THE Centreville Observer favors the Sunday opening of the World's Fair and says "the anamolous condition exists in this matter of the extreme religious element of the country and the saloon keeper of Chicago standing together in their clamor for the closing of the fair. The principle which would shut it up on Sunday would also stop cable cars, railroad trains and everything slse which tends to afford recreation and amusements to the people."

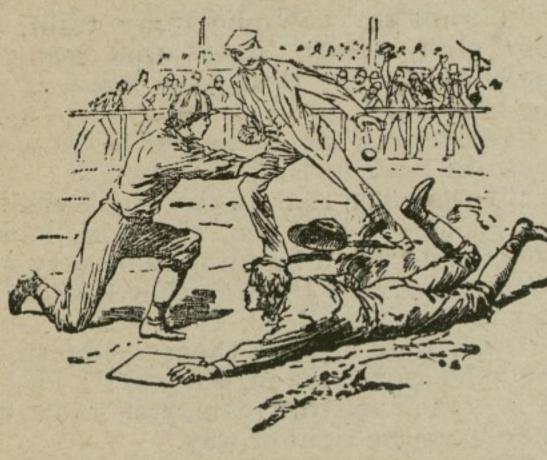

THERE will be a good demand for peaches this year. An intelligent dealer in fruit remarked to us a few days ago that peaches will bring fine prices this year "if the cholera doesn't strike as." He said the canners will be prepared to handle immense quantities and the scarcity of canned peaches now whets the appetite of dealers for this fruit. The market is almost bare of it. If the "June drop' doesn't blast the hope of Kent growers for a crop they will have a good thing in prices. Let us hope for the best! ----

THE World's Fair managers are in a "peck of trouble" in many ways—the Sun- nedyville, sent five of their little folks day opening and premium awards were very annoying, but now comes the most curious. The gates at the first Sunday by Miss Maggie Hersch, Miss Bessie je3 3t. opening showed about 85,000 present. Good judges, including reporters and others, estimate the number present at from 125,000 to 200,000! Now the managers want to speech appealing to the citizens of the know how the excess of the gate visitors gotin? Numerous ugly screws are loose somewhere.

The afternoon meeting was fairly well tleman handled the temperance question without gloves. He spoke of the flagrant violations of the liquor law in Kent county and pointedly asked the question why it was that on the outside of the hall standing about the corner were so many men who would not dare come into a convention of temperance people! He also referred to the candidacy of certain gentlemen for office, but not in a very commendatory manner. The speaker is an earnest advocate of the cause and gave much pleasure to his listeners. Mr. C. C. Hopper made the address of welcome from the press pledging its support to lifting the public sentiment on this great question, asserting that it was this vitiated public sentiment which was responsible for the illicit selling of intoxicants in Kent. A duet by Miss Maggie Hersch and Wm. T. Downey, of Rock Hall followed. The two minute speeches by various presidents and representatives followed, most of which reported the organizations doing well.
