KENT CITIZENS IN A BAD ACCIDENT
Mrs. Bessie Latham and Charles Cohee, of Quaker Neck, in Easton Hospital—Both Have Fractured Skulls As Result Of An Upset In Automobile Sunday Afternoon.
A party of four consisting of Mrs. Bessie Latham, Mrs. Frank Harris, Charles and Edward Cohee, of Quaker Neck, started out Sunday afternoon for an auto ride, Edward Cohee driving and Mrs. Harris on the front seat. In descending the hill on the South side of Church Hill a tire came off the rear wheel, the brakes were applied and over went the machine. Charles Cohee and Mrs. Latham received serious injuries to skull and shoulder. Mrs. Harris received only a cut face while Edward escaped any injury. Drs. Hines and Copeland rendered first aid and Webster McIntire carried the injured to Easton Hospital.

Permit Is Given Shore Transit Line To Run Bus
Privilege To Operate To Tolchester Beach Limited To Certain Areas—Venron Barnett Gets Protection—Company Is Rebuked "For Open Defiance" Of Commission's Order.
Permit to operate a motor bus between Tolchester and McLane's Corner was granted the Shore Transit Line, Inc., Monday by the Public Service Commission. The application was heard last Thursday at Chestertown.
The commission will issue a conditional permit, the commission said, and pass an order permitting the Shore Line bus to run into Tolchester, passengers taken there on those who have been taken on at points not less than five miles north, east and south of Chestertown.
"And passengers taken from Tolchester to be those for points not less than five miles north, east and south of Chestertown."
Barnett Given Protection.
"The purpose of this requirement is to protect the rights granted by this commission to Venron M. Barnett, who for years has been giving satisfactory service between Chestertown and Tolchester.
"This requirement at the same time affords full opportunity for Shore Line passengers originating on routes beyond Chestertown to reach Tolchester."
Commission's Orders Defied.
The commission said the Shore Line had defied orders of the commission and acted contrary to law in operating a bus line to Tolchester before receiving a permit.
"While the open defiance of the authority of this commission makes it difficult for the Commission patiently to deal with the Shore Line's belated application in this case," the Commission continued, "the commission recognizes that the people living along the Shore Line's routes beyond Chestertown are entitled to take advantage of the cheap and frequent service between Tolchester and Baltimore afforded by the Tolchester Steamboat Company."

THE MILK REGULATIONS
The new sanitary regulations adopted by the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association and enforced by the Philadelphia Inter-State Dairy Council became effective May 31. Since that date the response from milk producers has been almost 100 per cent.
Up to June 17th, 14,200 permits (temporary and permanent) have been issued to producers selling to co-operating dealers.
Last and final inspections have begun and are well under way in the territory where early inspections were made and where definite instructions have been given the farmer at the time of the preliminary inspection. In the majority of cases where inspections have been made the suggestions for improvement have been adequately met.
On the final inspection it is expected that every dairy shall be in such shape as to warrant the issuing of a permanent permit. Where changes have not been made to comply with the regulations and unless there are reasonable excuses, these dairies will no longer be permitted to ship milk to co-operating dealers.

WEDDING NOTES
The wedding of Miss Mary S. Hoffecker, daughter of former State Senator and Mrs. Harvey Hoffecker, of Newark, and Lionel J. Keyser, formerly of Chestertown, but now of Wilmington, took place at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Frank Heron, of Newark, M. E. Church, officiated. Mrs. Edith H. Lynnam, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. John S. Hoffecker, brother of the bride, was best man. Miss Dorothy Hoffecker played the wedding music.
The bride wore a gown of white moleskin satin embroidered in iridescent beads. Her tulle veil in coronet effect was held with lilacs of the valley. Her bouquet was a gown of roses. Mrs. Lynnam wore a gown of blue French voile with hat to match.
The bride was well-known in the younger set at Newark. She has been a teacher in the public schools at Newark. A reception was held following the ceremony.
Among the guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoffecker, Miss Dorothy Hoffecker, Miss Catherine Hoffecker and Albert W. Strahorn, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Lionel J. Keyser, Miss Eleanor W. Keyser, Robert L. Usilton and Mildred Bowen, of Chestertown; Mrs. Natalie H. Sawdon, Mrs. Sarah E. Hoffecker, Miss Susan Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Alice H. Lynnam and Clifford R. Lynnam, of Ogleton, Del.; Mrs. Mary Disharoon, of Salisbury; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hoffecker, of Philadelphia; Ellwood Hoffecker, and J. W. Downey, of Washington.

Democrats Ballot 50 Times No Candidate Named Yet
Deadlock Between McAdoo and Smith Forces Must Stand Until Both Sides See Impossibility Of Nominating Its Candidate. John W. Davis Is Leading Compromise Candidates. Unit Rule Not Likely To Last Many More Ballots.
Indications are that a number of the state delegations at present bound by the unit rule may break away from their instructions soon are in evidence in the Democratic National Convention today.
Mississippi furnished a thrill by casting its votes for first one candidate and then another after leaving its own candidate, Harrison. It gave Robinson 20 votes, then complimented Glass, then went to Hull, then to John W. Davis and then to Ralston. The Missouri delegation was polled on the 19th ballot with the result showing 24 for McAdoo, 5 for Smith, 5 for John W. Davis, 1 for Underwood and 1 for Brand Whitlock.
Under the unit rule the entire vote was counted for McAdoo.
Real developments are in the making as the balloting in the Democratic convention proceeds this afternoon. Leaders admitted that Davis was being given a "ride" but stated that unless he developed more strength than the present indications showed he would be abandoned for someone else. McAdoo and Smith were about holding their own, although both are below the high marks of the previous balloting.

Bryan tried to stampee the convention for McAdoo but failed after a great speech. He is adopting the same tactics as he did in Baltimore. Ritchie has won the votes of several lady delegates but on the last ballot they forsook him.
The result of the 50th ballot follows:
McAdoo 462 1/2
Smith 320 1/2
Ralston 67
J. W. Davis 63 1/2
Cox 53
Underwood 42
Glass 25
Ritchie 16 1/2
Salisbury 6
Walsh 1

WYLAID ON CANNON STREET
Wm. H. Lambert, proprietor of the bowling alley on Cannon street, closed his place of business about midnight Saturday, and with over $100 in his pocket, started for his home on Cross street. When near Mr. Gordon's home, some one stepped out and grabbed him by the throat and threw him to the ground saying, "if you holler I'll kill you." Mr. Lambert did not heed the threat but yelled so loud that neighbors came to his relief and the assailant escaped. Several men were sitting on George E. Twilley's porch at the time and heard the call for help and were soon on the scene. They could not give any description of the man. Mr. Lambert's throat was sore for several days from the effects of the man's grasp on his throat.
Local buyers were offering $1.08 for wheat to be delivered within ten days.
Bryan was the leading character and force in the great Democratic Convention in New York. He was the leaven among the crowd.
The R. D. Hoopes farm in the 6th district was sold on Tuesday at public sale by S. Scott Beck, attorney for $12,000. Mrs. Rose E. Deputy, the mortgagee, was the purchaser. This farm contains 376 acres and was purchased a few years ago by Mr. Hoopes at a consideration of $31,000.
