

the island? A No. Q What did you think of this expedition to settle Oaschita lands. Mr. Burr. Were the persons who went from the island young, active men? A Yes. Mr. Burr. What kind of looking men were they? A They looked like gentlemen, such as you would expect to see upon their own property. Q Did they look like men used to work? A They did not. The witness added, that Mrs. Blannerhasset was at the boats when they started; and that the night was rainy and freezing.

Examination of Dudley Woodbridge.
Mr. Burr. Were you on the Island, when Blannerhasset's party left it? A I slept there on that night. Mr. Burr. What party do you mean? A I allude to the 4 boats, with Mr. Israel Smith, Comfort Tyler and others. Q Were you at the boats? A I passed them about dusk. Q Did you see any of the boats, and about 15 or 20 men together in one of the rooms of the house? Q What do you conceive was the whole number? A About 30. Q Was it about dusk when you arrived there? A It was. Q Had they any arms in their hands when you saw them? A No: I recollect no arms, but 2 pair of pistols on the bureau of the room where I slept: which were gone in the morning. Mr. Burr. Will you inform us of what you know on this subject.

Mr. Woodbridge. About the beginning of September or the last of August, Mr. Blannerhasset in company with col. Burr call at our counting-house at Marietta, I had been connected in commercial business with Mr. Bl. for 6 or 8 years past, under the firm of Dudley Woodbridge & Co. Mr. Bl. observed, that col. Burr wished us to purchase a quantity of provisions. Col. Burr went into the inquiry about the price of different kinds of provisions, and the expense of boats best calculated to carry those provisions up and down the river. After his making a number of inquiries and my giving him all the information that I could, he left a memorandum of such provisions as he wanted and of the boats that he wished to have built. They were to be on the Shenectady model; 10 feet wide and 50 feet long. This memorandum ordered 15 of them; but 10 only were completed. Q What provisions were ordered? A Pork, Flour, Whiskey, Bacon and kiln-dried meat were wanted; but no articles were to be purchased except the Pork, unless they came under certain prices. Next day I made contracts with col. Barker for building the boats & proceeded to make arrangements for purchasing provisions. The boats were built up the Muskingum about 7 miles above Marietta, and were to be brought down by the 9th of December. On the morning of the 9th I saw 6 or 8 armed men going to take possession of the boats. I went down to Blannerhasset's Island; but met Blannerhasset, Comfort Tyler, Smith and a number of men from Bel-Pre going up to take the boats; I informed them of the proceedings that morning at Marietta, and advised Bl. not to go. They held a consultation and returned to the island. I returned to Marietta to get some necessary papers and in the evening returned to the Island.

Mr. Burr. On what terms was the contract for the boats made? A I made the contract for the boats with col. Burr. He wished to give me a draft on Ogden in New-York for payment. With this arrangement I had expressed myself dissatisfied, and Blannerhasset asked with some warmth, whether I doubted col. B's honor. After some altercation, he consented to guarantee the draft; and to have it charged to himself, if Ogden did not pay it. The draft presented by Blannerhasset to me was payable on the tenth December. It was finally paid by Mr. Ogden. Q By the tenor of your contract, where were the boats to be delivered? A At the island. A. At no particular place. But when col. Barker was bringing them down to Marietta, from about seven miles up the Muskingum; they were taken by General Buel as I understood, by the order of the Governor of Ohio. Q What occurrences took place on the island? A I arrived at the island about dusk. I saw five or six men at the landing; and 15 or 20 men in the rooms. I enquired for Mr. Bl. and requested him to be told, that I had brought my papers and money to settle our accounts. After our accounts were adjusted, I wished to leave the island on that night; but Mr. Blannerhasset turned me back. About 9 o'clock I retired to bed, where I remained; and as to what the witness says about seeing me out afterwards, he is mistaken. I was at the shore about 8 o'clock; but at Mr. Blannerhasset's request, returned. Mr. Burr. In having these boats built, did you understand that they were built for Burr, or for Blannerhasset? A It was not particularly specified. I thought there was very little distinction in the case, as Mr. Blannerhasset had secured the payment of them. As to the boats, Mr. Bl. made some communications to me respecting their use. Shall I state these circumstances now to the court? Early in September he mentioned to me that he had embarked in an enterprise with colonel Burr; that general Eaton and some others were engaged in it. He observed that their prospects were flattering; our next conversation lasted but a few minutes. The next week I was at the Island, and he then went into further particulars; and the inference I drew from his remarks was, that his object was Mexico. I inferred from the map which he showed me of that part of the country; he spoke highly of that country; of its fertility and its healthiness. He asked me if I had any disposition to join. I evaded his question; but could not forbear telling him that I thought my situation was better than a precarious one. Afterwards on his way up to Marietta, he requested me to say nothing of the conversation which had taken place. Q What articles did you furnish the prisoner? A I purchased no other articles than pork, and this was afterwards sold by general Buel, as I understood by order of the government. As to the boats they were fitted up by order of the United States to convey certain troops from Marietta to St. Louis.

