Daisy's Demise.

By EPES W. SARGENT.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"Billy," announced Daisy solemnly, "I gotter die."

Billy Seaton's big blue eyes grew round with surprise.

"Don't," he urged. "Tommy Bindley's birthday party is next week, and they're goin' to have five kinds of cake and three kinds of ice cream. Billy was sick last year and this is last year's party too."

"I'm not going to be dead that long," explained Daisy. "This is only a little while."

"I don't see no run in dyin' just for a little while," scorned Billy, his fears allayed. "If I was to die I'd want to stay dead—but I don't want to die," he added hastily.

"I don't want to," admitted Daisy, "but I gotter. You know my lace shawl?"

Billy nodded. He had reason for remembering the shawl, for had he not been spanked for throwing a bit of jelly cake at Daisy when she was wearing it? It was old and yellow, but they had made a terrible fuss about it.

"I cut a teeny piece often it," continued Daisy. "It was the littlest bit of a piece, but"—her voice hushed to an awed whisper—"I'm goin' to be spanked when ma gets home tonight."

Billy nodded understandingly. It was Mrs. Dunlop's principle to permit at least twelve hours to elapse between the detection and punishment of juvenile offenses, during which period the culprit was permitted to suffer.

Billy, out by the stables, derived huge satisfaction from making long, white shavings with the new knife.

"I wish ma would give me time to die before she spanks me," he was telling himself mournfully. "I hope Daisy dies again soon."

Truly Billy's mind was unfortunably.

Lambs For Spanish Children.

Directly after Lent there is observed in Spain a custom that is particularly interesting to children. It is what may be termed the sale of the lambs, for on Monday after Easter the sheep shepherds have their lambs and goats on sale in all the cities. The animals are kept in temporary pens, and it is the rule for parents to permit their children to roam from five to twelve years of age to purchase a pet lamb or goat.

After the animal is selected it is taken to the home residence and given the freedom of the courtyard and quite often the greater part of the house. It is every child's ambition to train the pet so that it will at least follow its owner like a dog, and if a few simple tricks are added to the lamb's or kid's education the master or mistress is proud indeed. Girls especially delight in these pets, and often the animals are so bedecked with bows and ribbons as almost to hide their bodies. The sale of the lambs is a very old custom and is supposed to have originated through some form of the church.

The Dog's Tail.

A prominent citizen was on trial charged with harboring a vicious dog.

The attorney for the defense had been consulting a dog expert and had learned that if a dog holds his tail up over his back when he barks he is not angry, while if he holds it straight out behind him he is in a belligerent, bloodthirsty frame of mind. Anxious to air his newly acquired information, the lawyer began cross-questioning the prosecuting witness thus:

"Now, did you notice the position in which this dog's tail was held when he came at you?"

"I did not," said the witness, "for that was not the end from which I anticipated injury. I had another end in view. Now, if the dog had been a horse?"

"No levity, sir!" thundered the attorney. "Answer the question. In what position was the dog's tail when he came at you?"

"I believe, sir," faltered the terrified witness, "that it was behind him."—Chicago News.

Nothing but Cod.

Kate Field once visited the Isles of Shoals and was fishing with a New England skipper. During the voyage she interviewed the old salt on the fish question, with the following result:

Said I to the skipper: "What do you consider the best fish for boiling?"

Skipper—Boiling? Why, cod, to be sure.

I—And what is best for baking?

Skipper—You couldn't have no better fish nor cod for baking.

I—How is it with broiling?

Skipper—I never tasted no better fish for broiling than cod.

I—What is your opinion about frying?

"Frying!" repeated the skipper, scratching his head. "Why, what would you fry but cod?"

I—What fish is best for general purposes?

Skipper—General purposes? Cod can't be beat for general purposes, I tell you!

The Farmer's Wife

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet, it does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every taint and corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the relief of these symptoms are the leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

"All the same," declared Paul, "prompt payments make good friends."

He slipped the knife and a shiny quarter to Billy and watched the boy race across the lawn.

"It was Billy who suggested that I look higher up the bank," he explained as he returned to the girl. "I told him that if his hip was any good I would give him my knife."

"What do you suppose gave him that idea?" cried Alice, with surprise.

"I don't know," said Paul loyally. "The workings of Billy's mind are not for the understanding of us grown-ups."

Billy, out by the stables, derived huge satisfaction from making long, white shavings with the new knife.

"I wish ma would give me time to die before she spanks me," he was telling himself mournfully. "I hope Daisy dies again soon."

Truly Billy's mind was unfortunably.
