It has been said there is good in everything, be that as it minutes, the effect in a year's time will may, the only good we could get out of be very apparent. Before going down a snow clad earth was by playing with our coasters when boys, and taking our best girls sleigh riding, when we became men. We still say this is fun. Being with heels together, and inflate the a lover of nature and of nature's God, of course I enjoyed the seasons as they ing in the breath while fifteen is being when the month of flowers came, with Repeat this eight or ten times. Then the poet I could sing with all the ecstasy of my soul,

Hail May, bright welcome May, Charming sunny month of May, Like the birds I chant thy words

And great the lovely month of May. By the enchanting dreams of latter May, when the forest became robed in its garments of green and the landscape was decked with the variegated flowers that bloomed upon its swelling bosom, and when the fascinating songs of the native birds could be heard from every bough.

Singing a song in gladest praise To the teacher of their tuneful lays: Though many, they sang as if one,

All in the brightness of the sun. Then it was that I would ofttimes hide amid the bowers and speak to the whispering rill, the cawing crow and the nodding trees, long before I had ever learned that Clay, the statesman, used his father's cows and horses for his audience. Yes, I was raised in the country where the air is pure and wholesome in winter, and where its sweet zephyrs give refreshment and vigor on summer eves.

But for some months I have lived in the city and acquainted myself somewhat with the ways of city life. Unlike the domestic in the country, we have One of the most Genial and no hen-houses, meat-houses, or potatopatches, or apple-orchards to which we can go and get our chickens, spareribs, potatoes and apples, but must "go to market" and endure the noisy crowds, with acute inflammation of kidneys, had and return with a little basket the contents of which is sometimes stale, and for which enormous prices have been paid. While in the country, my peaceful slumber was not disturbed save by two bottles I was entirely cured." the barking of the watch dog, the crowing of the rooster, or the echo of the ax on the wood pile. But here it is the yell Kidney and Backache Gure of the huckster, crying "eggs 30 cents a dozen and cabbage 8 cents a head," or worse still, the constant rumble of the electric cars. In conclusion I will speak | Cures all diseases of the kidneys, bladder, to my friends as if they were one, and if Bed Wetting in children, Dropsy, Heart there are some whom I shall never more Disease, Rheumatism, Skin and Blood see, to you I will say

Your eyes may be dark or they may be dim, Ere again they may gaze upon mine; But my heart has feeling for thee when alone, In many a token and sign. In the far-away city though I may be, Thy friendshp I will not resign; For thou who made sweet music for me. Must surely have visions sublime. By sorrow revealed by visions at night,

O may it ne'r be thy lot; For as friendship is in your bosoms sealed, By me you will ne'r be forgot.
