well, but our complextions do. Well, Mr. Narcissus was there, and was quite at-tentive during the early part of the evening. He would have been more so but for Jennie. It was really shocking the way she ran after him. Why, when I asked him to get me some claret cup, meaning to get him away from her, she actually went "Indeed I do. I-"

"Yes; and the very first chance I got I gave him a hint that, while she was my dearest friend, she was awfully mercenary, though not as ill-tempered as dear Helen, to whom he had asked to be introduced. I felt it my duty."

"Of course, you-"
"Well, I told him that the heat made ne faint, so we went into the conservatory and, don't you think, just as I had gotten the conversation into the proper channels that scheming Jennie came after me with the duet. "You must not claim a speed of over fifteen miles an hour," said the nervous coun-sel of the promoters of the railroad, to appear before a parliamentary committee.

A member of the committee, opposed to the proposed railroad, thought he could make the simple hearted engineer assert an absurdity that would kill the project.

"Well, Mr. Stephenson," he asked, "perhaps you could give seventeen miles an

A "TERROR IN TOWN" is what a cotemporary calls a woman on a bicycle. Pedestrains have some slight protection against the man on a bicycle when he goes on a rampage. They can scurry out into the gutter and kick mud at him. They can subsidize a teamster and sick a coal cart on him. They can lug around base-ball bat walking canes and knock him out on the fly now and then. They can even carry their guns at half-cock and bring him down DRESS GINGHAMS, PONGEES, PERCALES and on the wing, if quick enough on trigger. But the woman on a bicycle is another thing altogether.
