School Cafeterias Go Modern

with new heavy duty Electric Cocking Equipment

Save Food, Labor, Time

Cooking for 600 - Harrington, Del.

"We make real savings by baking meat and chicken in these electric ovens. There's much less shrinkage," says Miss Hazel Johnson, manager of the Harrington school cafeteria. "We bake all meatseven ground meat—in large flat pans at low temperature, 325 degrees. Since the ovens are built to close tight, the meat keeps moist and

"And best of all when we're so busy preparing and serving meals by the hundred, we never have to watch and baste the meat. Only when it's time to serve, do we open the oven door."

Ah, time to eat! Georgetown, Del.

"The pot cannot call the kettle black in my kitchen," says Mrs. Charlotte Dennis, manager of the Georgetown school cafeteria. "With this clean electric heat there's never any need to scour the outsides of the big cooking pots. We clean up a half hour earlier than we used to."

For free information and help with plans for the cooking equipment in your local school cafeteria, go to the nearest office of Delaware Power & Light Co. or Eastern Shore Public Service.
