

ROCK HALL

The M. E. Church is having some difficulty in securing a janitor who can manage the furnace, and since Mr. James Taylor who was volunteering assistance and Mr. Tolson, the newly appointed janitor, were both sick was no fire on Sunday morning so services were dispensed with. Later the church was made comfortable and there was a fine session of the Sunday school and preaching by the pastor in the evening. At the latter service the music was from New Songs of Pentecost, No. 3, which appeared to catch the fancy of the congregation. The sermon was from the words of Samuel: "Speak; for thy servant heareth." Revival services have been postponed for a week.

The fourth number of the Lyceum Course at the High school building was presented last Friday evening and was much enjoyed by the patrons. That and the movies have been almost the only recreative features of the place this winter to which a little skating was added during the cold snap. We are beginning to wonder if there will be any snow. Dandelions have been in bloom all winter and some early spring bulbs and flowering shrubs are showing decided signs of life. Only a small quantity of ice has been harvested. Deep-water fishermen find plenty of time to ply their trade but as usual in January the catches are small and a species of shark sometimes called shovel noses, about a yard long, have been taken in quantities. The condition of our roads, especially thru Jessop's woods has been in a deplorable condition for sometime past, and the attention given them by our county commissioners is not such as our taxpayers feel they are entitled to. Mr. Walter Strong in an effort to help make the going easier had a force of men scraping them last week.
