The clamor of French influence has nearly ceased; it is now only kept up by the lowest of the Opposition scribblers-but, every day furnishes new circumstances, which authenticates the belief, or rather the conviction, that there is an English influence, seeking, both by open and secret plans, to divide and subvert the independence of the United States .- Those writers among us, who have attained to a certain degree of literary eminence, would do well, therefore, seriously to consider, whether by lending their names and talents to a desperais Faction, they do not lessen their reputation, encourage the enemy, and endanger the Republic?

It is rumored, and we believe correctly, that Gideon Granger is superceded in the office of Postmaster-General, by the nomination by the President to the Senate, of RETURN J. MEIGS, now Governor of Ohio, to fill that office. Nat. Intel.

THE LAST CAMPAIGN.

We have hertofore expressed the regret we felt at our inability to lay before our readers, in extenso, as a diplomat would say (in plain English, at full length) the Report of the Secretary of War, on the subject of the last campaign. That regret has been much increased by a subsequent perusal of many of the papers comprised in that report. They are, whether we view them in relation to the result of the campaign, to the merits of the Secretary of War, of the general officers having command, or as indicat ing a remedy for past evils, of high importance. Their great length, however, precludes the possibility of our copying them for the present, though we certainly intend to do so at a future day; and an abbreviation or summary of their contents would afford but a partial view of the whole ground. It is not improbable, we think, that some military enquiry will be instituted into the conduct of one or more of the principal commanders on the northern frontier during the months of October and November last. It appears to be the general impression, since the promulgation of this report, that there was misconduct somewhere, but for which a different result might have attended the termination of the campaign.-If so, the result of such an enquiry, as it is rumored is about to be held, will determine where the blame ought to attach.

In Chancery, Feb. 23, 1814. James M'Causland John Smith.

The object of the bill filed in this cause, is to obtain a decree to record a deed given by John Smith to Robert Rusk. The bill states that the defendant John Smith, on the 12th day of October, 1805, executed a deed to Robert Rusk for all that part of a Lot number 42, it being a part of a tract lying in Baltimore County called Orange; that the said Robert Rusk omitted to have the said deed recorded within the time required by law; that the said omission did not proceed from any fraudulent design or intention on the part of the said Rusk; that the said Robert Rusk, on the 22d day of September, 1813, executed to the complainant a deed for the land before mention-The bill also states, that the said John Smith resides out of the state of Maryland. It is thereupon adjudged and ordered, that the complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted once in each of three successive weeks, in the American before the first day of April next, give notice to the absent defendant of the substance and object of the bill, that he may be warned to appear in this court in person, or by a solicitor before the first day of Au. gust next, to shew cause if any he has, why a decree should not pass as prayed.
