The Commissioner of Pensions,

Sir:

The papers which accompanied your report of May 8th, 1889, in the case described above, are herewith returned. The claim, is for rheumatism. It was rejected because that disease was not found, nor were its results, since the date of filing the claim.

The claimant, a few weeks before discharge in 1865, was in hospital from the 12th of September till the 23rd of October for chronic rheumatism. He has had but one medical examination. He
