In order that I may correct any false impression growing out of such representations, I will be obliged if you umns of your paper, that any statement of the sort is unequivocally false.

Such reports do not perhaps injure one, but it is right, in such matters, that no misapprehensions should arise. I desire, therefore to deny emphatically the report, and state to my fellow citizens that my name will be before the Convention, and that I hope to receive the votes of a majority of its members.
