The Ladies' National Magazine, for May, has come to hand; and is as acceptible as a wreath of flowers, and as appropriate as blossoms in spring time. This Magazine seems to lead the fashions, and its plates, for May, is rich beyond description, being the latest Parisian designs. All the contributors to this work are ladies. The engravings are, a 'Basket with Flowers,' and 'The May Queen,' a little bewitching girl, decorated in all the gaiety of the occasion. Connected with this exquisite engraving, is a tale, called the 'May Party,' written by Mrs. M.

The New Mirror .- This popular work has entered upon a new volume, apparently with more energy, as the two editors, Messrs. Morris & Willis, devote their exclusive time to the Mirror alone. With such writers, who can doubt the talent and excellence of the work? This is a weekly publication, (each number embellished with an excellent engraving,) containing more reading matter, for the money paid, than any other work we receive.

Sacred Rosary .- With what pleasure we have read the Sacred Rosary, which contains the gem of numerous poets. It is one of the New Mirror's Library, issued in connection with that work, and sent to its subscribers gratuitously. We have received several of these-consisting of selected tales and poems from American and English authors, so rare that it is a treat to get a perusal of them. We will mention and extract from them hereafter more fully.
