It Looks Good-It Wears Well-It Spreads Better

TERE is a manure spreader that spreads evenly when turning corners. With this machine you simply drive along and the spreader takes care of the corners. Both the apron drive and the beater drive are driven from the axle, instead of one from one wheel, and one from the other, as is true in so many spreaders. This arrangement keeps the spreading even at all

The Low Spread has abundant tractive power at all times because the rear wheels are well under the load. It is made of steel in all but the few places where wood is better than steel: The box is waist high, and yet the machine has plenty of clearance so that you can use it on rough ground, in deep snow, or in sloppy

The Low Spread is universally admitted to be the best spreader on the market today. Our sample machine will show the features which make it the best spreader. Come in and see them.
