At Last It Happens

During all the charges of crooked and fixed baseball, boxing, racing and even chess, it seemed that basketball would remain untouched by the hot breath of scandal. But at last the court game has fallen.

Officials of Wabash College are investigating a report that professional gamblers attempted to "fix" a game between Wabash and Franklin Colleges.

Harry Scholler, athletic director of Wabash, has announced that one of his star players had been invited by a gambler to "get" sick before the game.

Scholler is concealing the identity of the player until further investigation is made. He said gamblers planned to clean up on the game by betting heavily. Apparently the gambling scheme fell through for Wabash walloped Franklin 47 to 33.

How's This For Scoring

Our janitor boy, colored, who claims to be a member of the Garnet High School, local colored school, basketball team, tells us that on last Friday evening his team visited Cambridge for a game and were defeated 28 to 0.

It may be true and it may not, but it at least has served a purpose. I have never heard of a shutout game in basketball. One, however, which I remember very well, came about as near being so as is possible. Oddly enough Cambridge is concerned in this story also.

'Twas back in 1920. The National Guard five from Cambridge met Washington College in the opening game of the season. It was scheduled as a practise affair for the "Kibbies."

For 39 minutes and quite a few seconds of the scheduled 40 minute game, Cambridge was unable to get the ball thru the basket. Foul and field goal attempts, both failed to reach the mark. Then, just a few very few, seconds before the final whistle, Micky Hubbard, a former Washington College student playing for the Cambridge team, dropped one thru from the center of the floor. The final score was 75 to 2.

A Remedy For Stalling, If Needed

Much has been said, and a great deal written, about the practise of a basketball team with a small lead stalling in the final minutes. In many circles the practise is condemned. In most cases the objection comes from one who has been his favorite beaten in a game in which the stalling was done by the opponents.

To me, personally, stalling is good basketball. But, as I have said before, my opinion is mine, yours may differ and yours to you is as good as mine to me. Therefore I give a remedy which has been proposed by a Chicago coach.

