WE had the pleasure of a fraternal call this week from T. K. Robson, Esq., of the Easton Stor, and Paul Winchester, Esq., of the Democrat, who were delegates to the diocesan convention. They drove up and were pleased with the country through which they passed. Geo. E. Haddaway, Esq., of the Easton Ledger, was also present and reported the proceedings of the convention, and to him we are indebted for the report published in another column.

THE Easton Star, speaking of the reform meeting at that place last week, says: "It must not be lost sight of that the chief engineers of the so called democratic reform movement are the retained attorneys of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and they are fighting to prevent any further taxation of the property of that corporation. Hence their talk about reform is nothing but a blind to distract the attention of Maryland taxpayers from the real issue, which cannot be much longer postponed. The people won't stand having such dust thrown in their eyes."

This farm is but 1½ miles from Shallcross' the county seat, and about four miles from Landing, where is a daily steamer to and Monuments, Headstones, from Baltimore, and about the same distance from Black's Station on the Balto. & Del. Bay Railroad. It has every advantage of soil, location, proximity to rail and water carriage, and the whole front is available Cresting and Galvanized Tubing, for building lots as the village extends. This is a rare chance for a home and investment for persons of limited means.