Cross-examined.
Mr. Burr. Do you not recollect that I told you I had seen such boats used in the Mohawk river; and did I not complain of the clumsiness and inexperience of your ship builders? A You did. The boats were calculated for a shallow stream. Q At what distance could Mr. Blannerhasset distinguish a man from a horse? ten steps? A He is very near sighted; and when he reads, the book almost touches his nose. Q Is he a military man? A Not that I ever understood. Q What became of his library? A I understood that a part of it went down with M. Blannerhasset; the rest was left behind, and perhaps sold. Q What became of the draft on Mr. Ogden? A It was paid; amounting to 2000 dollars. Q How much pork did you purchase for me? A About 100 barrels. Q At what price? A It was charged to you at 13 dollars. Q What became of it? A I had it stored in Mr. Green's cellar, adjoining to our store, and it was afterwards sold by General Buel. Q And when seized, whose loss did you consider it; yours or mine? The witness (smiling.) I know not; it may hereafter become a dispute between us. Q What were the boats estimated to be worth? A The eleven boats amounted to 200 or 1500 dollars. Mr. Burr. Were you on that evening on the water's side, in company with Mr. or Mrs. Bl. ? A I was not.

Mr. Burr. You were asked, Sir, about Blannerhasset's military talents; permit me to ask you about his pecuniary resources. A I gave him 6000 dollars for his money of the profits of the stock; and there was besides about 3,000 dollars in stock. Q What was his fortune worth? how much cash could he command? A It was much less, I think than is generally supposed. He had 5 or 6000 dollars in the hands of his agent in Philadelphia. His landed property on the island cost him about 50,000 dollars a price which no man but himself or some one like him would have consented to have given. The improvements cost him about 10,000 dollars more. Q Had he no foreign funds? A I think he had none. The funds which he owned abroad had been vested in the American funds. His property by his father amounted to 20,000 which he vested in 3 per cents; exclusive of his property on the island, he was worth 17,000 dollars cash, and 4 or 5 negroes, over and above what he owed. Mr. Burr. Is he esteemed as a man of vigorous talents? A He is. It was the common opinion through the country that he had every kind of sense but common sense. Mr. Burr. What are his favorite pursuits? A Chemistry and music. Mr. Burr. Was not colonel B. to have returned to the island? A I believe so. I expected him to return in about two months, when his boats were to have been delivered. Mr. Burr. What was the size of the island? A Blannerhasset owned 180 acres, which were about the half of it, and cost him 5,000. Mr. Burr. Was not one of the boats fitted up for Mrs. Bl. and family? A One of the large boats was.

