THE following was read by Mr. Wm. | When she had Children, she gave them Castoria. N. Sherwood at the close of the "Ship building" exercise at the Anniversary celebration of the Juvenile Missionary Society on Sunday evening last, at Christ Methodist Protestant Church, Chestertown. The names were placed upon the ship according to the location here given. An account of the exercise will be found in another column:

GREW OF THE "GOSPEL SHIP."

First of all comes our President Kinzer,
With the polished and sweet-spirited Klein;
Then the worthy John Holmes, a bard
With the Gospel's bright gems safely stored;
They shall have charge of the Main-top-sail-

Our W. B. Judefind, a noble soul,
And Hugh L. Elderdice, every whit whole;
J. T. Ward, of loveliest spirit;
J. J. Murray, of equal merit,
Man the anchors, stand by the fore-mast
And be ready the lead line to cast. Our Southerland of brave and trueness, With J. B. Jones, Cushing and Tom Lewis, Bates and Drinkhouse, of classic cast, Will surely care for the ship's main-mast. Hammond, a sunbeam; Kirk of great zeal; Greenfield's fine diction; Norris to heal; With Dyott, Randall, and plenty of room, Will take in hand the flying jib-boom. J. Thomas Murray and Sheridan

Warm hearted Trout, and David Wilson, With bright Walter Graham, 'tis no task To manage the foretop-gallant mast. Our Loney Bowers, Sullivan, James, Truit, Blake, Poisal and Walter, McKnett, Hines and Haddaway Will attend the foretop-gallant stay.

Then there's Mather, McKoskey and Shreeve, Quick Tommy Crouse, and Little to sieve The good from the bad; and with much ease Will care for the Pendant and Cross-trees. G. J. Smith, Norman Ward and Arnett, Balderston, and Mills (to be captain yet)
Farring, Elderdice and L. G. Wolf
With J. E. T. Ewell—his name will last;—
These will have charge of the mizzentop mast. Then here's Benson and Strayer, who'll tell How they love the dear children to dwell On board the old ship, that they may know Its true joys; and with F. Mullineux Sam. Smith and Geo. Bacchus—our own caste—

Stand to their post at the mizzen mast. S. T. Coe and the gallant Kilgore Bennett and Donovan, of rich lore. Together with Cullum and Dumm
Will care for the life-boat and her rig,
While Reveile mans the jolly-boat and gig. And now F. T. Tagg, Gill, and L. Warner, true J. T. Lassell, J. W. Parris too, With B. F. Jester, all brilliant lights And R. S. Rowe so brave in the fight Our old flag will remain at the gaff While Phillips and Wegand abide at the aft.

B. W. Kindley, so earnest to save E. A. Warfield, a gallant young brave; Hoblitzell and Neepier, who toil hard Will find work at the main royal yard. Then there's B. F. Benson and Yingling Williamson and A. D Melvin, all mingling Their tears with their prayers while on guard Keeping watch at the main gallant yard. Now our friend Lucas with Straughn ever bold White and McCready, with zeal never cold, A. D. Dick, McCullough and W. G. Holmes Will faithfully man the spankard jib-boom.

Next R. L. Lewis; we know him well: Gospel sailor! ring loud the ship's bell! And you, Harryman and Treadway, With Simpson, hold the fore-top stay. And then we have C. K. McCaslin Whom we place at the fore castle bin And last, though not least, good sailor Gray Has a place at the fore-royal stay With dear, old John Nichols, Earle Maloy; Littleton, Ewing and Floyd ahoy,
