The Centreville Record made its appearance last Saturday in a new dress of type and, according to its venerable editor, Colonel W. Scott Roberts, it is a tailor-made suit. Be it tailor or custom made, it is a neat pattern, fits lovely, and adds greatly to its make-up, besides it is a pleas ure to its employes when it has to be pressed.

This proves we love peace and that we can commemorate this anniversary in a fitting manner.

The anniversary is not to be commemorated by over-indulgence in anything. Some people's Christmas consists of the possession of a filled bottle or jug. Does this make peace? On the contrary, does it not make a beast of the possessor and consequently, unease and unhappiness for all who come in contact with him? Again, some people's Christmas consists of exchange of presents-give to others because they get or expect one from them. We think this a time of charity and, do you know of any poor people or a little child who have not the necessaries of life, would you employ your spare change in giving them a little peace we think this would be entering into the true spirit of Christmastide. Again, we assert we are a peaceloving people and, especially now must we show it. Have your liquid refreshments if you please but use them moderately and considerately and thus be at peace yourself and lend enjoyment to others.
