PORTBY.

From the London Atlas. STANZAS. " Pass on, relentless World." Swifter and swifter, day by day, Down time's unquiet current burled, Thou passest on thy restless way, Tumultuous and unstable world! Thou passest on ! time bath not seen Delay upon thy hurried path, And prayers and tears alike have been In vain to stay thy course of wrath !

Thou passest on, and with thee go The loves of youth-the cares of age; And smiles and tears, and joy and wo Are on thy history's bloody page!

There, every day, like yesterday, Writes hopes that end in mockery; But who shall tear the veil away, Before the abyss of things to be?

Thou passest on, and at thy side, Even as a shade, Oblivion treads, And o'er the dreams of human pride, His misty shroud forever spreads; Where all thine iron-hand has traced

Upon that gloomy scroll to-day. With records ages since effaced-Like them shall live-like them decay. Thou passest on-with thee, the vain,

That sport upon thy flaunting blaze, Pride, framed of dust, and Folly's train, Who court thy love, and run thy ways, But thou and 1-and be it so-Press onwards to eternity; Yet not together let us, go

To that deep-voiced but shoreless sea! Thou hast thy friends-I would have mine: Thou hast thy thoughts-leave me my own: I kneel not at thy gilded shrine-I bow not at thy slavish throne!

I'll let them pass without a sigh; They make no swelling rapture now, The fierce delights that fire thine eye-The triumphs of thy haughty brow!

Pass on, relentless world!- I grieve No more for all that thou hast riven; Pass on, in God's name-only leave The things thou never yet hast given:

A heart at ease-a mind at home-Affections fixed above thy sway-Faith set upon a world to come, And patience through life's little day.

MUTABILITY. The flower that smiles to-day

To-morrow dies; All that we wish to stay Tempts and then flies: What is this world's delight! Lightning that mocks the night, Brief even as bright.

Virture how frail it is! Friendship too rare Love, how it selis poor bliss For proud despair! Dat - though soon they fall. Survive their joy and all

Which ours we call.

Whilst skies are blue and bright Whilst flowers are gay, Whilst eyes that change ere night . Make glad the day; Whilst yet the calm hours creep, hands high, nine years old this Spring, and possesses great strength and beauty; his colts are remarkably large and fine, and those upon the turf give evidence of great speed, as yet however, few have been trained, the oldest of his colts, being only three years old last season. One of his colts bred by the proprietor and sold to a gentleman in N. York, was trained and tried last season, and proved to be a successful racer, running her mile in one minute and fifty one seconds, both heats, and beating four others, with great case. Eclipse was trained for the first time, and ran in the Spring of 1830, (being the two preceeding years on the stand as a Stallion) in the State of New Jersey, a mile and repeat, and won with great case, beating three other horses; he was afterwards carried to Pouglikeepsie, and entered against the celebrated race horse Sir Lovel, and although beaten, yet it is said, this race was run in as short, if not a shorter time. with the same weight, than was ever run in the United States, the first heat was run in 3 minutes 57 seconds, and the second heat in 3 minutes 46 seconds, two miles and repeat. Sir Lovel after this race, was taken to New York, and matched against Mr. Johnson's celebrated race mare Arietta, (which had a short time before beaten Ariel two miles, in a match for $5000) Sir Lovel distanced Arietta the second heat in 3 minutes 48 seconds, thereby proving that Eclipse was a better racer than Arietta. After the race at Poughkeepsie, Eclipse was turned out and trained in the fall following, and gave greater promise of speed, than on his first trial, but in his exercises received an injury in one of his sinews, and was withdrawn from the turf without further trial.

Dream thou-and from thy sleep Then wake and weep.

Colt s Neck, New Jersey, Nov. 30, 1830. I certify that for the last thirty years and upwards, I have been in the yearly practice of session, some of the reputed best horses in the country; for the last year I have had Maryland Eclipse, with others under training exercise,
