VOL. XXXV. NO. 6.

CHESTERTOWN, MD., WEDNESDAY, NOV. 9, 1927

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Chestertown is getting more like New York every day, pulling down old buildings and putting up new ones. A sure sign of progress in any community.

Indian Summer. Its a wonder this time of year isn't more popular for weddings. Its infinitely better than June when the weather is too warm and brides are so concerned with powdering their noses and keeping their hair curled and its so much easier to have a good disposition when the weather is cooler nor is there the danger of a summer's storm putting out the lights in the middle of the ceremony. Bryant never wrote "the melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year" during any such gorgeous fall weather as we have been having.

As a "columnist" we had another letter this week, this time from the south; it reads:

Dear Madam: I am a subscriber to the ENTERPRISE which is a very state came about through and by the "Frying Pan." I have no fault to find with the paper, it is an excellent sheet, much improved since the Bond Debt Blevy Bu. I read it each week, religiously, ads. and all.

In this week's issue I note Crooks, the Citizen's Bank, Gill Brothers, a fellow who wants to see me a tombstone. I am not in the market. The Stam Drug Co., talks business, so does John Bartley and the Kent county Savings Bank. "Systematic Saving" Lord! What a subject for a sermon, a lecture or a book. The Woman's Shop, Harry F. Jefferson, is worthy of special mention, said just enough without saying too much rings true, too. Arlington Sparks is good, too. Chevrolet—ah, there's a name for you and a fine car. The People's Bank gives me advice. Vansant and Newsome show good judgment. Fire Insurance, Mr. L. Bates Russell seems to speak with authority; Wm. C. Sutton—"our work our reference—good line. Buick sold by Mr. Furbush, everybody knows its a good car but its well to join their memory once in a while. Another—The Rock Hall Realty Company—Rock Hall must be a nice place and newsy according to the items on the last page. And say, Kibler's Corner is a gem. I read it every week. That makes me want to buy coal when I don't have to. My landlord does that, all I have to do is to promise the rent. Lots of other ads. attracted by attention but the paper is larger this week and I haven't finished reading it yet. The LANCER is a good writer, I don't understand "Sic transit gloria" bet that boy is just out of college.

The dog is barking at a book agent so I must stop. Nice paper—the ENTERPRISE—makes you feel acquainted with the whole county. I'd feel homesick now without it. Yours cheerfully,

Since the verses from THE COUNTRY BARD did not follow last week as scheduled we hope this week they make their appearance.

THE SPRING CATALOGUE

The mail box stands at the high road, for the mail-man shuns the lane; The children scamper each day to look, yet they often look in vain; But lo, this pleasant evening their errand extended by Rev. Mr. Leach. A book to bulky to trust within its jauntily poised outside. Shril with joy in their trophy they travel the lane, all three, Just a mail-house medley of bargains, a trifle to you or me, But for this little I don't tro, and the tired woman, too, It whispers "Open Sesame" and treasures are spread to view. Father plods along the furrow; there are apple-blossoms and song Thrilling the world about him but his day has been hard and long. Mother is getting snappy, too busy to thumb the book, And I think, were she free, God bless her, she would give her lambs "first look." Down on the floor they tumble, their eager heads close-met, The fairy pages between them, with pictures closely set. And now it is the time for "wishing" and "choosing" that or this, Till it seems in the house of wonders no item would come amiss. Father has had his supper; his tired eyes gleam a little, I don't tro, At the sight of the gaudy volume; he stretches his hand for it, (For fathers are not like mothers), but his youngest climbs his knee, And the older glance and the bright one see all that there is to see. There's a little battle with the dishes (and the housewife takes her turn; Father has clung to farm wares and the strange new tricks to learn; But mother seeks for the children's raiment and cunning things— Alas, must it end in fancy as so many other Springs? For when apple-blossoms are tinting and the robin-breasts aflame, Comes the Book of a Thousand Wishes, and hers are still the same, And only she can know it, and cry in the dark awhile, And tomorrow furbish and freshen—and do without—and smile! —Jeannie Pendleton Hall.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE STARTS SOON

Prof. Louis C. Robinson, Of Chestertown, Is Chairman Of Sale For Kent

Announcement has been received from the offices of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, Inc., at Baltimore, Maryland, of the appointment of Mr. Louis C. Robinson, of Chestertown, as Seal Sale Chairman for Kent County, for its twentieth annual Tuberculosis Seal Sale campaign which will open on Thanksgiving Day and continue until Christmas.

