About fifty-three of their children, relatives and friends came and spent the evening with them. Mrs. Kennedy had prepared a beautiful wedding cake with white icing and gold trimmings with the dates 1878 and 1928 on it. Mrs. Jones wore a beautiful dress of black satin and although fifty years had passed since her wedding day, no one could have told from her happy smiling face and young heart within.

Refreshments consisting of cakes, ices and punch were served. Lovely white and pink carnations with fern, hyacinths and other cut flowers were brought them, also a number of other beautiful gifts which were received with appreciation. At a late hour, the guests departed leaving best wishes.

This golden wedding day will be long remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Jones as one of the brightest and happiest days in their lives.

"Sunny ways and happy ways, Fortunes fairest, brightest rays, Fragrant flowers and crystal skies, Kindly hearts to sympathize, Health and wealth and sweet content Ever on your years be sent."
