siderable gathering of Democratic politi-Governor Jackson, Comptroller Baughman Treasurer Archer and several of the prominent members elect of the Legislature. We read carefully the Sun's report of that gath. ering, and, according to our best judgment, it was significant of good results in legislation at Annapolis this winter. It also indicated that Mr. Brattan, of Somerset, would be President of the Senate, and either Hon. Philip D. Laird or Hon. Frank T. Shaw speaker of the House; that Senator Wilson would be his own successor, an Senator John Prentiss Poe of Baltimor city, would figure prominently as a leading spirit in the deliberations of the Senate. But the more important significance of the conference was that which indicated the certain enactment of public general laws vital to the well being of the body politic and also the business and financial needs of the people. Election and Tax laws are first on the calender. These are the two subjects now of most serious concern to the people of Maryland. Both parties-Democrats and Republicans—stand pledged to the adoption of new election laws, and the Democracy having been given the power must make good their promises or suffer the loss of the public confidence. We believe the Legislature will do the right thing. If so a better day will soon dawn in political methods in