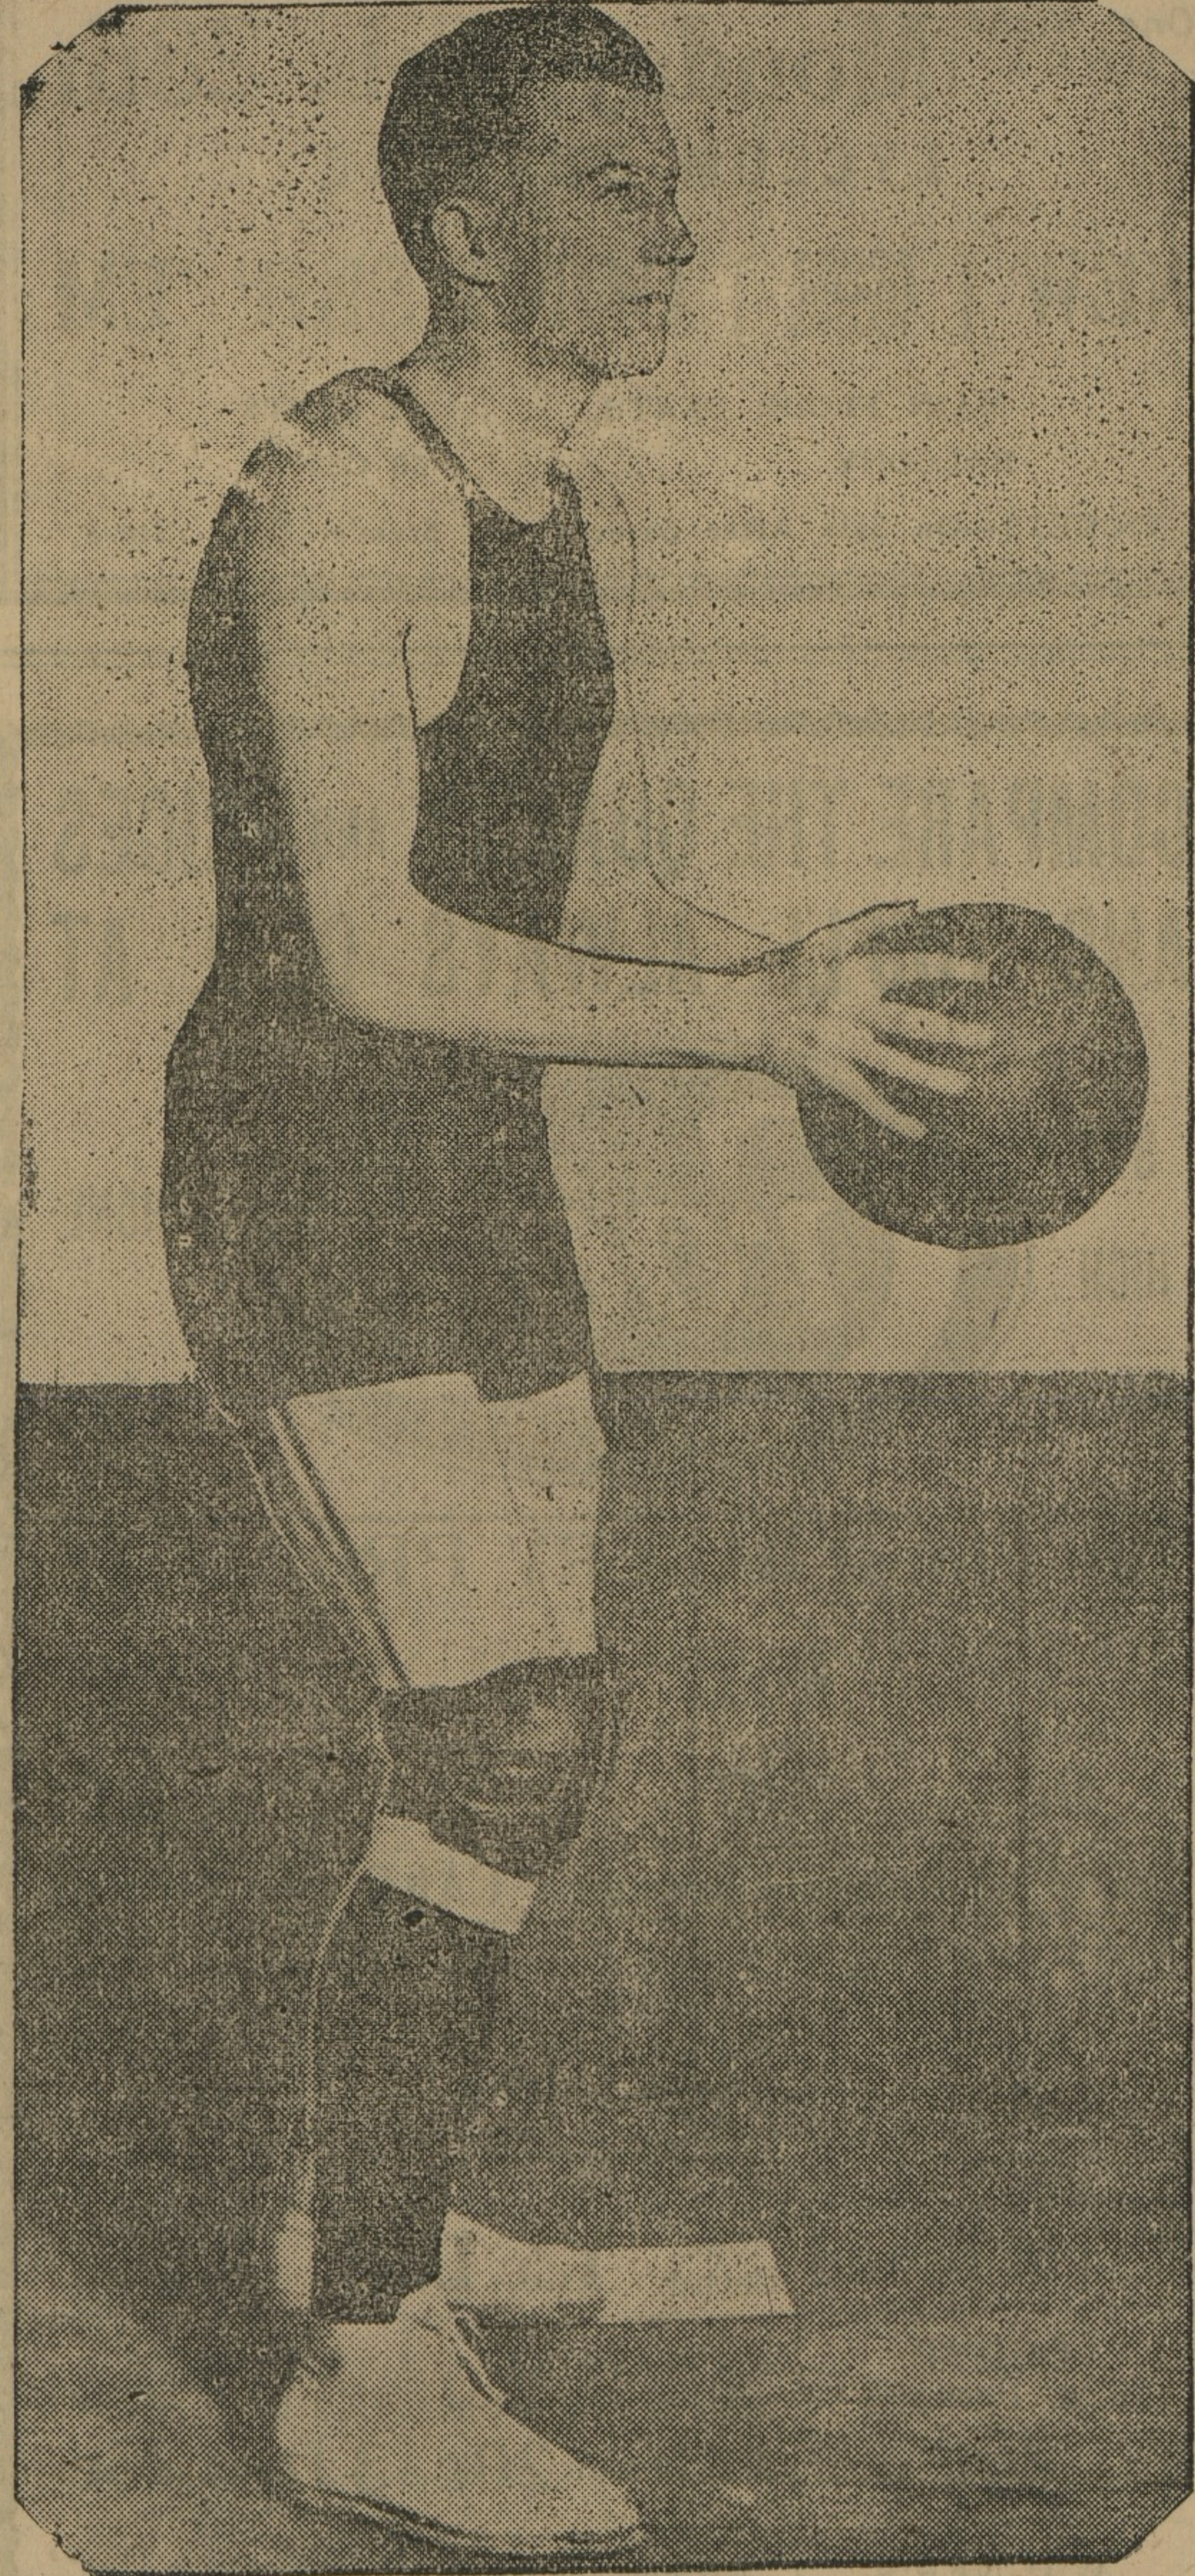

He suggests that an expedient be borrowed from hockey that a zoning rule be put into effect whereby the team in possession of the ball may pass and dribble away from its own goal when it is in its own scoring zone.

