THE WORLD OVER

I am well acquainted with a young man, a class mate of mine, in fact, when we were both rated as undergraduates. He always resented this "under" part of the title and, indeed, he seldom was.

He spent most of his time in conceiving schemes to get something for nothing. For all the years I have known him he has worked on such a scheme. Up until a few days ago I suppose he had never hit upon the scheme for which he was looking. But, in my mail last week was a letter from this chap. He has at last hit upon the idea. The profit in it, we must admit, is slight, but it is fundamental sound. The plot is this: When you desire to send a letter to someone within your own town address the envelope to yourself, put the address of the person to whom it is to be sent in the upper left-hand corner, and drop it in any mail-box without a stamp. The letter will be "Returned for postage" to the person named in the address.

It doesn't work with out-of-town missives, but for the little home burg it is the berries.

Ray Moody, who covers the Dictionary territory for this column, has searched out a new word to use in "writing-up" Adelaide Lambert. Tired of calling her a "mermaid" he will in his next article shift over to "Naiaid," which according to Webster is a "water-nymph."

T. H. O. K. writes from the Philippines that a short story writer, a friend of his, is the originator of a new Freudian school. The author had been troubled with nerves, and was prevailed upon to consult a psychologist. Later he discovered the nerve attack was due primarily to a combination of lobster and ice cream at a dinner, but he discovered also that the visit to the psychologist had not been in vain. He found that the professor had recalled by his persistent interrogation many former experiences that were excellent short story material. The visit in fact, was good for three stories, all of which were sold. Now he goes regularly—and the stories that result bring about ten times the cost of the treatment.

A new game has been discovered and is being sponsored by pretzel manufacturers. It is called "pretzelcoring" and consists of biting your initials, name, or anything you wish in a pretzel.

You are getting a whole box of pretzels free for mentioning the game.

While I was a "college columnist" a store keeper offered me a new hat if I would mention the name of his establishment six times in my column. I didn't, but I didn't know as much then as I do now.

I see no excuse for withholding from my constituency, incidentally, the real reason why Mr. Coolidge has chosen not to run. Every one knows that the President is riding on the high tide of popularity. Likewise we will be precocious to abide by American precedents and his ability as a taker of the bulls by the horns. Hence, adding this knowledge to the authority of our special Dakota correspondent—whose word is usually as interesting as it is unreliable—we are able to announce at this time that Mr. Coolidge is giving up office for a contract to play Western parts in the movies.

Over the coffee in a suburban dining room the other evening," writes H. F. B. Jr., "we heard the world's champion pugilist, Mr. Tunney, answer with fluency, enthusiasm and charm all the questions which twelve diners, equally divided as to sex, asked him about himself. We found his answers to two queries, having to do with his defeat of Dempsey in Philadelphia, particularly interesting. Asked who had advised him in the matter of tactics and generalship in the ring he replied that thousands of bits of advice had been offered by hundreds of persons, but that he had been able to make use of but one fragment. This solved the question of what to do between the time he entered the ring and the beginning of the fight. He had been warned that the famous Dempsey scowl, habitually worn during these important moments, had frightened many a fighter. At the same time he feared if he allowed his gaze to wander over the vast crowd present his nerves would suffer. So he obeyed the suggestion made by an older pugilist; he looked neither at Dempsey or the crowd. Instead, he picked one friend, seated near the ringside, and upon him centered all his attention. He bowed to him, waved several times, keeping his mind on him alone and thus forgetting both Dempsey and the multitude. Mr. Tunney explained his traveling by airplane between his training camp and the stadium by saying that he feared the motor trip because of the dust, and the train because of the heat and crowd. Going by air seemed the most sensible thing to do."

That answers several questions that to me have always been hard to fathom. And H. F. B. Jr., adds that Mr. Tunney is a "gentleman in the strictest sense."

A New Vision Of Health

A new vision of health has appeared to uncounted numbers of people in the last few years. A vision of health approaching perfection, health maintained without drugs or operation and without the periods of illness so common to many. This is because of the growth of Chiropractic, the health science that deals with the cause of disease rather than its treatment. By keeping the spine in alignment, the chiropractor keeps nerve lines free to function, and disease does not develop. By my chiropractic health method I correct diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and lower organs. MY PATIENTS GET WELL—ASK THEM. DR. T. A. TOBIN, CHIROPRACTOR, Chestertown Office: Voshell House. MONDAY AND FRIDAY, 9 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. Main Office: Easton, Phone 678.

Lord Babbington was instructing the new colored servant in his duties adding: "Now, Zeke, when I ring for you, you must answer me by saying, 'My Lord, what will you have?'" A few hours afterwards, having occasion to summon the servant, his lordship was astonished with the following: "My Gawd, what does you want now?"