Mr. Robinson commenting on the coming sale, said, "It is our desire this year to put over a banner Seal Sale so that we may continue our county health work on a larger scale than in the past. Every one will be given an opportunity to purchase Seals, and have a part in the prevention and eradication of Tuberculosis in our county. The work that has been accomplished by the little seal in the past twenty years is stupendous. Twenty years ago there were more than 300,000 deaths in the United States from Tuberculosis. Today this has been cut by more than half. Now is the time, not to let up or relinquish in our efforts, but to increase our health program and Tuberculosis work so that the white plague may finally and for all time be placed in the category of diseases such as Small Pox."

Mr. Robinson has received the Seal Sale posters and advertising material which will be displayed throughout the county in the interest of the sale. This year as in the past 70 per cent of the funds raised in this county will be used to finance county health work. Of the 30 per cent which will be sent to the State office, 5 per cent goes toward financing the National Tuberculosis program. The 25 per cent which will remain at the State office will be used to finance field work, educational program, supplies, and clerical service for this county.

Bishop McDowell To Preside In City

Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington, D. C., will preside over the 90th annual session of the Methodist Episcopal Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be held in Union M. E. Church, Fifth and Washington streets, beginning March 2, 1928.

Announcement of this was made in Detroit, Mich., yesterday, at the fall conference of the Board of Bishops, when the assignment of bishops and the dates of domestic conferences under their direction were made public.

Clautice Accepts Chamber's Invitation

Mr. George Clautice, executive secretary of the Baltimore Association of Commerce has accepted the invitation extended to him by the local Chamber of Commerce to attend the dinner which is to be held on Nov. 17th at Washington College. Mr. Clarence M. Dillon of the Wilmington Chamber who has spoken on several occasions in Chestertown is also expected to be present. Tickets are on sale at the offices on Court Street or may be obtained through any member of the organization. With such a prominent speaker as Mr. Chester Leasure on the program it was decided to make the occasion a public affair rather than to confine it, as before, to members of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce.

Queen Street Closed To Traffic Today

Queen Street, from Church Alley to High Street, was blocked off and traffic turned to other streets today while trees were trimmed and a pole no longer in use, was removed. The trimming of the trees was under the supervision of Forester Chas. H. Reiche.

There will always be movie fans who like best the actor who gets himself killed in the last reel.

Lecture For Library Given Monday Night

The first of a series of entertainments and lectures given for the benefit of the Chestertown Public Library was held on Monday evening in the Court House here. A large crowd was present at this first affair.

The entertainment was given by Mr. H. Nichols, who spoke on the "Love and Laughter of James Whitcomb Riley."

The second of the series will take place on December 5 when A. H. Vautier will give the first of his talks on Current Events.

James M. Hepbrun Talks To Rotarians

Members Of Local Bar Guests At Rotary Meeting

James M. Hepbrun, a former Kent county boy, and director of the Crime Commission of Baltimore City, was the main speaker at the weekly meeting of the Chestertown Rotary Club last Monday evening.

Mr. Hepbrun told of the crime conditions in European countries and in America. According to Mr. Hepbrun, the United States is not only the leading country in the world as far as engineering and medicine were concerned, but that it also leads in crime.

Firemen Answer Alarms For Two Chimney Blazes

Chimney fires have caused the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company to be called out twice during the past week.

Last Thursday, about 10 p. m., a chimney blaze at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage in Pomona caused a call to be sent to the local company. The occupants of the house could not extinguish the fire and did not wish to retire with it still ablaze.

Sunday, about 9 a. m., a fire at a house near the Metcalfe Brother's grain elevator caused the alarm to be sounded.

Both blazes were extinguished with but little damage.

