LOYOLA WINS OVER MAROON ELEVEN 34 TO 0

Washington Team Plays Well At Times But No Match For Gridders From Evergreen

Locals Near Goal Line In Final Minutes But Are Halted Short Of The Mark

By GRIDDER Washington College's little football team was no match for the huskies at Loyola and last Friday were beaten 34 to 0. The local eleven never had a chance for victory, nor were they figured to have, but on the other hand had they played ball at all times as they played part of the time Loyola would have been lucky to have won by a two touchdown margin.

To begin with Coach Brown, realizing that victory was hopeless, started the game with a large number of subs in the lineup. The youngsters were scared. Stage fright had them and in the first five minutes the Loyola gang waltzed around to score a pair of touchdowns and a couple of goals. Then the little Washington eleven began to buckle under the pressure. They showed some of the same dash that carried them to victory over St. John's. The lads from Evergreen were held scoreless for the remainder of the first period and throughout the whole of the second quarter. In the third Loyola crossed the goal line once. This score was the result of an intercepted pass which Childs snared from out of the air and continued on across the goal line, a distance of about 35 yards.

In the fourth quarter Loyola recovered a fumble on Washington's 35 yard line and with a series of line plays carried the ball across for a score. Once again in this final session the Jesuits marched toward and across the sacred line.

It was in this final session that Washington made its only bid for a score. The little St. John's eleven recovered a Loyola fumble on the 35 yard line. Alexander, Washington's quarterback, who carried the ball but very little, crossed the Baltimoreans when he dashed for 12 yards on a delayed play. Taking the ball from center he faked a pass to one of the other backs and wheeled to go between guard and tackle for 12 yards. Then Captain Norris, who played but a few minutes, outran everything on the field to go around Loyola's right end for 15 yards before being forced out of bounds on the two-yard line.

With two yards to go and four downs to make it Washington's hopes ran high for a score. Two cracks at the line failed to gain and a third resulted in a loss. On the fourth down a pass was tried and knocked down for a touchdown by the Jesuits. The game soon ended. Numerous fumbles made by the Washington eleven also helped the Evergreen players, though they really needed but little help. They were of the type that helped themselves and were not a bit bashful about doing it.

Had Coach Brown chosen to have used his first string men throughout the game he could have probably made a better showing. He wisely decided to hold back his stars for a possible victory over Mt. St. Mary's on the home lot this Saturday. A particularly bright spot in the Washington line was Marth. The 145 pound guard was thru the Loyola forwards time after time. He played a whale of a game.

Loyola, however, could have probably run up a larger score had there been a necessity. After the first couple of touchdowns they played under wraps, for the whole Western Maryland eleven was there to look them over.

PUNTS AND PASSES

The hopes of Washington College for a football victory over Mt. St. Mary's on Saturday of this week were rudely thrust under a cold shower last Saturday when the gridders from Emmitsburg tossed a licking into the hide of Lebanon Valley. The score was 6 to 0.

Lebanon Valley, on the Saturday before, had trimmed Brown by a score of something like 37 to 7. This all makes Mt. St. Mary's victory sweeter. According to reports Mt. St. Mary's was rather lucky to score but on the other hand a team that can hold Lebanon Valley scoreless surely has something. The Mounts scored when Ryscavage blocked a punt on the five yard line and plunged on over the goal line for the only score of the game.

Lebanon Valley had the best of the argument in all other stakes of the game. They carried the ball to the Mount's five yard line only to be halted by a stone wall defense.

Coach Phil Brown, of Washington, scouted the Mounts when his team had a Saturday off.

Temple scratched out a 7 to 0 win over Brown by scoring in the first quarter and holding the lead from that point on. The eleven at Temple is one that seems to have played an in and out game all season. They show to a decided advantage one week and the next are just barely able to come out on top. There is no question of the ability of the material. It is possible, however, that it has not been handled to advantage. In the early season practices they scrimmaged with Penn and put it all over the Quakers if you can believe the reports that came out of Franklin Field. They have lost only one game and that to Dartmouth.

When the Washington College football team closes its season against Drexel on November 19 they will meet a friend of old in the person of Walter Halas who is coaching the Drexel eleven. Halas, a former Notre Dame player and coach, held the reins at Mt. St. Mary's for several years. At Emmitsburg he was very successful against Washington College. He coached the football team that defeated Washington 13 to 0 on the local field in 1923. It was in this game that Bobby Cavanaugh got off to a nice 35 yard run and crossed the goal line untouched only to have the play recalled because Tim Crowe had decided to that time to take a shot at one of the visiting players. It is until this time the locals had the edge. This play seemed to upset them and Mt. St. Mary's went ahead to a 13 to 0 win.

