SAVE YOUR EYES

By Dr. Fred Andrae, Secretary Md. Board of Optometry.

Last year thirty-three thousand and sixty men, women and children were killed in automobile accidents in this country, and a tremendous number seriously injured. Far too little attention has been given to one factor which is without doubt directly responsible for a large proportion of traffic accidents. I refer to Defective Eye Sight.

The outstanding obstacle in straightening out this matter of defective eyes is the fact that so many people refuse to believe that there can be any trouble with their eyes. Although their vision may be decidedly below par they think it is all right because they have no idea of what good vision really is. You have driven a car with the rain beating against the windshield and know the blurred look that everything has and how hard you must strain in order to see. It is an absolute fact that there are many people driving cars on our streets today who see objects in just this manner all of the time.

In addition to the commonly known eye defects such as near and farsightedness or astigmatism there are others found in motorists which are little understood by the layman. For instance, there is night blindness which as the word indicates, is a condition where the vision is greatly reduced at night. There is also double-vision, where one is unable to see images received by each eye and fused in a common image. This double vision often appears when a driver is excessively tired. Perhaps you have heard of drivers falling asleep at the wheel or have known persons who have had to get out and walk for a time in order to stay awake. This condition means a depletion of nervous energy brought about by the strain of constantly watching the road.

A very dangerous type of eye defect and one responsible for many accidents is what is known as barrel vision. The driver who has this difficulty is like a horse with blindness; all he can see are the objects directly in front of his eyes. You have all heard of color-blindness but probably have no idea of how many persons are afflicted with this defect. A recent visual test in Pennsylvania of applicants who wished to drive cars showed that twenty-five per cent were color-blind and unable to interpret colored semaphores and signals properly.

Going and Coming "When a man takes a dislike to you," said Uncle Eben, "derek's no use tryin' to square it. If you do him a favor he thinks he has you bluffed up" if you do him an injury he justifies himself in his first impression."

ROCK HALL

Our Carnival started this week and big parade will take place Wednesday night.

Crabbers have had a dull month. Last week Capt. Stevens crabbed all week and only sold $1.08 worth of crabs. His bait cost $1, so that his living fell short.

We think some method might be employed to rid the harbor of two ferry boat hulks. They make the surroundings look delapidated. These boats have been moored at Gratitude wharf for some years. We trust our Town Fathers will investigate and see if some disposition cannot be made of them.

One of our reputable colored citizens was arrested and carried to Chestertown jail on a charge of giving a check without sufficient funds to meet same. Is it possible? If this law was strictly enforced, we fear a new jail would be required to hold the guilty parties.

Mrs. Albert Walbert is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Blackiston.

Albert Groves' farm, near Tolchester, is the headquarters for Boy Scouts, Troop No. 1, with leaders Bayard Ayres and Thomas Parsons, are with them.

A. J. Stevens' shipyard is a busy place these days. A beautiful yacht was launched there recently and another will be started soon. Captain Stevens is gaining quite a reputation for excellent workmanship.

A. C. Kenley and wife have been visiting their son in Allentown Pa. They have decided to return to this place to make their home.

About 150 people will be affected here when the law, passed at the last session of the Legislature, abolishing purse-net fishing in the Chesapeake bay, goes into effect. There are seven purse-net crews of seven members each at this fishing center and they have on the average of three members to the family.

In the bay at large there are approximately 30 crews who will be forced to take up other forms of fishing for a living. The purse-nets themselves will also be junked.

The law gives purse-netters a respite and this summer they may operate from July 15 to October 1. Purse-nets are not allowed in the bay above Poole's Island and thus Betterton fishermen are not allowed to use this method.

Benj. Kramer says there is no business but he rides about the county hoping to keep in touch with farmers and get some when this depression is over.

A small colored child, daughter of Jesse Reed, got out of a car Monday in the town and ran behind it to cross the road directly in front of Wilmer Crouch's laundry truck that struck and knocked her down. She was picked up by Mr. Crouch and carried into Dr. Selby's office where it was found that her injuries consisted of some bruises and minor lacerations.

Raymond Hersch is planning extensive improvements to his properties.

Mrs. John Hadaway is having considerable repairs made to the building on Shipyards farm.

Miller Glenn made a fine haul of two or three tons fish.

Alfred Scoone has sold a dwelling in Gratitude to a Baltimore purchaser who will occupy it with his family.

Hill Brothers have bought a store and dwelling building east of the town from O. P. Leary and his sister, Mrs. Harvie Hubard.

John D. Urie, Solicitor.
