MAKING 50 CENT WHEAT PAY WELL

It is up to the farmer to devise ways and means to make this low-priced wheat pay better than 50 cents per bushel. For instance, a farmer in Quaker Neck, pastured his wheat until May 20th and expects to get enough grain to feed his turkeys, chickens and ducks. In this way he will realize a fine price on his wheat.

C. E. Hogland and sons in Kansas have demonstrated how to make money with hogs and realize fair prices for wheat in a depressed market.

Last winter they fed 2,100 bushels of wheat, along with a tankage, linseed and alfalfa mixture, to 195 head of hogs. They figure they got 87 1/2 cents a bushel out of it in this way, compared with a cost of 57 cents.

Sixteen McCullough county (Texas) farm club boys and girls very carefully fed eighteen calves under the most approved instructions. The calves went to Texas fat stock shows, won prizes, were then sold at auction and brought their young owners a total of $4,590.

Two girls, Pauline Roberts, 15, and Ruby Pence, 12, exhibited the choicest of the animals.

Here's a story from Austin, Texas, of how farm diversification, now the dogma, doctrine and Bible of leading agricultural economists, made one farmer economically independent. And it happened as much by accident as by design.

Ben F. Chapman, chief clerk of the State Department of Agriculture, also operates a farm, commuting from the country to his work in town. For several years he tilled his soil for one product only—cotton. Then he became interested in hogs.

To raise hogs he had to have corn. Not wishing to buy it, he rotated his cotton with corn and discovered he could grow as much cotton in three years this way as he had previously grown in four.

Root rot hit Texas about that time and Chapman extended his diversification to include other gains—wheat, oats, barley. Rather than sell the grain on depressed markets, Chapman entered the dairying business. The cows needed forage, so he further diversified and raised hay. Weeds invaded the hay fields, so he purchased sheep to keep the weeds down.

So the diversified farm grew. A barn was built to store his corn and half paid for itself in one year when the value of stored corn jumped from 50 cents to $1 a bushel.

Chickens were added as a further diversification. So was fruit. Chapman estimates that in the past eight years his family has spent not more than $50 on canned groceries.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN COME TO KENT COUNTY

A letter from Leslie Marsland Conly, Manager, Tribune Fresh Air Fund of New York, was received by the chairman of the local committee, Mrs. Nell C. Westcott, part of which reads as follows:

"We have been in touch with all the children mentioned in your last letter. They are all delighted to be reinvited and will be ready to go as soon as the invitations arrive.

We are pleased to know that your local committee is interested and that the clergymen are helping by talking about Fresh Air Work in the various churches. Like the children, we are looking forward to the arrival of your complete list."

The children are booked to arrive in Chestertown on July 22. Invitations can be received at the office of the chairman, at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters as late as July 11 but it is advisable to have the invitation list completed, if possible, before that time.

Rock Hall is generously opening its homes again this year and it is urged upon other communities to take a similar interest. Kent affords so much in the way of sports to its own people that it makes entertaining guests a comparatively simple matter. Boating, swimming, crabbing and fishing are amusements never-to-be-forgotten in the life of city children and for those who perhaps have only been to Central Park once in their short lives the great outdoors as we have it here is a real paradise.

Hostesses can have children any age from six year and up and can have either girls or boys as they prefer.

Thomas H. Casey, aged 83, for many years an undertaker at Rock Hall, died Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Mr. Casey, who lived alone, was found in an unconscious condition by two commercial travelers, who called at his home on business. Friends were notified and a physician called but Mr. Casey died two hours later.

It was believed that Mr. Casey, who had not been seen since Monday, had been filling the tank of an oil stove when stricken with a heart attack. When found he was lying near the stove and in a pool of spilled kerosene.

He was the son of the late Charles Casey, and a brother of James, Abram and George Casey, all deceased. John Casey, of Baltimore, is a surviving brother.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 P. M. Thursday at the Rock Hall M. E. Church, Rev. W. S. Grant officiating. The funeral arrangements were in charge of B. R. Fellows, of Still Pond.

THE CHESTERTOWN M. E. Sunday School will hold its picnic at Tolchester, July 16th. The M. P. Sunday School will picnic at the same place next Thursday, July 9th.

Emmanuel Church Notices. The services in Emmanuel Church Sunday morning, July 5th, will be as usual, with the exception of the 11 A. M. service, which will be at 10:30. The 8 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. services will be unchanged. The 11 A. M. service is put up to 10:30 in order to combine with the Church School, which has its service at that hour instead of 10:00 o'clock. Being the nearest Sunday to the Fourth of July the service will be of a patriotic nature, the children marching in church carrying American flags, and singing one of the National airs. A short address will be given to the school, and then the scholars will be dismissed with their teachers to the Parish House for the regular lesson, while the adults will remain in the church for the regular service. A special service of Holy Baptism will be held in the church at 10 A. M.

The annual church school picnic will be held at Tolchester, Tuesday, July 7th. All members and attendants at Emmanuel Church are invited as the idea is to make it a church affair, rather than just an outing for the children. The porch of the pavilion overlooking the bay has been secured as a spot for the luncheon, for which each family is requested to donate a basket, if possible. Any children or individuals who may not be prepared with lunch are invited anyway, as there is always ample for all. Any children or members of their families who have no way of getting to Tolchester are requested to inform Mr. Tom Kibler or the Rector. Cars will be provided, and will leave the Sunday School room at 9:30 A. M. A bath house ticket will be issued to each member of the school, and ice cream will be served to all in the afternoon.
