A Supplement to an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance to open an alley twenty feet wide, between Lexington and Saratoga streets" - approved 16th July 1853.

Whereas by adhering to the lines for the opening of White alley as provided for by the ordinance to which this is a supplement, the same making it necessary if adopted to destroy in part several brick dwelling houses, by which great cost would be incurred and the public convenience would not thereby be promoted, now to prevent such great cost,

Be it Enacted and Ordained by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, that said alley be condemned and opened as follows, viz: of the width of Nineteen feet and nine inches, extending from Appleton street to Amity street, between Saratoga and Lexington streets; beginning for the north side of said alley on the west side of Appleton street, at the distance of one hundred and thirty six feet and six inches, more or less, southwardly from Saratoga street, at the S.E. corner of a one story brick house now belonging to C. Long; and running thence westwardly, parallel with Saratoga street to Amity street; and the south side of said alley to commence at the N.E. corner of Adam Wildermann's three story brick house, to be parallel with the north line as aforesaid and nineteen feet and nine inches therefrom.
