MEETING OF CITIZENS

Davis & Satterfield's big room was filled with citizens of Chestertown on Monday evening to protest against the increased rate for furnishing electric current for home and street. Robert Moffett, Wm. L. Fowler and Charles N. Satterfield, commissioners presided. Hope B. Hudson, superintendent of the local company, was cross examined for more than an hour and proved his thorough acquaintance with the concerned over which he presided. He frankly stated that the prospect was for increased revenue or profits but that the losses incurred in recent years would more than counter balance it. R. Hynson Rogers, Esq., who did much of the questioning remarked that the farmer and the merchant had to take his loss but that it seemed the public utility had the public upon whom they could rely on to make up deficiencies. P. Medford Brooks produced rates and details of other plants and suggested the purchase of this local company, putting some "pep" in it and making the rates attractive enough for local industries to use its power. Mr. Hudson stated that his instructions from the owners of the plant, who live in Chicago, was to cut all street lights off at midnight February 28th unless new contract was made by commissioners. He was asked if he would not use his own judgment in this instance and he replied in negative. A resolution was then passed against entering into any contract but authorizing the payment of street lighting at new rate until an opinion was rendered by Public Service Commission, and warning Mr. Hudson not to discontinue service. Judge Maloy was gotten over phone at eleven o'clock at night and he advised Mr. Hudson against carrying out the order of his employer. The lights burned all night and will continue until further action. An opinion from the Commission is looked for as soon as the auditor and engineer, now here, can make their report.

A public hearing before the Public Service Commission will be held in the Court House at Chestertown on Wednesday, March 16, 1921. A report from the experts now here examining the books and machinery will be ready at that time.

BUSINESS MEN CO-OPERATE WITH GIRLS' CLUBS

P. M. Brooks, proprietor of Radcliffe Mills, and Claude Truslow, who conducts a large poultry farm near Chestertown, have formed a plan by which all club girls who have completed one year of club work may obtain pure bred eggs for hatching.

Messrs. Brooks and Truslow have been closely associated with the poultrymen of the county for several years and feel very strongly the need for better bred poultry and better methods of management.

The plan is this. Mr. Brooks has agreed to buy all the pure bred eggs required for all girls who have reached second year work, with the provision that in the fall at a specific time each girl will return one of her average pullets for each setting of eggs obtained. Mr. Truslow agrees to furnish these eggs and promises that they shall be of a good type. He will sell them to Mr. Brooks at market price.

When the pullets are returned the fall the plan is to sell these birds at auction. The money will be used to pay for the eggs. Should there be any money left it will be divided among the respective clubs in proportion to the number of pullets returned from each club. This money will be used for promoting better club work.

Girls are already responding to this offer and it promises to be a great success.
