KINDNESS IS CONTAGIOUS

While every child should be intellectually educated it is certain that education of the heart is even more essential to the welfare of society and to individual happiness, and children are entitled to both.

A teacher in Syracuse said "Nothing helped me so much to manage these rough boys as teaching kindness to animals." In two large cities "tough districts" have been civilized by the same means. Any teacher can, in a weekly talk of only ten or fifteen minutes or by correlating with other lessons this teaching "kindness to animals," impress upon the pupils their duty in regard to the care and treatment of all animals that come under their care or notice. Make the pupils understand that animals have rights even if they are "dumb."

Kindness is contagious and example is powerful. Results are remarkable in their effect upon the pupils who have a teacher who understands and who loses no opportunity to inculcate in the minds of her pupils sympathy for, and justice to every living creature.—Humane Education Press Bureau, Boston, Mass.

During the year 1918 the railroads under government control, earned $250,000,000 less than in 1917, while the operating expenses increased $1,119,000,000.

WORLD POWER

The President of the United States was delegated by his associates of the inner council of the Peace Conference to draft the formula of recognition for the Russian nation and for the solution of its government problem. In the despatches from Paris of the same day, the story is told of the appeal of the Arabs of Hedjas to the American people because of the belief that the American nation will be the chief factor in deciding their fate. "Even in the furthest part of my country," says their Prince, "the word has spread that America is the friend of all oppressed and the enemy of all oppressors, that to her all oppressed may come, sure of finding patient ears to listen and strong arms to uphold the weak if the claims are found to be just."

The Bolsheviki of Russia cry to the President of the United States as friend; the Sinn Feiners of Ireland appeal to him for their cause. Another despatch, also from Paris, tells us that President WILSON'S opinion as to the claim of China for full restoration of territorial and political rights, will be of the greatest importance in the Celestial kingdom, for there he is regarded "as the greatest man in history and his decisions are considered irrevocable." And from the nearer East, Czecho-Slovaks, Jugo Slavs, Armenians, and a very Babel of tongues are crying to the President of the United States to accomplish their salvation and redemption, and incidentally are asking to be fed while waiting for their "Day." There seems to be a general belief among the oppressed and distressed nations of the earth, that Uncle Sam is the only policeman to whom they can tell their troubles.

All this may be very warming and exciting to the cockles of pride in the American heart, and to some be convincing proof of the world power which the nation has at last achieved and which will forever end its "isolation." But the Hedjaz want all Syria and Mesopotamia and Arabia, and Great Britain will not consent, and China wants to recover possessions from which Japan is loath to part, while the Bolsheviki will be satified with nothing less than the earth. Mr. CREEL's bureau of infomation did not seem to be necessary to spread the good report of the American mission and to interpret its ideals to the under nations of the world, but when the day of disappointment comes, we fear it will be far more difficult to interpret the realities and to make these people understand that "world power" is comparative and relative, and not absolute. In fact there seem to be a considerable number of people in enlightened America who are waiting for a more or less rude awakening to the fact that even a world power has its limitations and wisely should respect them in its undertakings.—Evening Bulletin.

President Wilson has again sidestepped on the question of female suffrage. He told a delegation of working women in Paris one day last week that it was "a domestic issue."

Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative power of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
