Dear Sir

We have considered the subject of the School Law and are of the opinion that the mode of levying the Tax for the ~~Teachers~~ Teachers salaries had better be made by the Levy Court, and that the expenses for the School Houses and other contingencies had better be ~~made~~ laid by the Trustees, but if the Law cannot be had for the L Court to lay the Tax it had better be left with the Trustees than remain as it now does we think a revision of the whole law would be best — and the whole thrown into a general law for the County — We think that all who are favourable to the present system would prefer the above plan

we are most respectfully
