L. H. BALDWIN,

The Ægis & Intelligencer

Bel Air, Md., November 25, 1887. HARVEST HYMN. Lord of the harvest, hear our praise;
A hymn of grateful joy we raise
To Thee, whose ever bounteous hand
Has crowned with harvest-tide the land

Thy goodness marks the rolling year,
Thy gracious love is ever near;
Lord, let the fruit of charity
Be gladly rendered back to Thee. We thank Thee for the power and will Some corner of Thy field to till. Oh, purify our hearts, that we May give ourselves, oh, Lord, to thee. When, in a world of light and love,
We keep the harvest-home above.
Let none, oh, Lord, be missing there
Of all who now are gathered here.

The Chrysanthemum. Next to the Rose no plant is now so popuvalued in Europe, where it forms the great was given in New York, some five have vied with New York in getting up these thousands of visitors. The fashion is now