"Big Parade" A Great War Epic

That monumental screen epic, "The Big Parade," starring John Gilbert, which will be shown here, Dec. 1st, 2nd and 3rd, at the Lyceum Theatre, will be declared by all those who see it, without exception the greatest motion picture ever exhibited in Chestertown.

"The Big Parade," is a simple story, simply told. Jim Apperson, an easy-going, likeable young fellow enlists at the outbreak of the war leaving his family and sweetheart. He becomes deeply attached to his two buddies, Slim and Bull, played delightfully by Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien. While stationed behind the lines, he falls in love with a French peasant girl, Melisande, and at the conclusion of the war goes home to conditions changed. It would be unfair to feature any one part of the rest of the story. How he works out his destiny is the basis of a powerful and human climax.

King Vidor has reached an exalted cinematic goal with this picture. The film has a martial swing and the rhythm of blended comedy interest awakens a response in every spectator in the audience.

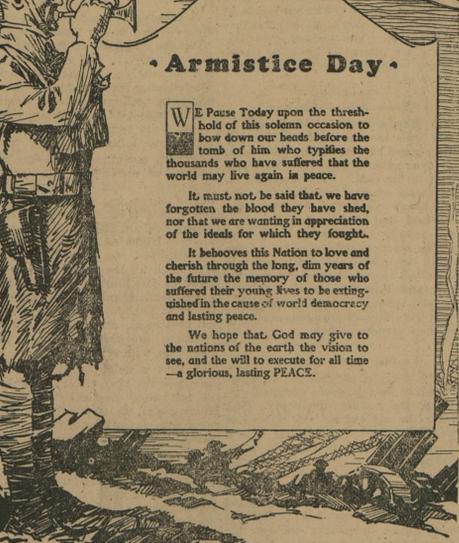

John Gilbert is superb as the American doughboy; he has never done anything finer. Renee Adoree plays the part of the French Melisande to perfection. There is something in the love scenes between these two that makes the heart leap. Frequently terrible in its swiftness and emotional quality, "The Big Parade" is not all filled with the terror of war. Its first half is filled with almost continuous laughter. The second half shows, more clearly than anything else ever has, its grim realities.

Mt. Vernon Society Hold Annual Dance

The Mount Vernon Literary Society, of Washington College, held a dance in the gymnasium on Saturday evening. Many attended, this, the first and only open function of the society in the year.

Musical was furnished by the Washington Collegians.

CEASE FIRING NOV. 1918

Armistice Day

WE Pause Today upon the threshold of this solemn occasion to bow down our heads before the tomb of him who typifies the thousands who have suffered that the world may live again in peace.

It must not be said that we have forgotten the blood that we shed, nor that we are wanting in appreciation of the ideals for which they fought.

It behooves this Nation to love and cherish through the long, dim years of the future the memory of those who suffered their young lives to be extinguished in the cause of world democracy and lasting peace.

We hope that God may give to the nations of the earth the vision to see, and the will to execute for all time—a glorious, lasting PEACE.

Third Annual Standard Training School For Church Workers Begins

Sessions Held In The Methodist Episcopal Church Here—Six Meetings Constitute Course

The Third Annual Standard Training School of Church Workers to be conducted at the Chestertown M. E. Church, began last night and will continue throughout the following five Tuesdays to Dec. 6th, and one Wednesday, November 16th. Representatives of all denominations may register, there being no creed restrictions.

The school is to be conducted by the Chestertown Standard Training School Board of Managers, the Board of Church Schools of the Wilmington Conference and the Department of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The faculty and officers are as follows: Rev. E. M. Shockley, Pastor, North East, Md.; Miss Margaret L. Isley, B. R. E., Director of Elementary Work, Wilmington Conference.

Miss Elizabeth DeMaris, A. B., A. M., Superintendent of Wesley Mission, Wilmington, Del.; Rev. F. A. Lindhorst, A. B., S. T. B., "Dean," Director of Religious Education; Miss M. Ermyr Jewell, "registrar," Chestertown, Md.; Rev. C. W. Clark, A. B., "Promotion Chairman," Still Pond, Md.; Rev. W. F. Corkran and Earl T. Willis, "librarians," Chestertown, Md.

