

until exhausted by hunger and the numerous wounds they had received from the different parties out in search of them, they were at length taken, and shortly after hung, in presence of the rest of the regiment, who were taught to believe that a similar fate awaited them.

A Gibraltar paper of the 30th of May expresses a fear that general Wanchop had been killed, and general Meade severely wounded at Rosetta.

The account of lieutenant Pike and his party being cut off by the Indians is totally unfounded. The latest information entitled to credit states, that his party having missed their route, and passed from the Red river to the Rio del Norte, in the territory of Spain, had been arrested in their course in the month of February, by a detachment of Spanish troops and taken to Santa Fee, and thence to Chihuahua, the residence of governor Salcedo, who had treated them with great attention, and given them liberty to return to the U. States.

COMMUNICATION.

A Citizen over the age of 45, begs leave to suggest the propriety of forming a company of such persons as are exempted by law from military duty. This association will be for the purpose of defending the city, when the young men are absent. Such an association formerly existed, and at this time it will be particularly proper, because it will set an example of patriotism to the younger members of society, & sanction all that they have already done to defend their country and support its independence.

Extract of a letter from Lexington, (K.) to a gentleman of Chillicothe, dated July 15.

"Mr. Blannerhasset was arrested in this place yesterday, and Thomas Todd, circuit judge of the United States, has directed the marshal to take him on to the city of Richmond, in Virginia, where he has been indicted for high treason. He is confined in the jail of this place, until the marshal is ready to proceed with him."

Extract of a letter from the Huron, dated July the 15th, 1807, to a gentleman in Washington.

"Unfortunately, sir, I am under the disagreeable necessity to inform you that the yellow fever and black vomit rage violently amongst the crews of our vessels, and some of the citizens of the United States who are now in this city."

"I have not heard that any other class of people than the citizens of the United States have been afflicted with this horrid distemper. Whether it is owing to their intemperate manner of living, which has been sometimes carried to excess even here, and in the most fatal season of the year, is what I cannot undertake to say; but I fear that example and danger will not teach many of my countrymen to be more moderate even in this critical moment than at any other period."

It is now said to be very nearly ascertained, that the grand point in dispute between the United States and Great Britain, the unsettled state of which point occasioned the return of the British treaty by the president, without submitting it to the senate,—is this:

Whether the United States will insist, at all hazards that Great Britain shall stipulate by treaty, that the American flag shall protect all seamen and passengers sailing under it, even if such seamen and passengers be British, Irish or Scotch deserters, emigrating subjects, or refugee traitors; and that all vessels bearing the American flag be exempt from search after such persons, in the seas which border on the British islands as well as on the high seas.

On the full attainment of this immunity the president of the United States, it is said, has resolved to insist. On the other hand, the British government declares, that such an admission would tend to destroy the existence of Great Britain as a maritime power, and of course leave her an easy prey to her enemies; and therefore cannot be assented to. This being the fact, the point in controversy becomes highly momentous; and immense interests, and perhaps the lives of thousands, are at stake thereon.

[Boston Centinel.]

From a London paper of May 18.

The report which was spread yesterday of an order, which it was pretended had been given by the admiralty to seize all the American vessels which were in our ports, was without foundation. But we believe that instructions have been given to our cruisers to detain hereafter such American vessels as shall not be destined for England, or for the ports of which the British government has not expressly interdicted, the entry to their vessels by these instructions.

Further, the government of the United States appear to yield at this moment and to shew amicable rather than hostile dispositions. President Jefferson has lately issued a proclamation, prolonging the importation of British goods, to the second Monday in December next. The treaty concluded between Great Britain and the United States, has been sent back by the American government, to be revised, and submitted to a new discussion; and there is great appearance that the difficulties will be amicably adjusted between the two nations.

New-Orleans, July 3-7.

Arrived, ship James Madison, Peniston, Bordeaux; brig Pelly, Hudson, Charleston; schr. Mary, Vriгнаud, Havana; Eunice and Sally, Hawes, Boston; Blossom, Adams, Baltimore; George Washington, Boston, Jamaica.

Cleared, ship Pheton, Chruisides, Charleston; brig Mary, Fuberty, Liverpool; Prudence, Honore, New-York; Mentor, Erno, Havana; brig Bellisarius, Lauve, Bordeaux.

DREADFUL FIRE.

Essex, Friday Evening, 8 o'clock.

This city has been in the utmost consternation all this day, as one of the most destructive fires has happened that ever was witnessed in the west of England, viz. the town of Chudleigh, nine miles from hence, on the great Plymouth road, has been on fire ever since ten o'clock this morning, and the whole place is nearly consumed; the Clifford Arms and Kings Arms, with the three other inns, are all in ashes; the last coach (which arrived here just now) was obliged to go through a field, and with difficulty escaped, though the coachman was much burnt. Of the few houses that remained most of them were on fire when the coach left the place; but we have not yet heard of any lives being lost. During the conflagration, several explosions of gun-powder took place, as a quantity was kept in the town for the purpose of blowing up ships. It is said it broke out at a baker's shop. I am told the fire will occasion a delay in the mail to-night, unless they pass by some bye-road. Recollecting their way no post to night, I intend going to-morrow to survey the ruins.

Saturday Night.

The devastation that the devouring element has effected, is beyond all power of description; there is no resemblance of what the town was before. The spectacle is affecting and distressing to the utmost degree. Nothing is left but a few detached houses at the entrance of the town. The whole body of the place presents to the eye nothing but chimneys and walls, that appear like ancient ruins. The number of houses destroyed is computed at 175. Tents and various necessities have been going all day from this city, for the accommodation of the sufferers.—Several troops of the military have also marched to render their assistance. The right worshipful the mayor of Exeter has called the inhabitants this evening to consider of the most effectual means of affording relief.

To the President of the United States.

We, the officers and privates of the Rifle Company of Baltimore, known by the "Union Guards of Liberty," attached to the 27th regiment Maryland militia, commanded by Lieut. Col. William Lowry, conscious that at this threatening conjuncture our country is entitled to every man's utmost efforts in her cause, and that zeal for her interest, and an ardent preparation for the worst, is the most effectual method of either arresting war or of shortening its duration, tender to you, sir, their unanimous service, in avenging the insulted honor and outraged rights of the United States; and in case the collected wisdom of the country shall resort to the last dreadful alternative, they shall hold themselves ready upon your order, to march at a moment's warning to any part of the United States that your excellency may think proper to order them. In behalf of the company, we have, sir, the honor to subscribe ourselves,

Your obedient humble servants,
WM. WOODLAND, Captain.
CHARLES STANSBURY, Lieutenant.
JOHN YOUNG, Ensign.
Baltimore, July 27, 1807.

To captain William Woodland, the other officers and privates of the Rifle company of Baltimore, known by the "Union Guards of Liberty" attached to the 27th regiment of Maryland Militia, commanded Lieut. Col. William Lowry.

The offer of your services in support of your country, merits and meets the highest praise; and whenever the moment arrives in which these rights must appeal to the public arm for support, the spirit from which your offer flows—that which animates our country, will be their sufficient safeguard.

To the legislature will be rendered a faithful account of the events which have so justly excited the sensibilities of our country, of the measures taken to obtain reparation, and of their results, and to their wisdom will belong the course to be ultimately pursued.

In the mean time it is our duty to pursue that prescribed by the existing laws, towards which, should your services be requisite, this offer of them will be remembered.

I tender, for your country, the thanks you so justly deserve.

TH: JEFFERSON.