Q Which of the boats? A One of the 11 Mr. Blannerhasset had taken a keel boat, belonging to the firm up to col. Barker's to be fitted up for the reception of his family. Col. Barker advised him to have one of the large boats fitted up; on account of its superior accommodation. This was accordingly done. Mr. Burr. Had not the delivery of the boats been interrupted by the armed men, would not they have been delivered to Blannerhasset? A I suppose they would have been delivered at Marietta. I considered for my own part that it would have made but little difference whether delivered to the one or the other; as Mr. Blannerhasset had guaranteed the payment. Mr. Burr. Was not the contract made by col. B. with your firm? A It was Mr. Burr. Had I authorised you to deliver them to Blannerhasset? A No. Mr. Burr. If delivered to Blannerhasset would you not have considered yourself, as delivering them to one of Burr's associates? A I cannot say what I should have thought. Mr. Burr. Did you make any stay upon the beach, on the night of their departure? A I did not; for I returned immediately to the house with Mr. Bellap. Mr. Burr. Were the people peaceable on that night? A Yes. Q Did you hear any noise like that of war; the roaring of cannon or rattling of small arms? A None. Mr. Burr. Did you hear any alarms about the militia? A There was some in the evening. Mr. Parker (a juror) Did you see the president's proclamation on that day? A Not for three days afterwards. We received it by the mail. Mr. Burr. Did you hear any thing of it before? A I do not recollect. I believe a printer who had been at Pittsburgh brought some information about the enterprise being stopped. The proclamation might have been sent on by a dispatch before the mail arrived. Mr. Burr. Did you hear any thing of a state warrant? A No. I did hear that the legislature of Ohio was then sitting with closed doors, with Mr. Graham before them; and that it was supposed they could suppress the enterprise. Q Did you hear of any particular observations from any of the party on the islands? A I think that Comfort Tyler said he would not resist the constituted authorities, but he had no notion of being stopped by a mob. Mr. Burr. At the time he said so was the legislature of Ohio understood to be in session with closed doors? A It was.

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in London to the editor of Philadelphia Register, dated July 24th.

"The particulars of hard fighting between the French and Russians, the middle of last month, are by some supposed to be suppressed, in order to prevent too serious an effect on the funds, &c. &c. General Lyman, (the American consul here) thinks Bonaparte has given the conclusive stroke to the northern powers, that a peace on his own terms must ensue, and that speedily the coast of France will again be crowded with French troops, and a new threat of invasion. The conversations among the English and Russians of distinction here are, however, different, and directly the reverse of the ideas of gen. L."

"From what information I can collect, our ministers apprehend no difficulty with the new administration, relative to our treaty with England. But there is considerable apprehensions among the English merchants who have funds in America, lest a rupture may take place between the two countries. It is reported, and I fear it is correct that a new order of council has recently been issued, prohibiting our sea letter ships from the freedom of English ports—and perhaps they may extend it further. I am endeavoring to come at the real extent of this new order."

"Every thing appears otherwise to progress here in the usual way. There has been lately more demand for British manufactures; and the stocks on hand are not so heavy."

"It is generally believed, that although captain Whitty was acquitted, that it was not done in that honorable manner he could have wished—the proceedings, however, have not been promulgated."

"This must refer to the renewal of an existing order."

ROMOR
Postscript We stop the press to announce an arrival at Salem on Saturday from Europe, which brings London papers 6 days later than before received—among other articles, our informant adds, they contain the highly important news of a treaty between the United States and Great Britain being signed. [Newburyport paper]

We understand that capt. Sevier who has arrived at quarantine, from Antigua, reports, that previ us to his sailing, August 3d, admiral Duckworth arrived there from England, and that he had issued orders to the British cruisers on that station not to molest or interrupt American vessels. [Ibid.]

DEATH OF Commodore PREBLE
Extract of a letter from Portland, August 25, 5/8 P. M.
I address you with a heavy heart. Our valuable friend, commodore Preble, has this moment breathed his last. I have been with him frequently since my arrival here. He has never been much afflicted with pain, and in his very last moments not a struggle agitated his frame.

Arrangements, we understand, are making at Portland, that commodore Preble's obsequies, may evince the respect of his fellow-citizens for his distinguished character and eminent services.

Commodore Preble's funeral will probably be this afternoon, when it is understood the colors of the vessels in this harbor will be exhibited at half-mast.

Capt Glover of the Othello, has pointed out the following instances of incorrectness in our statement. Though they will be seen to be not material errors, such as to alter the nature of the case, yet candour induces us, unasked, to give them a place.

It was on Saturday, not Sunday, the ship was at anchor in the Potomac.