The four courses offered this year include two new ones, namely: "Primary Materials and Methods," by Miss Margaret L. Isley, and "Junior Workshop," by Miss Elizabeth De Maris. The other two subjects are "Principles of Teaching," by Rev. F. A. Lindhorst, "The Life of Christ," by Rev. E. M. Shockley.

The school meets six nights, beginning last night at 7 o'clock. Two class sessions, 50 minutes each will be held each evening, including the initial night. A worship period will be held intervening the class sessions.

To every student who completes his course with a grade of 70 or above will be awarded at the conclusion of the school a "Certificate of Credit" in the standard training course.

Bay Bridge Hearing Set For Next Tuesday

The hearing on the revised plans for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge is scheduled to take place at the Court House in Baltimore on next Tuesday, November 15.

Stuart S. Janney, who represents the bridge interests in Baltimore has written President Thomas W. Perkins, of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce, urging that a delegation from Kent attend the meeting and lend their support in behalf of the bridge.

The new plans call for a 500 foot draw which should be large enough to meet the approval of the barge interests who objected at the last meeting.

—The Women's Auxiliary of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company will meet at The Fire House, Monday, November 14th at 7 p. m. Mrs. Wheeler will be present to select the cast for "Nic Nacs."

Large Real Estate Deal Reported Here

It was reported in real estate circles here today that the Skipper farm in Queen Annes county, near here, known as Primrose Point, had been sold to a group of Philadelphia men who planned a development.

No definite information on the project could be unearthed. The rumor said that it was part of the plans of the new owners to construct a golf course for the use of the summer colonists.

Father Of Golf Gives Talk Here

A. H. Findlay Lays Out Golf Course Today

The "Father of Golf in America," A. H. Findlay, of Philadelphia, spoke before the members of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club on Tuesday evening. Mr. Findlay told of the origin of golf and its development and a pier for yachts will be placed here, laying out the golf course for the local club. Mr. Findlay is deciding in what positions the various holes and greens should be placed.

The actual work of making the course will start in a few days when a special man will come to Chestertown for the purpose of constructing the greens and tees.

Stephen R. Collins, president of the club, said today that they hoped to get all of the holes constructed before heavy winter weather sets in. It is the plan to sow the course with grass seed in the Spring.

Mr. Findlay will also choose the site for the club house which is to be erected. This with the golf course and a pier for yachts will be all the improvements made at the club at the present.

According to Mr. Collins the club now has sixty members and that before Spring it is hoped to increase this to one hundred.

Conowingo Bridge Opened November 15

The Conowingo bridge over the Susquehanna river, which was moved downstream from its former site to make way for the Conowingo dam, will be opened for traffic on November 15, according to an announcement made yesterday by the State Roads Commission.

State Roads Commissioner John Mackell said there would be no ceremonies attached to the opening. The bridge has always been toll-free, and will so continue.

Masons Heard Special Speaker Here Tuesday

A special communication of Ches Lodge of Masons was held last evening. Representatives from a number of orders on the Shore participated. The address was delivered by the Rev. Edward T. Reed, pastor of Easton Methodist Protestant Church, and one of the prominent Masons of the Shore. J. Roscoe Wheatley, assistant grand lecturer, of Easton, took part. W. Robert Huey, worthy master of the local lodge, presided. Refreshments were served.

Many Rats Flee As Old Building Is Razed

Hundreds of rats scurried for new homes on Tuesday when the old building next to the postoffice was torn down to make room for the new Lyceum Theatre. Many of the rats were killed but some escaped to nearby buildings.

The work of the new theatre is moving rapidly under W. S. and A. M. Culp, Contractors.

First Snow Fell Here On Tuesday

The first snow of the season fell here yesterday at 1:10 p. m. The fall was only of a few minutes duration. It then changed to hail and sleet and finally to rain.

The snow, though not heavy enough to stay upon the ground, was real snow, anyhow, and children in the Elementary School had hopes for the first sledding of the year. Their hopes, however, were short lived.