The zone would be marked by a line drawn thru the middle of the court. When not in its own scoring zone the team possessing the ball must pass or dribble only towards its own goal. Penalty similar to that imposed for running with the ball. The rule would be in effect only in the last five minutes of play.

There you are. But, would that line in the center of the floor rightly mark the scoring zone? How about Frank Dudley, of Loyola, who shoots from the vicinity of his own foul line? The whole floor is his scoring zone. At least, the whole Washington gym floor.

JACK CARROLL

Captain Jack Carroll of the Washington College "Flying Pentagon," who last night led his teammates against the strong Western Maryland College five at Westminster. Tonight the Washington team will test Blue Ridge. This game will also be played on the Westminster Court.

Captain Carroll is playing his fifth and last year on the Washington Varsity. On several occasions he has been selected as All-South Atlantic forward. He is rated as one of the greatest college players in the country.

Several games ago Coach Kibler shifted Captain Jack from forward to guard, and, if such is possible, Carroll looks better at the latter post.

The game was one of the roughest on the local floor for some seasons. The visitors led by Yarnell, former Swarthmore College star, seemed to care little for basketball and spent the most of the game fouling.

This same Yarnell, however, was one of the niftiest centermen to jump on the local floor in an age. He could shoot, and did shoot, from all parts of the floor and from all positions. He accounted for 11 of his teams points.

Captain Jack Carroll led the Washington team in hitting the cords with a total of 13 points. Jacobs, who relieved Seib at center soon after the start of the game, and Dumschott each totaled 8.

Miss Lambert Sets World's Record In 300 Yard Swim

Establishing a new world's record in winning the 300-yard title medley Miss Adelaide Lambert, of Chestertown, swimming for the Women's Swimming Association, featured the first day of the competition for Women's National A. A. U. swimming championships at Buffalo.

Miss Lambert captured the medley in 4.34 2-5, clipping exactly two seconds from the universal standard set by Miss Karin Nilsson at St. Augustine in 1925. Miss Norelius won the sprint in 1.04.

