AND PEOPLE'S ADVOCATE.

EASTON, MD.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY, 1 1831. General Jackson .- We have never ourselves entertained a doubt that General Jackson di not consider himself at the service of his fellow-citizens for another term. We did not think it possible to construe that portion of his late message which alludes to the next presidential election in the way his opponents have pretended to construe it; but for the purpose of ject. silencing these gentlemen, who pretend to be so solicitous that the President should prove consistent, we are glad to be able to present the following. We have also read an article from the Washington Globe on the same subdeemed the same idea, which may be had not acted on the proposition, and there
