NAPOLÉON—At the time in which the column of the Place Vendôme is about to receive anew the statue of this great man, it appears interesting to us to present the following table of a life to which there is no resemblance in that of any other person:

The Aborigines—A portion of the Penobscot tribe of Indians arrived in their town last week in their bark canoes, and encamped in a pleasant situation on the banks of the river, just above the manufacturing establishments. They amount in number to about seventy-five, and being of both sexes and almost every age, are said to be a pretty fair specimen of the remnant of that once warlike and powerful tribe. They left the Penobscot on the fourth of July, and on their way hither, traversed several days in Andover, and other places. Since their arrival, their encampment has been visited by many of the citizens of this and the neighboring towns, attracted by curiosity to behold the descendants of the bitter foes of our ancestors. The women seem to be constantly employed in constructing neat little baskets and toys, which they readily dispose of, and in cooking their food—while the men, seemingly by nature averse to any regular or laborious occupation, amuse themselves with the spectators, by shooting at marks with bows and arrows, or in paddling their more civilized visitors about the Merrimack in their light canoes.—Lowell Journal.

Indian Affairs—In relation to the unfortunate death of Col. Harman Oren, who was killed lately by a party of United States soldiers, at his residence in the Creek nation, the Flag of the Union, of Thursday last, says:
"We are authorized to say, that the Governor (of Alabama) has requested the Marshal to abstain from any further interference between the citizens of the new Counties and the Indians. He has received letters of complaint from individuals of high respectability, and has addressed a communication to the War Department, requesting that the troops may be withdrawn. The Governor does not recognize any authority in the Marshal, or the troops of the United States, to settle disputes between our White and Indian population, and has come to the determination to prevent, by all proper means, a mode of proceeding so repugnant to the Constitution and Laws of the State. The utmost confidence is entertained that the President has no disposition to accommodate our citizens, and the troops will be withdrawn, on the request of the Governor."

Mr. Maxcy's Address—We infer from an article in the Providence Journal, that Mr. Virgil Maxcy, the Phi Beta Kappa orator of Brown University at the literary festival of last week, gave great offence in his oration.—The precise grounds of displeasure are not stated. But from certain expressions in the criticism, we infer that the Maryland orator attacked the protesting system, even within the sound of the caracats of Pawtucket, and the whistling and whirring of the fly-wheels and spinning jennies. Our Providence friends, however, can find comfort in the writings of Mr. Jefferson, who has taught us that errors of opinion can safely be tolerated, while reason is left free for the combat.—N. Y. Com. Ad.

Melancholy—Two boys were amusing themselves on Sunday evening last, in Lexington street, with a rough and tumble play, when one of them struck the other upon the breast, which occasioned his death in about ten minutes after the blow was inflicted. The name of the boy who was killed was Lebon, and that of the other Patterson. The latter is said to have been much affected by the accident, as to have become deranged in consequence of it.—Balt. Repub.

A late number of the Western Reserve Chronicle contains a report of the trial of Ira West Gardner, for the murder of Maria F. Buel. The trial took place at Warren, Ohio, on the 27th. The deceased was aged about 16, and was the step daughter of Gardner. She lived with her stepfather, and became the object of an illicit passion, and to avoid him, she returned to procure her clothes, and Gardner infuriated by his unprincipled passion, deliberately murdered her in the face of day, by stabbing her twice with a butcher's knife; she died almost immediately. The prisoner attempted to set up the defence of insanity, but failed, and the jury brought him in guilty of murder in the first degree.

A letter has been received in Pittsburgh, from an intelligent gentleman at Cincinnati, in which the loss by Cholera, in that city, is estimated at about two thousand persons, in the two years. This, we think, must be an exaggerated statement, but it shows that the loss must have been enormous.

Indian Elephants—The infinite dexterity with which so unweildy an animal as the elephant can hook in a tiger, wild hog, or deer, with his hind leg, is incredible. When once within the chancery limits of his four legs, no ingenuity or force can extricate the unucky object from the process which it undergoes.—A ball in the hands of a juggler does not change sides with greater facility, nor is there any bread in Christendom more thoroughly kneaded than a full grown tiger is reduced by this operation to a mere mummy.—Major Archer's Tour in Upper India.

Singular Accident—The New Orleans Argus, of the 17th ult. mentions the death of a lady in the Faubourg Livandais, on the morning of the 17th, in the following singular manner. It appears that the night previous, her husband apprehensive of burglars, had placed a gun, loaded with buck shot, so that the person opening the door without removing the gun, would receive the contents. The lady upon rising in the morning, forgetting the trap, opened the door and instantly fell a corpse!