"Golden Rule" Nash Is Dead

Arthur Nash, Nationally known as "Golden Rule" Nash, who bought a one-room tailoring shop in Cincinnati in 1918, and, by applying the principles of the Golden Rule to his business, sold fourteen million dollars worth of clothing in 1926, died suddenly at his home in Cincinnati Sunday, Oct. 29, aged 59 years. He had been educated for the ministry, and was a lecturer of some note.

—Don't forget the By-Kota supper to be held tomorrow in the M. E. Church beginning at 5:30 p. m., oysters, ham, chicken salad, hominy, macaroni, Maryland biscuits, coffee, etc. See adv. elsewhere.

CAR STOLEN AND RECOVERED—MAN JAILED

Roy Dutrey, 35, Of Harrisburg, Pa., Held For Grand Jury

Admitting that he stole the automobile belonging to David McMennamin, of Chestertown, Roy Dutrey, 35, is in the county jail here, held for the action of the Grand Jury at the Spring term of court.

The automobile was stolen while parked at the Chestertown M. E. Church here on Sunday afternoon. Mr. McMennamin, upon discovering the loss and finding that it was not a joke perpetrated by some friends, notified States Attorney Stephen R. Collins. Mr. Collins sent a call to the Salisbury Highway Patrol, near the State Police and the police placed a blockade on all roads leading from Maryland. They also notified the Delaware State Police to be on the look out for the stolen car. The automobile was one easily identified because of its bright orange wire wheels.

Dutrey, driving the stolen car, was stopped by the Delaware police near State Road, Delaware, a few miles from Wilmington. When he could not produce a registration card Sheriff J. Thomas Hadaway, of Kent, was notified and the map brought to Chestertown.

According to Dutrey, who lives in Harrisburg, Pa., he was attempting to escape from his wife. He stole a car in Harrisburg and started for Salisbury. Somewhere near the Maryland line the car ran out of gasoline and he abandoned it and begged rides as far as Chestertown. Here he saw McMennamin's car and decided to take it.

On Monday Sheriff Hadaway took the prisoner and a search was made for the car stolen in Pennsylvania, near the Maryland line. State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins said today the Pennsylvania authorities had notified him that they wanted Dutrey when Maryland had finished with him.

At a hearing on Monday evening, before Justice William B. Usilton, Dutrey pleaded guilty and was held for the action of the Grand Jury.

State Police Make Heavy Raid Here

Four members of the Maryland State Police visited Chestertown last Saturday evening and in the course of several hours arrested about twenty-five violators of the automobile laws.

All of the cases were tried before Justice William B. Usilton and kept him busy until near the midnight hour.

Many of those arrested and brought before Judge Usilton were charged with having but one headlight.

In one case, a car filled with colored people, was stopped because of the lack of lights and then the driver was found to be without his driver's card. When Judge Usilton pronounced the fine the several dunks were unable to raise the amount among them selves. They left the rear seat of the car for security and promised to return the next day with the money. They did.

The visit of the State Police is a part of a program being carried out all over the Eastern Shore. On the Saturday night previous about 30 arrests were made at Easton.

Rabbit Season To Be Ushered In Tomorrow

Beginning tomorrow Ere's Rabbitt is going to have a tough time for several months. For tomorrow the season for shooting the cotton tails opens and hundreds of Kent County gunners are going to take advantage of the opportunity to blaze away at Mr. Rabbitt.

For some weeks the more confirmed rabbit hunters here have been sharpening up the noses of their best rabbit hounds and it was all pointed toward tomorrow.

Lady Minstrels To Regain Rehearsals Monday

Rehearsals for the "Nic Nacs of 1927" the all lady minstrel review to be staged for the benefit of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company will begin next Monday evening. At this time Mrs. H. J. Wheeler, who has directed the three successes for the fire company, will arrive here and select the cast. Mrs. Wheeler and her sister will play the extreme ends in the minstrel part of the production.

Gunning Party From Kent At Flats

Delegate Arthur H. Brice, of Betterton, is the host today of a party of gunners on the Susquehanna Flats. The party which includes Phillip G. Wilmer, of Chestertown, left last night at 9 p. m. for the hunting grounds by boat from Betterton.
