OF NEW YORK.

The man who buys a $30,000 Combination Policy of the Washington has a contract that secures to him, at maturity,

This sum of $45,000 is augmented by accumulations, if they are not banked upon for premiums.

Applying the "estimates" used by agents of tontine companies to the dividends of the Combination Policy, the result is amazing! "Estimates" are always misleading and untrustworthy. The "estimates" of tontines are by no means trustworthy. If they were, the holders would not seek redress from the Courts. The Combination Policy is a perfect contract. All it proposes to do is guaranteed in strong and simple terms: hence its superiority over all speculative, visionary, and uncertain forms of insurance. The Combination Policy has three distinct functions; by it a man se-