It was Halas who also coached the Mounts basketball team to a State Championship by winning two games from Washington in Baltimore.

Drexel won its first game last Saturday when they defeated Upland 45 to 0. This in itself proves but little. Upland is a college somewhere in New Jersey. They are frequently defeated by high schools. However, Drexel can be counted upon to give Washington a real battle and if the locals want to win they will have to put up a better brand of ball than they have displayed in their last two starts.

Basket Ball Squad To Have Snappy Suits

The basketball authorities at Washington College are figuring on a winning team. But, winner or loser, the "Flying Pentagon" this season will take a back seat to none when it comes to being well dressed.

Coach J. T. Kibler made a special trip to Baltimore last week and arranged for the uniforms for this year's five.

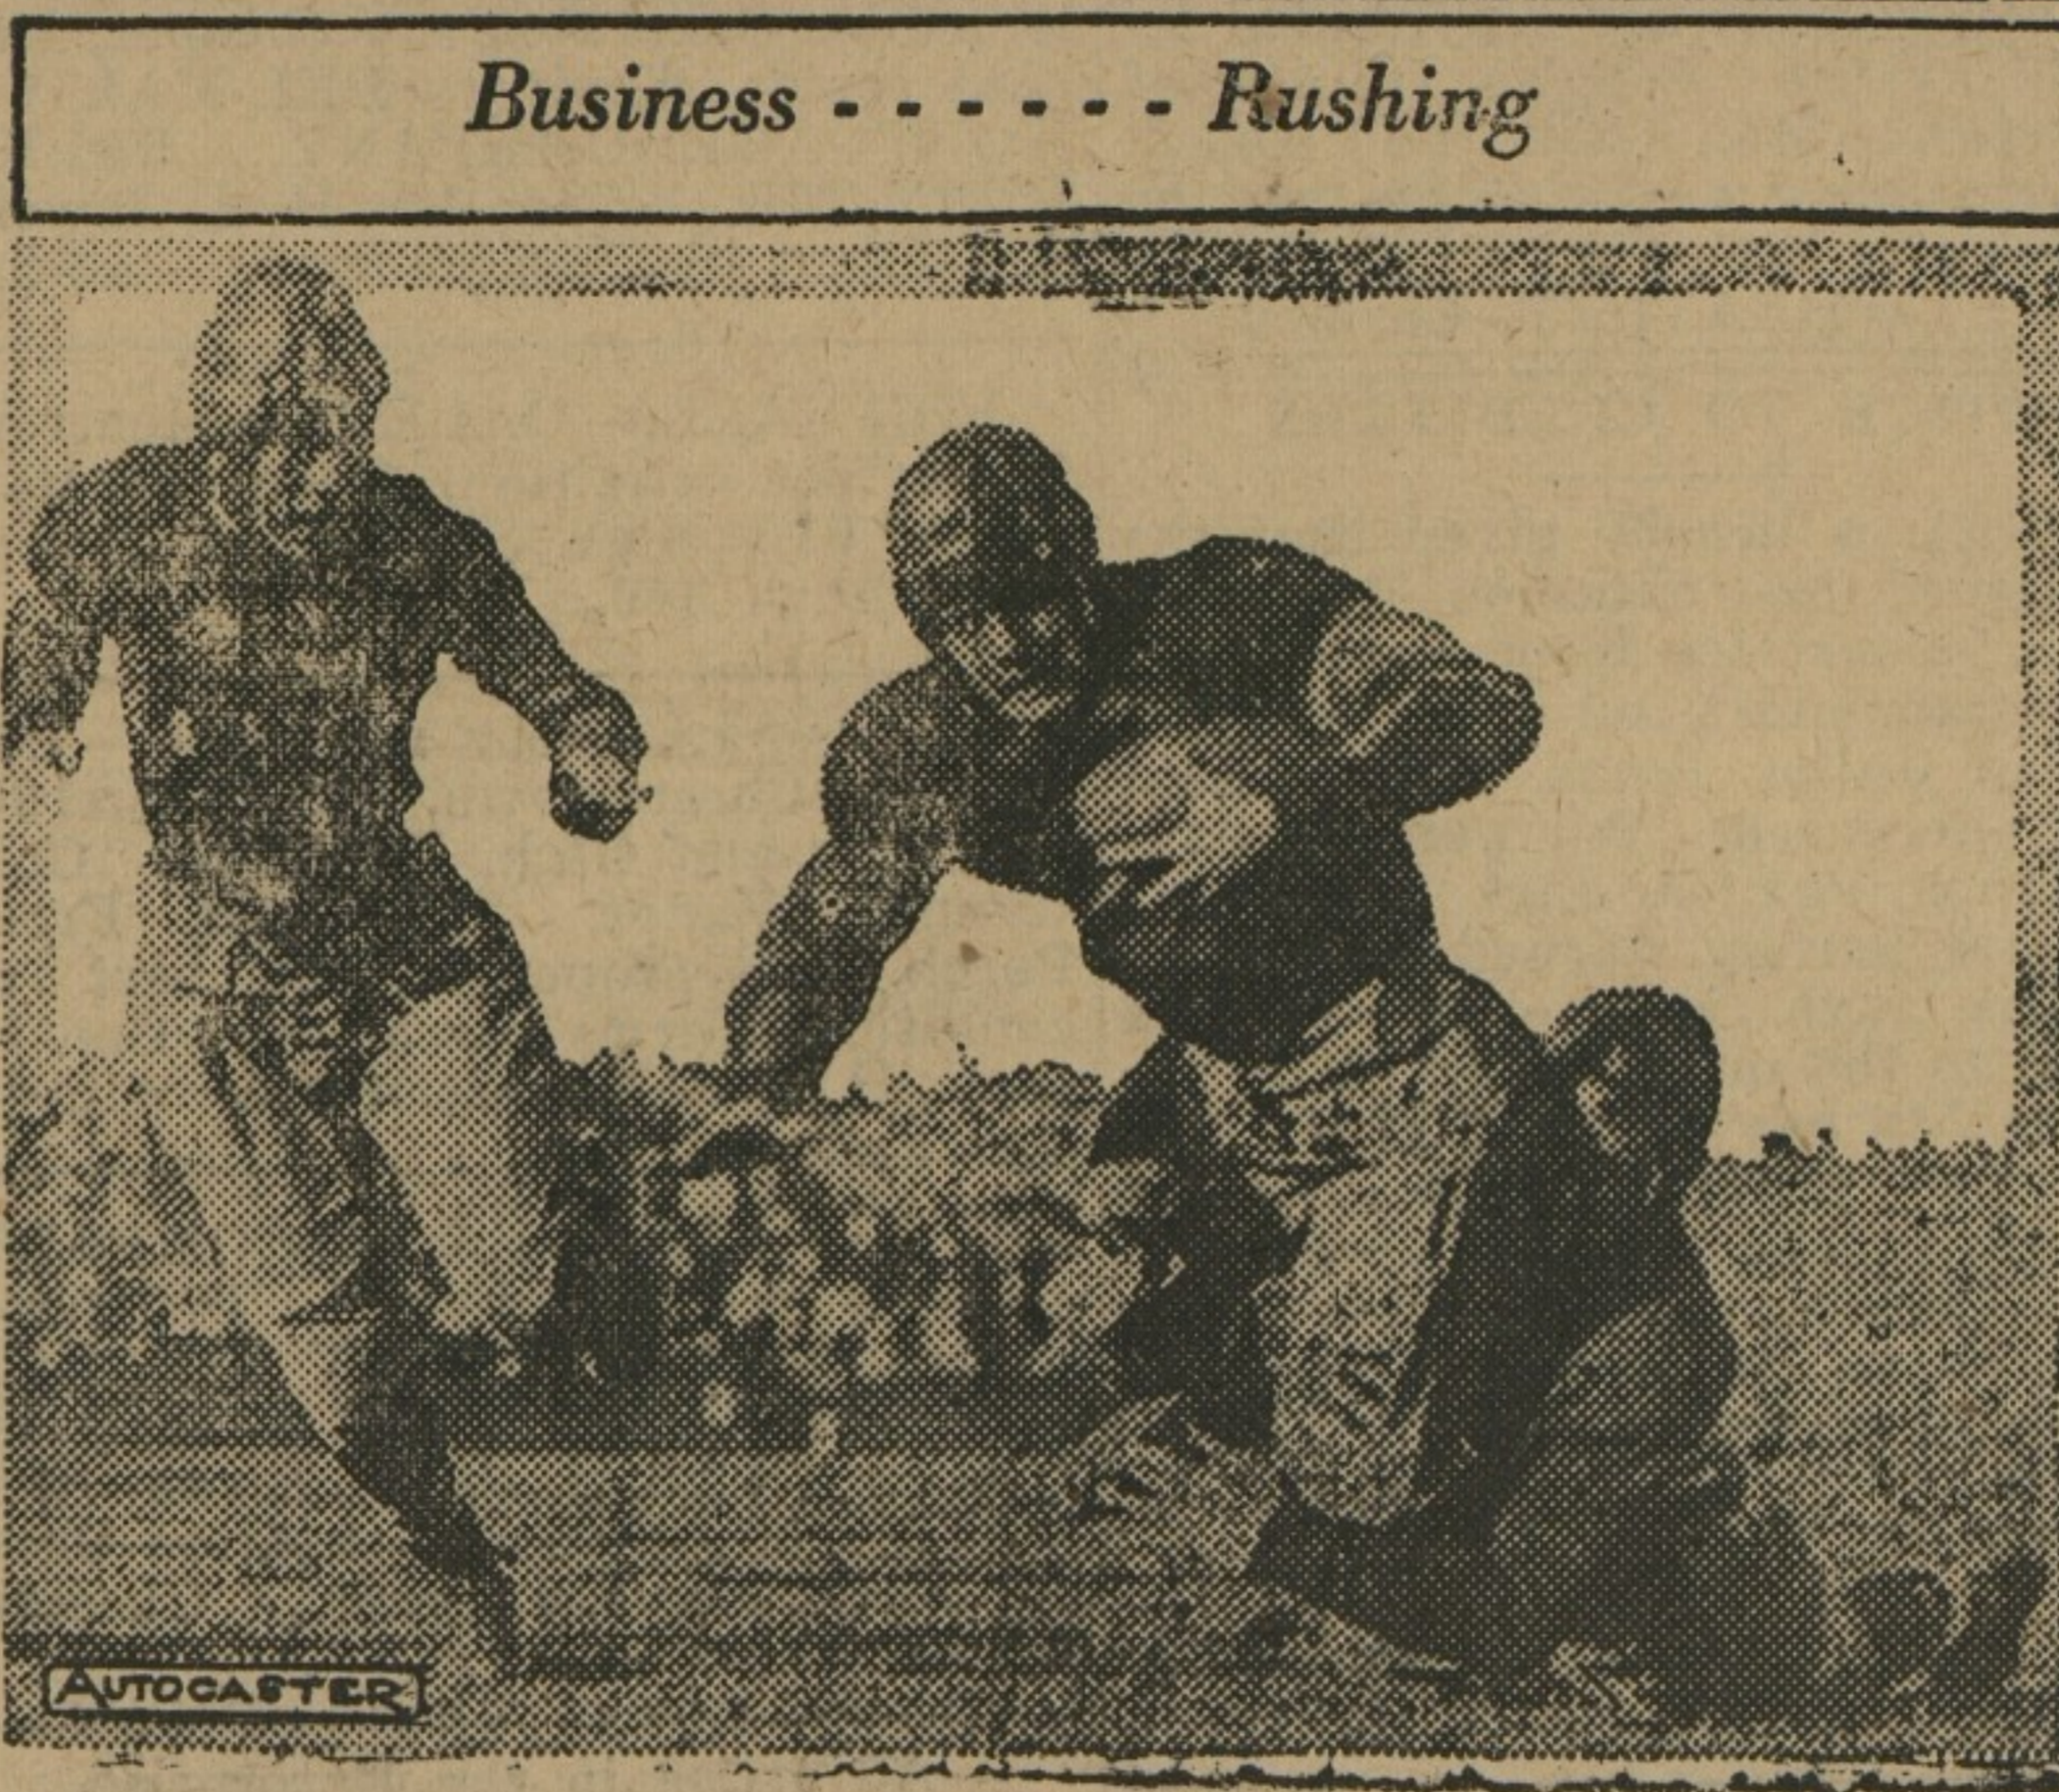

The uniform in itself will be the same as last season's. But it is in the extras that the "Pentagon" will shine. To begin with Coach Kibler has selected a bright scarlet for his extra jerseys. It has been customary for the Washington team to use its maroon jerseys when traveling. But for home games when a visiting team had a dark jersey they resort to white. This season, however, they will sport the scarlet shirts when a visiting five trots out with a dark colored jersey.

