Every cemmunity in the United States should conductits own safe ty campaign this summer, and each civic association, society or club as well as citizens with the well-being of the public at heart should take part.

The best way to reduce the number of accidents with which this nation is afflicted every year. is to convert the people who have them. Safety legislation resembles other mandatory laws. It cannot be enforced if the public does not want it. You can clutter up the statute books with regu'ations, but unless they are ofeyed 90,000 or more persons will continue to die by mischance every year and 25,000,000 will on tinue to get hurt, more or less severely, from all causes. With this will come the usual economic loss running into the billions. In automobile accidents along this loss running into the billions. In automobile accidents alone this loss will be $2,000,000,000 or

This tragic situation will not clear up until the people themtomabilists have been given the safest cars so far devised. Perfect highways, continuous signals with efficient, active traffic controls coupled with rigid enforcement are becoming the rule, yet something like 29,000 men, women a d children will be killed this year and 90,000 will be injurbands. The home is nearly as dangerous as the automobile. That is where a safetycampaign counts. It gets the lacts to the people, facts about home, office and factory dangers, facts about the pertis of sports on land, water and in the air, and above all, facts about the teriffic tol tak by au mental truths when he says: I know of no sufficient reason even in these times of emergence for government, to enter into cu throat competition with any pro perly managed industry. It canno be said that a further suppression of business or the extermination of a great industry will contribute to business recovery. What we most need is opportunity for the free and fair operation of all legitimate business and not the cres tion of government competition which would be carried on at the expense of already over-burdened taxpayers. It may be that the great invest ment at Muscle Shoals should be utilized and no longer allowed to remain as a wastefu! monume: t to government extravagance. If so, the government should co :tent itself with operation of the plant and turn its power development over to all comers, at the source, and not enter into a deliv. ery of electric energy to ultimate consumers over government-built and controlled transmission lines. his is a timely warning before cayers are completely sub-