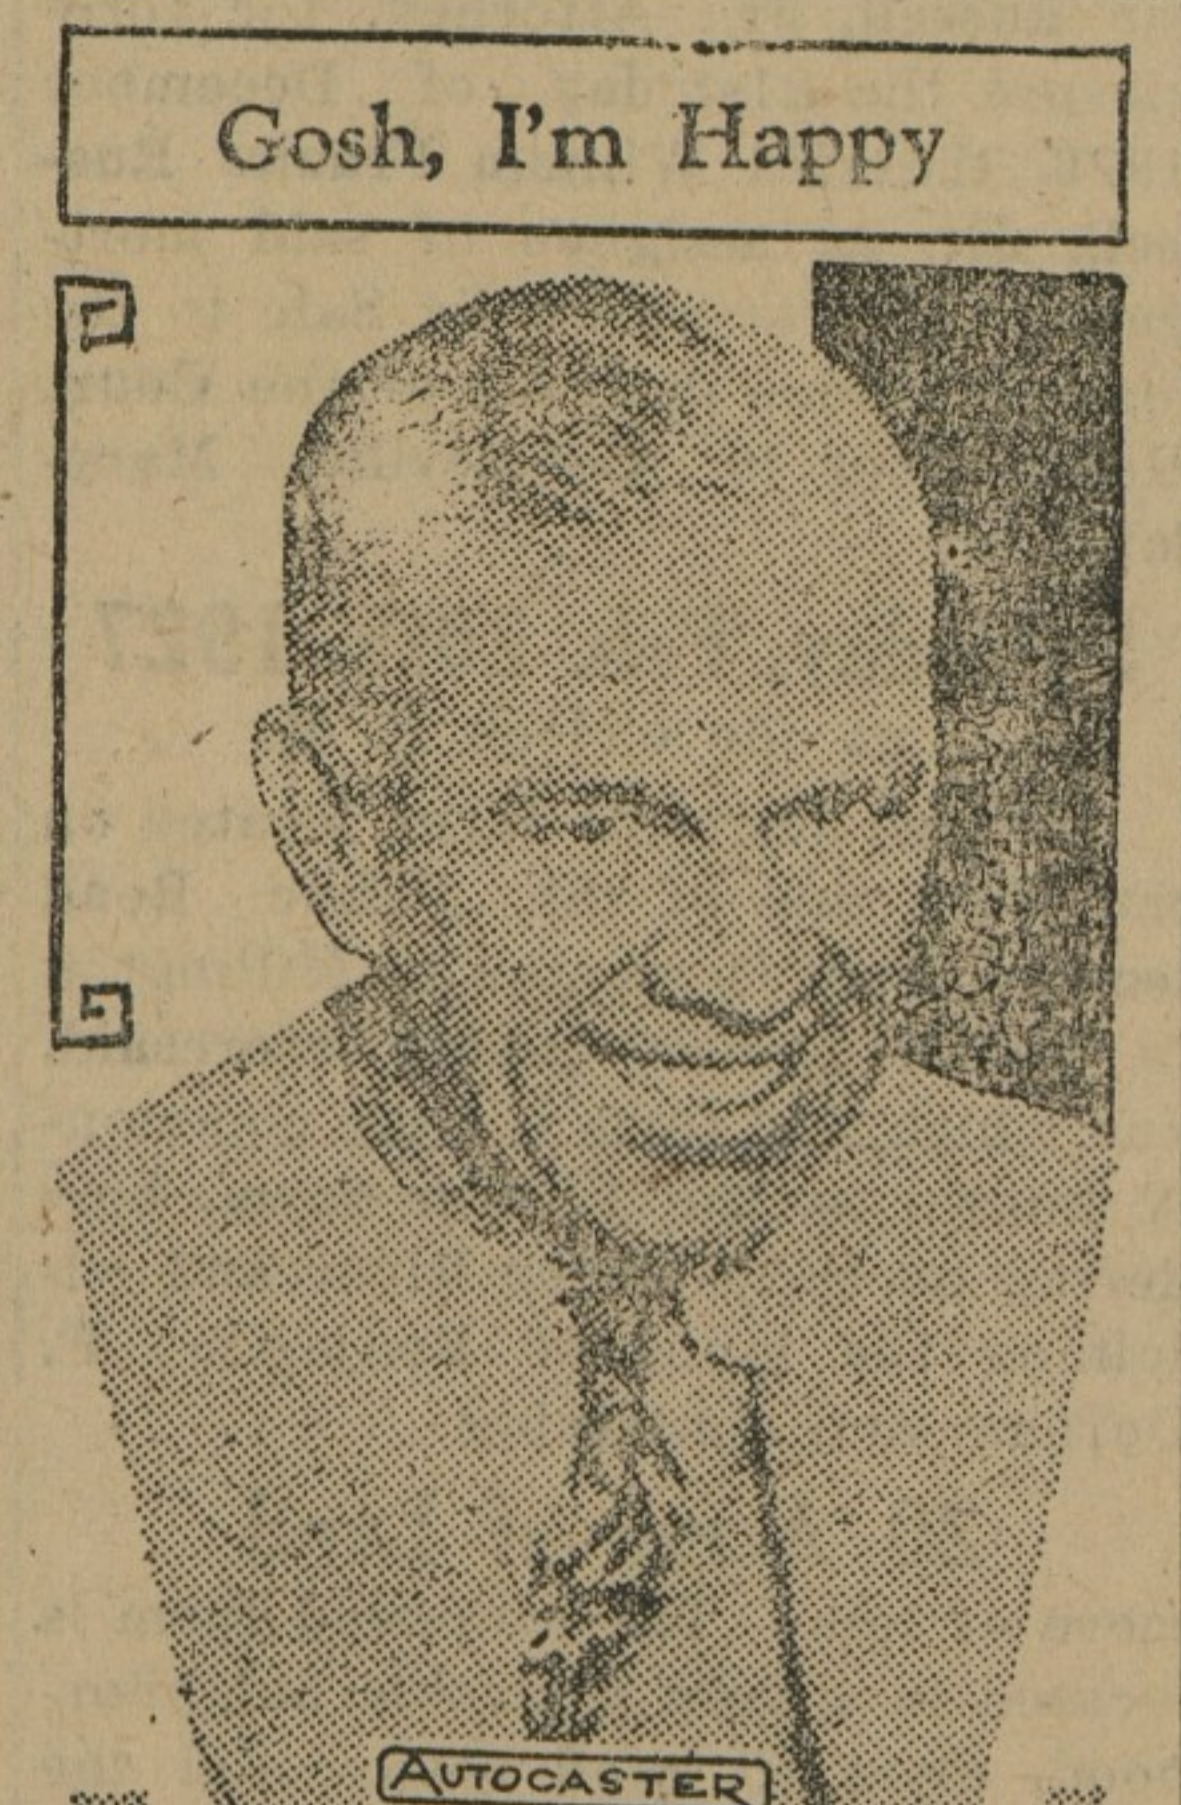

Three heats were required in the medley, which consists of consecutive 100-yard swims with breast, back and free style strokes. Miss Lambert took the first as she pleased in 4.48 4-5, with Miss Lisa Lindstrom of the W. S. A. the runner up. The second went to Miss Colter of the Detroit. Fourteen reported for the 100 yard sprint and everyone expected Miss Ethel Lackie of the Illinois A. C. of Chicago, the holder, to fight out for first place with Miss Eleanor Garratti of San Rafael, Cal., national 50-yard champion.

In the heats, however, Miss Norelius took hers in 1.04 3-5 while the other two were won by Miss Lackie in 1.06 1-5 and Miss Garratti in 1.07 3-5, and again in the semi-finals the New Yorker returned the fastest time of 1.04 4-5, so things began to look different.

LATEST BUICK MODEL

AMONG the new models which attracted the crowds at the New York automobile show last week was a new body type introduced by Buick. This model is called the Town Brougham, and is a deluxe five passenger closed car on the Series 115 chassis.

The body is of the sedan type, with the rounded, leather covered rear quarters and the landau hinges of the brougham. It is distinctly in the deluxe class, carrying special equipment, upholstery and finish. The color on the upper works of the body is Delaware green, with Yorktown green below the belt. The leather rear quarters are colored. Double gold striping is placed over the black lower molding. The wheels are dark natural wood. The upholstery is a shade of green to harmonize with the body colors.

A very pleasing effect has been obtained by skillful application of colors. While the entire upper part of the body is in Delaware green, the insets around the windows are in the lighter Yorktown green. This treatment gives an effect of color harmony hitherto associated only with the most expensive custom-built cars.

The Series 115 chassis has a wheelbase of 114 1/2 inches and is powered with the Buick valve-in-head engine of 207 cubic inches displacement, developing 63 horsepower. The speed is rated at 70 miles an hour. The chassis is equipped with the new vacuum ventilator which holds crankcase dilution to such close limits that only four changes of oil a year are necessary, provided the level in the crankcase is kept up. Gasoline mileage between 17 and 19 miles to the gallon.

The Town Brougham is a companion model to the Series 115 Country Club coupe, and carries the same equipment. This includes a smoking set and vanity, high quality carpeting in the rear compartment, artistically designed hardware, indirectly lighted instrument panel, and the new Buick radiator emblem.