But wait until you see the "Pentagon" trot on the floor for the short practice before the game. They will be outfitted in the long training pants of black, with the zippers up the side to allow them to be removed easily. They will have black training jerseys to match and these will have trimmings in maroon.

Stanley Robbins Will Have Five At Salisbury

Stanley Robbins, one of the best all round athletes that the Eastern Shore of Maryland has ever known, after several years of inactivity in the realm of sport is planning to return this basketball season. Robbins is a former Washington College athlete and while at the local school captained all three major sports, football, basketball and base ball in his senior year. He is at present one of the leading lawyers on the Eastern Shore and is established at Salisbury.

It is at Salisbury that Robbins plans to return to the court game. He, with several other former college and high school players, is forming an independent team to take a place in the league of the Eastern Shore metropolis.

Mt. St. Mary's Will Have Weight Edge Over Washington On Saturday

Mt. St. Mary's comes to Washington Field on Saturday with one of the best teams that it has had in several years. They are fresh from a victory over Lebanon Valley, conquerors of Brown, and expect to make short work of the Washington College game.

Mt. St. Mary's will have a big advantage over Washington in weight. The squad from the Mount will average 167 pounds per man in the backfield and 173 pounds per man in the line. This gives them a team average of 170 or about a 15 pound advantage over Washington.

The feature and strong point of the Emmitsburg eleven is the play of its ends. Coach Brown, of Washington, who scouted the Mounts last week announces the St. Mary's ends the best that his team has seen this season.

The squads with position, numbers and weights:

Table with columns: Position, Name, No., Wt. Includes Fullbacks (Russell, Campbell), Halfbacks (Connell, Dooley, Wolfe, O'Shea, Langan, Riley, Hearn), Quarterbacks (Tracy, Haubrich), Ends (Ryscavage, Ed, McAll, Dooley, Joe, Mattie), Tackles (Buckley, Boggs, Tobin), Guards (Pecolakis, Palmer, Kurtz, Wilton), Centers (Ryscavage, Jerry, Tapper, Phelan).

Washington College despite its loss to Loyola last Friday by a rather one-sided score played good football in spots. They expect to put up the same sort of game that sent them to the wire ahead of St. John's on the local field several weeks ago. They are predicting no victory over the Mounts but are out to make a good showing and to win if possible.

When Washington walked all over St. John's to the joy of the local fans several weeks ago, doing much of the "walking over" was a little back named Fobert. This lad has since been lost to the Washington squad. The dash and fire of Fobert added a lot to the Washington eleven and since the St. John's game they have never again reached the peak that they occupied that day.

Coach Brown has drilled his little eleven hard this week and has them ready for a real game.

The squad with numbers, positions and weights:

Table with columns: Position, Name, No., Wt. Includes Fullbacks (Norris, Von Breisen), Halfbacks (Purcell, Dopson, Chapman, Crouse, Norris, B), Quarterbacks (Alexander, Lloyd), Ends (Mandrell, Burke, Estes, Dickerson, Daniels), Tackles (Phillips, Schnauffer, Rosin, Griffin), Guards (Willson, Stewart, Marth, Dubin), Centers (Archambault, Karigin).

Chestertown Defeats Galena At Soccer

The Chestertown High School soccer team made a hearty meal off of the little team that represents Galena High last Friday, and at the end of the game the Chestertown boys had amassed a total of 18 points while Galena was unable to score.

In less than a minute after the game had started the Chestertown boys had booted the first one thru the goal. From that point on it was just a question of how many.

The little lads from Galena, outweighed fifteen or twenty pounds to a man, put up a gallant fight and at all times forced the Chestertown boys to keep awake.

Only once in the entire game was the Chestertown goal keeper called upon to touch the ball. This was when a long quick kick by one of the Galena lads got passed every one else and started in the direction of the goal. The goal keeper scrambled forth and with plenty of time gave the ball a well directed boot and sent it back down the field. It didn't return.

A rather large crowd witnessed the game which was played on the local high school field.