The officer from the Patriot, who boarded the Othello, did not remain more than 15 minutes—not two hours.

Captain Glover did not see the Privateer along side the Patriot.

It was on the 24th that the schooner fired on the ship.

Capt Glover went in his boat himself, did not send it, as the Federal Gazette states, nor were his officers ordered to go on board.

The Captain of the Privateer was not asked any thing about his being along side of the Patriot, but told himself that he got an iron made for his boom not his rudder.

Fifty Dollars Reward.
Ran away from the subscriber on the evening of the 30th ultimo, a Mulatto Man named TOM. He is about 25 or 26 years of age, about 5 feet 8 or 10 inches high, his countenance is pleasant, speaks mild and plausible, his hair is very thick and grown down his forehead more than common. He had on when he went away a felt hat, osenaburg shirt and trousers, no shoes, having his feet sore on the insteps, on account of prison. I purchased him of Mr. Robert Oliver, of Baltimore, last fall, in whose service he was a long time, in the capacity of a coachman, and is well known in Baltimore. Since I have had him he has been generally employed in driving one of my mill waggons. I will give the above reward if ap rehended, and lodged in Baltimore county Jail, so that I get him again. Baltimore College.
THE public are respectfully informed, that vacation will terminate in this institution on Monday, the 31st instant.
At next public examination, on Monday, 31st December, it is proposed to distribute premiums to the students who may excel in the different classes, in the following order; so that all who have any desire to become candidates, ought to be punctual in their attendance on the day the college opens, as well as on the hours assigned to each day's instruction.

ORDER OF PREMIUMS.
To the youth who shall have fewest marks for delinquency, and also for absence on each day's catalogue, a Silver Medal, with suitable motto and ribbon, to be worn on the breast during vacation, and afterwards returned.
To the best scholar in logic and rhetoric, in the most advanced class, a Silver Medal, as above.

To the mathematical student who shall have made the greatest proficiency in that science, a Silver Medal, as above.
To the author of the best specimen of composition, or essay, on any subject of natural philosophy, proposed by the faculty, a Gold Medal, to be worn, &c. as above.

To the author of the best specimen of composition, or essay, on any subject of moral philosophy, proposed by the faculty, a Gold Medal, worn, &c. as above.
To the author of the best specimen of composition, or essay, on any subject of taste or imagination, proposed by the faculty, a Gold Medal, as above.

To the most approved proficient in the use of the globes, a Silver Medal, as above.
To the author of the best written letter by any student of the mathematical class, a Silver Medal, as above.

To the student, who, in each class or author, shall be found to excel his fellow students of the same class, in that author, a Silver Medal, as above.
For the best Greek exercise, a Silver Medal, &c.

For the best Latin exercise in each class, a Silver Medal, &c.
For the best translation into English, from any Greek or Latin author, assigned by the faculty to each class, a Silver Medal, &c.

For the best translation into French, or best written letter in that language, a Silver Medal, &c.; and also a similar premium in the Spanish language.

For the best specimen of writing of penmanship in each class, attested, not by a single piece, but the whole book, a Silver Medal, &c.

To the best scholar in each of the classes, in the junior or introductory school, ascertained on examination, a handsome prize book.

The names of all the successful candidates shall be publicly announced at the close of the exhibition.

All the essays & exercises in the translation must be executed under the eye of the faculty, and in apartments or rooms, where no suspicion can be justly formed of having received any improper aid.

The public in general, and the patrons of literature in this city, in particular, may be convinced that the Baltimore College is in want of no essential means of promoting the youth to diligence and excellence, by emulation in the above branches of education. They are also respectfully informed that it is the design of the faculty to apply to the general assembly of Maryland, at their next ensuing session, for some extension of their bountiful patronage, for the purpose of procuring such apparatus & accommodations as may be further necessary for promoting the interest and respectability of the institution; thus the professors of this seminary, in a manner in its infancy, humbly hope, that by the exertion of such talents as they possess; by unremitting diligence and persevering industry, they may in some degree look up with modest assurance to the sanction of the friends of literature, and the smiles of public favor.
