men venture to use names publicly, when speaking of Senators and Representatives who have changed their minds and now favor the purchase and completion of the Panama Canal, but privately the former are not so discreet.

"The news of this change in the part of the Administration toward the Nicaragua Canal has reached Nicaragus, and the Nicaraguan minister to the United States, who had gone home on leave of absence, has hurried back to Washington to do what he can for the interests of his government. He has notified the State Department that his government and that of Costa Rica, regard the procotol they signed last year with Secretary Hay, as committing the United States to the Nicaragua route, and barring the Panama route from consideration. That position is a strong one, too, but Nicaragua and Costa Rica haven't the pull with this administration that England has, and it may not help them any. If the Administration isn't careful it will make this canal question one of the leading issues of next year's Congressional campaign, as there are men in both the Senate and House—they are not all Democrats, either—who will do some talking that will stir the country during the next session of Congress if the Administration uses its influence to prevent Nicaragua Canal legislation, as it did the last session. Then it succeeded in keeping many quiet by putting up the plea that it would be a violation of International courtesy to stir the matter up while England was considering the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. There will be no such plea to use next winter."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

How soldiers, even those of the regular army, regard service in the Philippines is unmistakably shown by a bit of official correspondence just made public by the War Department. A number of regulars, now in the Philippines, whose term of enlistment will shortly expire, informed their officers that they would re-enlist if assured that they would be allowed to return to the United States when the organizations to which they belong were ordered home, and that assurance was given them in a letter from the Adjutant General's office, showing that the War Department has full knowledge of the discontent of the men with service in the Philippines.

Aguinaldo has been promised by Gen. McArthur that he would be allowed to visit the United States in the fall if the War Department did not object. The War Department will take the matter under consideration, and conditions in the Philippines will determine its final action.

Ex-Senator Mitchell, of Wisconsin, who has just returned from a sojourn of two years in Europe, has not changed his mind against annexation of foreign territory. He said: "I am as thoroughly opposed as ever to annexing people without their consent. I do not find such power given specifically in the Constitution, and without the power specifically indicated, I do not think we can do it. In addition to that I do not see either political or business sense in annexing the Philippine Islands."

SELECTION OF JURORS.

Mr. Wm. C. Smith writes a long article on the defects in the jury system, and says what is needed is a better selection of jurors. He adds: "There are good juries and bad juries. I have seen twelve men insist upon rendering a verdict of guilty even after the prosecuting officer has abandoned the case for want of sufficient evidence. I have heard the foreman of a jury render such an incongruous verdict as 'not guilty of burglary; guilty of murder.' Juries there have been which have permitted guilty men to escape in the face of the most convincing evidence; yes, in the face of an unqualified confession. But the good or evil of a system can no more be judged by particular instances than can the beauty of a house be conceived from a single stone. If one were to put down on one side of the ledger the bad done by juries, and upon the other side the good accomplished, there can be small question but that the balance would be largely on the side of the good. I do not mean to be understood as saying that we enjoy the best results from juries: on the contrary, there is much room for improvement. This improvement will not be found in the courts nor among the lawyers—save and except in New York—but among the citizens who are called upon to perform jury duty."

Mr. W. S. Whedon, Cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhœa. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by R. J. Colston, Denton; Hugh Duffey, Hillsboro; T. W. Smith, Ridgely.

A conference of congregations of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia at the Dunkard Church, near the College of St. James, closed on Sunday last.

A Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured.

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Carey, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed." Sold by R. J. Colston, Denton; Hugh Duffey, Hillsboro; T. W. Smith, Ridgely.