On Friday of this week Rock Hall will come to Chestertown for a game that will have much to do with the deciding of the county championship. Rock Hall holds a victory over the Chestertown boys and one over Galena. They won the Chestertown game 4 to 2 and the Galena contest 4 to 0.

The trouble with modern college life is that there is too much life and not enough college.

Nine Basket Ball Rules Are Revised

Joint Committee Changes Some Parts And Clarifies Others In Court Code For 1927-28

DRIBBLE LAW UNTOUCHED

Nine rules of the basket ball code have been revised for the 1927-28 season, some undergoing changes and others being clarified by the Joint Rules Committee, representing the Amateur Athletic Union, the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Y. M. C. A.

The rules which they will affect teams within the jurisdiction of the three organizations are announced in the new Spalding Basket Ball Guide. No changes are made in the dribble. Last April the Joint Committee started the basket ball world by announcing a new rule limiting the dribble to a single bounce. Subsequently the committee reversed its decision, although still of the opinion that the change is desirable.

The question of an ideal sized court has been under discussion, and a subcommittee has been appointed to make a study of the matter. A decision is expected before the 1928-29 season.

The revisions which go into effect this year are as follows:

Rule 5, Section 6.—A note is inserted urging teams not to use numbers 1 and 2 in numbering players.

Rule 6, Section 6.—Two new questions and answers have been written to amplify this section, one on withholding the ball from play and the other on "courtesy time out."

Rule 6, Section 13.—A question and answer have been inserted giving the referee authority to designate which timekeeper operates the watch in case of disagreement.

Rule 8, Section 5.—When the ball is tossed up between two players, the whistle is not to be blown except at the beginning of a period or after time out.

Rule 11, Section 1.—Time is to be taken out on all fouls, the foul to be stopped at the instant the foul is called until: (a) in the case of technical fouls, or double fouls, the ball is tossed up at center; (b) in the case of personal fouls, the ball is placed at the disposal of the free thrower for the free throw, or for the last free throw if a multiple free throw is awarded.

Rule 11, Section 3.—If the ball is in play and in the possession of a player when "time out" is called, that player puts the ball in play from out of bounds when play is resumed.

Rule 14, Section 10.—When a player dribbles and throws for goal, he may recover the ball and dribble again after the ball has touched the basket or backboard. Also if the ball is batted out of the hands of a player who has completed a dribble, the player may dribble again.

Rule 14, Section 10, note applying to Sections 8, 9 and 10.—The player who has the ball shall pass it immediately to the player indicated by the official who called the violation.

Rule 15, Section 1, note.—On a jump ball, if the ball drops without being tapped by either jumper, it is to be tossed up again, even though one player catches it before it reaches the floor. This is not to be interpreted as permitting a player to jump and catch the ball.

References to questions and answers have been inserted in the rules alongside the sections to which they apply.

For special comment on kicking the ball, passing the ball in from out of bounds, and touching the ball to the floor, see questions and answers Nos. 59, 57 and 37. In playing the ball in from out of bounds a player is not permitted to touch the boundary line unless the space out of bounds is limited.

An executive is a man who is glued to an office chair all day, with a half dozen underlings to do his bidding for him, so that he can find some time to walk around a golf course.

SPLASHES IN SPORTS

By H. S. ARE

The goal keeper for Chestertown in the Chestertown-Galena soccer game had a tough time last Friday.

He found it necessary to touch the ball just once.

The rest of the time he played with his handkerchief and smiled at the girls.

However, it would be a terrible job on a cold day.

Just wondering: Suppose Washington College should beat Mt. St. Mary's on Saturday.

Now that the bleachers have gone the way of all good bleachers the students wouldn't have anything to celebrate with.

They might start to burn down Reid Hall.

This would be a real service to the athletics of the college.

Learned something last Saturday from a vender of souvenirs at a big football game.

Most people buy their colors on the way out instead of the way in.

In this way they can always say that they were with the winner.

If reports from Emmitsburg are true Mt. St. Mary's may arrive here Saturday by airplane.

They are given to air attacks, so Coach Brown is getting his anti-aircraft guns oiled up.

Chestertown and Rock Hall will kick at each others shins next Friday in an important soccer contest.

The high school students have taken a page from the psychology book of the Washington College athletic department and all of the "high" boys and girls are plastered with signs, "Beat Rock Hall."

It worked against St. John's. Maybe it will work against Rock Hall.

Up until last week we always thought that the object of a soccer game was to see how many shins you could skin.
