

Only a Scar Remains Scrofula Cured-Blood Purified by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "It is with pleasure that I send a testimonial concerning what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for my daughter. It is a wonderful medicine and I cannot recommend it too highly. Sarah, who is fourteen years old, has been Afflicted With Scrofula ever since she was one year old. For five years nothing did her any good until we commenced using Hood's Sarsaparilla. My married daughter advised me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla because and since her cure she has never been without a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. We commenced giving it to Sarah about one year ago, and it has conquered the running sore, Only a Scar Remaining as a trace of the dreadful disease. Previous to taking the medicine her eyesight was affected but now she can see perfectly. In connection with Hood's Sarsaparilla we have used Hood's Vegetable Pills, and find them the best." MRS. MARIA GRIFFIN, Xenia, Illinois.

THE UNIVERSE. Other Worlds, Ours and Man From the

Are there other worlds? The answer must be yes. The deductions of science demand it unmistakably. It may be difficult or impossible to determine just what particular orbs are habitable or inhabited or to what plane their animated structures may have advanced in the creative scale, but as the universe eternally was, since this succession of world development and decadence has been in eternal operation, the conclusion is irresistible that there never has been a time there was not an infinity of spheres inhabited. Are we then to conclude that every orb in the skies is the abode of life? Certainly not; nor can we conclude that they are all habitable, for that mat-

We must disabuse our minds of the Man, wherever he presents himself, must be simply a response to conditions that invite him, and he is an amazingly long time in responding. Nothing is clearer in mathematics than is this fact in anthropology. Long after the earth's crust was cool, after ages of aqueous and igneous warfare, when vegetation was exuberant and huge animals disported themselves in the great marshes and lagoons, no man was present.

Volcanic Niagaras of molten matter shot from the earth's interior, painting in awful grandeur the nocturnal skies with reflected conflagrations, the mountains commenced to wrinkle, and still there was no man. The cooling continued, the crust thickened, cataclysms the convulsive storms grew wider and wider apart, and still there was no humanity to grace the scene. Huge and uncouth life was that, savage and coarse; hoarse cries of savagery, and night was | it a day or two ago.

His crude brain developed with his ceaseless planning to circumvent his lower congeners struggling for existence. Organ after organ was developed, as new impressions forced themselves, until finally he began to have a vague idea of a most rustic propriety and a dim conception of a crude

Such, on the earth, has been man's genesis. On other worlds his career must be analogous to this. If, then, we would know aught of man elsewhere we must be able to trace his pedigree here. Knowing the slow stages involved in terrestrial development as regards the evolutions of the spheres, we may know approximately at least its animal de-

A Practical Throw Out. In a first class carriage in Germany an Englishman was observed to be constantly putting his head out of the window. The train was going fast, and a sudden gust of wind blew off his hat. He at once took down his hat box and hurled it after his hat. Then he sat down and smiled on his fellow passengers, but, of course, did not speak. The Germans roared with laughter, and one of them exclaimed: "You do not expect your hat box to bring back your hat, do you?"

"I do," said the Englishman. "No address on the box. They'll be found together, and I shall get both. Do you

Then those Germans subsided and said they always had considered the English a great and practical nation .-London Tit-Bits. To Annoy Napoleon.

A curious anecdote, of which we may say, Si non e vero e ben trovato, is illustrative of the disposition of Talleyrand. It was resolved that each of Those in want of Good Trees and Plants can be the allied powers should designate a commissioner charged with the surveillance of Napoleon at St. Helena. Talleyrand proposed to the king for this office M. de Montchenu, described as "an insupportable babbler, a complete nonentity." On being asked why he had selected this man, Talleyrand replied: "It is the only revenge which I BLACKBERRIES, GOOSEBERRIES, wish to take for his treatment of me. However, it is terrible. What a punishment for a man of Bonaparte's stamp, to be obliged to live with an ignorant and pedantic chatterer! I know him. He will not be able to support this annoyance. It will make him ill, and he will die of it by slow degrees."-Edinburgh TOTICE TO CREDITORS.

FACTS FOR THE NEW YEAR. Little Things That are Worth Bearing in Mind.

Chickens and turkeys attain the ages of 10 years. The duration of a goose's life is The time required by the stomach to digest turkey is two hours and 30 minutes,

Chicken requires four hours and duck four hours and a-half. Billiards is one of the best games for exercise after eating a Christmas dinner. New Year's cards are nearly square in To feed New York on New Year Day it is estimated that it will take, among other things, 1,000 head of cattle, 500 tons of poultry, 1,000 barrels of cranberries, and two car loads of celery. Sealskin is not the most desirable material for a wrap. The continual wearing of it makes the body undesirably soft and sensible to changes of the weather. This should be comforting to the large majorit who cannot afford this expensive covering. Were it not for the charity shown in New York on Christmas upward of 90,000 families, or about 350,000 people, would have gone without a Christmas dinner. It is optional with the host and hostess whether wine shall be served with the New Year dinner or not. Nearly 3,000 actors eat their Christ-mas dinner alone and away from kindred,

The custom of giving the turkey the first place on the bill of fare at Christmas is gradually giving way to the old English plan of providing a huge round of beef. A pretty conceit for trimming Christmas trees is a paper star with a candle in the centre. They are made after the manner of the "pin wheel," and commemorate the appearance of the Star of Bethlehem. Snapdragon, a one-time favorite game at Chistmas, is unknown to the present generation. The diversion consisted in setting fire to a dish of brandy, from which the players endeavored to pick out the raisins which were afterwards thrown into it. Many anecdotes are told of clergymen ding, a duck, a lobster salad, and ice- and deacons. It is said that Col. Ingersoll, the noted so-called atheist, although he is not one, once called upon the famous preacher, Rev. Philips Brooks, afterwards Bishop of Massachusetts, and sent in his card.
