President Cleveland may well speak boldly in favor of tariff reform, as his views on the subject were sustained by a majority of the American people, in the recent election. He denonnces the inequality of the present

He points out to Congress a number of things requiring attention, such as changes in our laws respecting public lands, our Indian policy, &c., to all of which the attentior of Congress has already been directed. AT PEACE WITH THE WORLD.

President Cleveland announces with satis faction that we are at peace with the whole world, all the little matters of difference with foreign powers being in a way to be satisfactorily adjusted.

He invokes the immediate attention of Congress to the Canadian question, and refers to the dismissal of Lord Sackville, the British minister, in fitting terms. OTHER TOPICS ADVERTED TO. He recommends a survey of the boundarie between Alaska and Canada, and mentions the Samoan question and also the question of the preservation of our supremacy in the Hawaiian Islands.
