NAVY SERGE DRESS

Frock That Is Charming for Woman of Any Age.

Bodice Cut on Surplice Lines; Trimming Consists of Narrow Facings; Embroidery in Platinum Gray.

A navy serge dress is necessary for every woman with a well-balanced wardrobe. There is no war shortage in serge, but the best grades are expensive. The serge frocks now being designed are distinctive by their simplicity. There is no such thing as ready-made cheap trimmings, so that none of the dresses seen are overdecorated. Plain lines and handsome embroideries in moderation are used.

The sketch illustrates a smart little serge frock that would be charming for a woman of any age. The bodice is cut on surplice lines, and the trimming consists of narrow facings and embroidery in platinum gray. The straight side panels may be cut in one with the frock, or they may be of the loose or flying variety lined throughout with platinum gray silk.

Many dresses for fall have no contrasting touch of color at the neck, while others will show the neck outlined by a tiny frill of some contrasting color, such as blue, platinum gray being an especially effective combination for navy.

Bands of silk braid, large and small necks and touches of embroidery done in wool or heavy silk are the popular decorative touches for early fall wool fabric frocks.

In considering wool embroidery, angora must not be overlooked, as it is easily applied and tremendously effective.

SHOULD PROTECT THE HANDS

Busy Housewife Can Have Beautiful Hands if Care Is Used in the Selection of Soaps.

The busiest housewife need never be ashamed of her hands if she will remember a few simple precautions.

Do not use dish water or washing water scalding hot. Have as warm as can be comfortably borne. And do not use strong, coarse soaps. A little observation will show which soaps injure the hands and which do not.

Never let soapy water dry on the hands. Rinse them thoroughly and wipe dry. It will be worth the trouble.

A plain, pure white soap is much better for all toilet purposes than the most expensive scented or medicated soap on the market. And never neglect to rinse it off and wipe thoroughly.

Variations of Vests.

Vests are being worked out charmingly in styles and pastel shades suitable for wear with the white cloth, silk or linen costumes. One such adaptation is the use of a tan vest, collar and cuffs with a brown rajah tailor suit; another, the use of a gray linen vest, trimmed with pearl buttons, with an old rose linen coat suit; and still a third, the daring addition of a cherry vestee, which sets off to perfection the smart lines of a perfectly plain, tailored suit of white serge.

Flower Basket Bag.

A new little bead bag is shaped like a basket of flowers. The lower part is a basket, worked in colored beads in a pattern like woven willow. Rising from it are the flowers, on a background of a neutral shade. The lower part is shaped just like the basket, with the outstanding ends in points at the side.

NAVY BEST PLACE FOR HIM

Reason Why That Department of the Service Would Be Most Appropriate for the Town Drunk.

The town was not exceptional. It had a weekly newspaper which had an editor who ran it seemingly on natural gas, and it had a town teller of fish stories, and it had a town pump. But this town wouldn't be complete without a town drunkard, and this town, somewhere in America, of course had him. The drunkard, as is usually the case, was the subject for much earnest conversation among the children, and home-loving elders would hold him up as a horrible example to their worldly ignorant heirs. This drunkard was not unusual, either. He had his spees, and his alternating moods when he would "hit the sawdust trail." The war came on, and it shared with the drunkard as a topic of equal importance for the town. Many of the boys enlisted. Some of them went into the farther; others into other branches of the service.

One evening the banker's little son came in earlier than usual from his inevitable baseball game. "The old drunk's enlisted," he announced breathlessly to the family, who always did manage to get started eating before the young son did. "What?" demanded his father. "I saw him drunk this morning." "Yes, I know," replied the son. "Everybody saw him drunk. But Tom McDonald, the big kid that goes to high school, and is a sophomore, an' umpires our games, an' thinks he knows everything about everybody, well, he said he did. 'Ole Drunk's gone again,' I said. 'Yep,' answered Tom. 'I heard he'd joined the tanks.' Now, what do you think of that?" "He'd better join the navy," muttered the banker, as he slowly buttered his war-bread.

AFRICAN DEMAND FOR LACES

Trade of That Section Sure to Be Well Worth Cultivating, According to a Consular Report.

No laces, embroideries or dress trimmings of any kind are produced in West Africa. Of machine-made goods, principally cotton, large quantities are imported, being supplied chiefly by England, France and Switzerland. The native women use them in embroidered under and top skirts, chemises, chemisettes and kimonos.

This is true as regards the native women in all West Africa, even in the far interior. They fancy the top chemisette, or short chemise, worn as a kimono. For the most part the goods are embroidered, but many have begun to wear garments with insertions and laces. Light figured and flowered voiles and dimities are well liked in Senegal.

Many of the women are seen wearing some of the best qualities of these goods, especially the voiles, though, of course, the cheaper grades of the dimities find a larger sale. While no statistics of importers are available, the trade undoubtedly is of sufficient importance to cultivate. All the large importers are more or less interested in these articles, and would appreciate samples with price lists.—Consular Report.

New and Powerful Explosive.

For many years mercury fulminate has held its place as a detonating substance superior to all others. Of recent years, however, its place has been threatened by other compounds which bid fair to replace it. One of the most promising of these is lead azide, a salt of hydrazoic acid. This azide forms a great number of salts, as mercury azide, silver azide and stannum azide. Large crystals of lead azide and mercury azide have been found to be very sensitive to mechanical shock, says the Scientific American, the sensitiveness increasing with the size of the crystals. Even the breaking of a single large crystal is said to bring about explosion. Crystals as large as 3 mm. in length, when dry, often explode when brushed with a feather.

Contraceptive Defies Germs.

A Baltimore woman, Miss Cornelia Fiske, has devised a simple scheme to prevent the possibility of contamination when making use of a common drinking glass. It consists of a square of rather stiff waxed paper, folded through the center, and when desired a thirst quencher of any kind the paper is placed over the edge of the glass and the lips then can not come in contact with the glass and therefore there is no exchange of germs. A supply of these papers can be carried conveniently in the purse or pocket, or they may be made more substantially of celluloid or some other equally suitable material and one of the lip protectors made to do a prolonged term of duty.

Self-Sacrifice.

"Has the war made any change in Spongoleigh?" "I should say so!" "In what respect?" "Spongoleigh says that in view of the fact that his friends are buying Liberty bonds and contributing to war philanthropies, he considers it his patriotic duty not to borrow more than $5 at a time from any of them."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Cause for Thanks.

"I met a real optimist the other day," said the war hospital surgeon, "a fellow to whom I couldn't doff my hat. He had lost a leg and when they poked him up the first thing he said was: 'Thank God it was the leg with the rheumatism!'"
