CHESTERTOWN - OCT. 29, 1887

A Drink from Father's Well.

The dying man, who was so poor at this moment that he could not purchase one hour of time, was rich in the worldly possessions he was about to leave forever. He had houses and lands and bank stock. He had rich viands to tempt his failing appetite. It was his pleasure to drink of many different wines at his grand dinners Yet his restless spirit craved one luxury a simple, homely thing—that all his wealth could not buy.

He is speaking and they bend eagerly to hear. He is asking for a drink. His wife presses a goblet to his lips filled with a sweet and cooling draught. He refuses it. Then his loving child pours out a glass of his favorite wine and tenderly begs him to

"No! no! not that!" He speaks wildly and they bend low and try to distinguish his broken and faltering "Bring-me-the-gourd!" "What does he mean?" asks his wife in

"It - is-hanging-just-inside-of-the "Papa, dear, what is it?" asks his sweet-"I-want-a-drink-of-fresh-waterfrom—father's—well!" That was all. He closed his weary eyes to open them in his heavenly home, where when life's little dream is over, we shall all one day slake our thirst from our Father's well.—Detroit Free Press.

What the Type Writer is Doing. The type writer is creating a 'revolution | in methods of correspondence, and filling 'I'INWAPA the country with active, competent young 1111 II UI U, ladies who are establishing a distinct pro-fession, and bringing into our offices, lawyers' offices, editorial sanctums, etc., an element of decency, purity, and method which is working a perceptible change. The field is widening daily, not from crowding out of the interval o of their places young men who have been Gongs, Bolts, Log Screws, &c. in the habit of claiming a pre-emption for clerical work of all description, but in creating absolutely new positions. The revolution, if it may be called so, has come from lution, if it may be called so, has come from Scythes and Rope Traces, Plow Lines, Backbands, Plow and Wagon Harness

In Farmers' Hardware and Implements we have Shovels, Forks, Spades, Grub-Hoes, Garden and Field Hoes, Rakes, Spading Forks, Pruning Shares and Saws, Briar and Grass Scythes and Rope Traces, Plow Lines, Backbands, GRAIN, FRUITS, LIVE STOCK, AND ity of which they were unawary until the

How to be a "Nobody."

It is easy to be nobody, and the Watchman tells how to do it. Go to the drinking saloon to spend your leisure time. You need not drink much now, just a little beer or some other drink. In the meantime, play dominoes, checkers, or something else to kill time, so that you will be sure not to read any useful books. If you read anything, let it be the dime novel of the day. Thus go on keeping your stomach full and your head empty, and yourself playing timekilling games, and in a few years you will be a first-class nobody, unless you should turn out a drunkard or a professional gambler, either of which is worse than nobody. There are any number of young men hanging about saloons just ready to graduate and

"You may go on, Mr. Smith," said the young lady softly. "I'm a little too enthusiastic at times, perhaps."
