Depew's Tribute to Cleveland.

Chauncey M. Depew's famous speech in introducing Mr. Cleveland at a banquet in New York on Oct. 9, 1890; deserves to be reproduced now to show what a leading Republican orator thought of the Democratic candidate when he was not the standard bearer of his party. Here is what he said: "If I were asked to name the most forceful character in American life, the man who best represents the energy, the unswerving determination and the courage of the true American; the man who knows duty, and it alone, when public service demands it the man who wars in war, and is for peace in peace, I would name Gen. W. T. Sherman. But if I am to name the typical American, country beyond everything else; the man who determining once in what direction of Catarrh, when you use Dr. Sage's his duty leads, cannot be swerved from the path-the man who is doggedly persistent in what he believes to be right- the man who thinks not of self, but of his country and its needs, I would name Grover Cleve-

"What he has accomplished is the very highest attribute to the possibilites of American citizenship. And it was Depew who nominated Harrison at Minneapolis.

Who are the Millionaires?

Did you ever hear of a farmer that got MMISSION MERCHANTS, to be a millionaire merely by driving the plow? Did you ever see a workingman who became a millionaire by the work of his own hands? Who are the millionaires upon their medicine? of America? If you leave out the successful speculators of one sort or another you ited through some special privilege granted tend is designed for the sole benefit of wage

> Turn to any list of millionaires, and then place beside that list a business directory of the United States, the full schedule of the McKiniev law and a list of the "trusts" organized within the past few years. You will be surprised at some of the coincidences that will appear. You will find that many of the industries that have had the largest and highest protection appear in the list of trusts, while the stock-holders of those industries appear in the list of milionaires; You will find protected coal owning millionaires, protected glassmaking illionaires, protected steelmaking milionaires, protected hatmaking millionaires, otected shipbuilding millionaires and a dozen other highly protected industries. You will not find the name of a single farmer. You will not find the name of a single wage earner. It is the business of Republican protection to create millionaires.

Delmar Burned.

Delmar was almost wiped from existence Tuesday by fire which started about 1.30 P. M. and lasted until midnight, destroying 126 houses, 14 stores, M.E. Church, city hall and the railroad depot. Not two score of houses are left standing. The fire started from a cigar stump in a

The product o ported was 8,216 bushels, while the amount exported was more than 100,000,000 bushels Does any one suppose that we should have if foreign wheat had been cheaper than little wheat of a kind not raised at home we import from abroad. What is true of wheat is true of nearly everything that the farmer raises. truth is that the farmer cannot be protected so long as he does not wish to raise hothouse bananas and other such things which he has no desire to attempt. Meanwhile Republican protection increases the cost of fifty things which the farmer must have.

THE Every Evening of Wilmington, Del., has the following in reference to the Rev. W. R. McFarlane's prayer for rain at Camden camp meeting, Friday of last week. "As a rain maker the Rev. W. R. McFarlane has achieved a local reputation which will possibly cause General Dryenforth the official cloud tickler, and Melbourne the unofficial hole-in-the-roof operator, turn green with envy. A corresponden writes that Mr. McFarlane prayed for rain at camden camp last Friday night and within an hour a storm came down which drove the campers to their tents and kept them there until they began to fear that the reverend gentleman had put a little more earnestness in his petition than the occasion called for."
