

Learn From Lindbergh

The thoughtful young men today who consistently save a part of their regular earnings have had a new inspiration in the achievements and glory of their fellow countryman, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, America's intrepid airman. They know the one factor which made all possible was the fact that he had $2,000 of his money to invest in the venture. Colonel Lindbergh was the largest single contributor to the venture—throwing in all his savings—money he had deposited regularly from his earnings as an air-mail pilot. Colonel Lindbergh no doubt would today be an unknown air-mail pilot—if he had had no SAVINGS. Does this teach a lesson?

Hailing Fairbanks In "Black Pirate"

With the news that Douglas Fairbanks' latest screen offering, "The Black Pirate," will be the feature attraction at the Lyceum Theatre on Thursday and Friday of next week, comes the added word that this picture is entirely in color and ranks as one of the most elaborate cinema spectacles of the year.

Fairbanks is as usual the romantic adventurer achieving no end of thrills through his hazardous, always inimitable, and frequently amusing "stunts". His ingenuity and athletic prowess are big factors in his struggle to win a captured damsel from a shipload of blood-thirsty pirates. The situation forms the drama of the play as well as the backbone of the story.

As was the case with the highly popular "Robin Hood," and "The Thief of Bagdad," the story of "The Black Pirate" is an original from the pen of Elton Thomas. It was adapted to the screen by Jack Cunningham, scenarist for "Don Q," "The Covered Wagon" and many other noteworthy pictures. Direction is by Albert Parker, who has directed several Fairbanks' features.

Never before in his career, in the opinion of critics, has the star appeared in a photoplay vehicle that has given him such splendid opportunity for historic and interesting compelling art. The fact that the picture is in color has made possible splendid atmosphere besides.

"The Big Parade" To Be Shown Here Soon

"The Big Parade," which comes to the Lyceum Theatre on Dec. 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, is unquestionably the greatest success New York has ever known in the realm of big pictures. Speculators fought with the public to get blocks of seats at the box office, and this is the only picture for which tickets are in as big demand at the New York ticket agencies as they customarily are for the most successful flesh-and-blood dramas. The production is in its second year at the Astor Theatre, New York, and is now also on view in the principal capitals of the world.

State Collects $88,000 In Fees

Merchants Delinquent In Securing Licenses Are Checks

The pursuit of merchants delinquent in securing traders' licenses netted the State Treasury more than $88,000 during the year ended September 30, it was revealed today in a report being prepared by the State License Bureau.

The report, Frank P. Bratten, chief inspector of the bureau, said, is to be sent to Comptroller William S. Gordy next week.

The year's receipts, the report shows, bring to almost $500,000 the sum of the Bureau of Licenses has saved for the State since it was founded by an act of the Legislature of 1922. The amount this year exceeds by $23,000 the sum secured last year, when merchants who had neglected to obtain licenses until forced to by the bureau paid the State $65,789.

During 1925, however, more than $100,000 was collected from delinquents. In the first year it operated the bureau unearthed $15,000 in dilatory licenses.

Of the $88,000 obtained during the fiscal year just ended $46,000 came from merchants in Baltimore, of whom 1,017 who failed to take out adequate licenses, or any at all, were discovered. The remaining $42,000 came from 1,361 county traders.

Operating the bureau this year, the report reveals, cost about $10,000.

In Dorchester county, which topped the other twenty-two counties in the number of delinquents this year, $7,000 was collected that might otherwise not have found its way into the State's coffers. The great number was explained, Mr. Bratten said, by the fact that the bureau's inspectors did not reach that county in their inquiries last year.

Two recommendations included in the report of the bureau last year were made into law by the last Legislature, and several others are under consideration for the next session of the lawmakers, it was said.

One of last year's recommendations resulted in a law requiring licenses for individual garages when it was found that some persons were avoiding the tax on commercial garages by operating one hundred or more individual storage places. Another restricted the female traders' license to genuine widows or unmarried women operating with a stock of less than $300. Passage of these laws is estimated to have increased the annual license revenue $50,000.

The License Bureau worked for two years with only one inspector, but in 1924, three more were named to aid Mr. Bratten. The present force includes Mathew A. Powers, who works in Baltimore; John H. Farlow, who covers the Eastern Shore, and Thomas A. Gillesce, who conducts the investigation in Western Maryland.

Stewart-Warner Radio Wins Two Grand Prizes In Italian Contests

In Italy, land of Marconi, inventor of radio's predecessor, the wireless telegraph, an American built receiver has twice carried off the honors in competition with every leading European and American brand. The Grand Prize at both the Gonzaga and Padova fairs was awarded to a well known radio, built in the United States, in a contest judged on the basis of performance and beauty.

An indication of the extreme values in radio, available to American buyers, is the fact that this receiver, manufactured by the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation of Chicago, sells in the United States for a nominal price, while many of the competitive European makes entered in the contests sell for extremely high prices.

Unquestionably the American radio fan is fortunate. In America, the land of free speech and free radio programs, a tax on radio sets is unknown. But in many countries across the Atlantic, radio listeners must pay an annual fee to their governments for the support of broadcasting.

In addition, the United States has not only outdistanced European nations with an overwhelming number of excellent broadcasting stations—but in the production of finer receiving equipment, selling at prices that, to our Continental cousins, would seem ridiculously low.
