A SCHEME FOR FARMER Mrs. Evalyn Harris, Of Betterton, Startles The People With Her Proposal For Plurality of Wives—One To Each 40 Acres—Mrs. Harris' Husband Would Be Entitled To 12. Mrs. Evalyn Harris, of Betterton, has been writing some readable articles on the "Farmer and His Wife." Monday she threw a bomb into the quiet and conservative neighborhood by advocating a wife for each 40 acres. Well let her tell it: "The bill I have in mind would be Plurality of Wives. To the average reader this sounds queer, but not half as queer as some of the bills already proposed 'to help the farmer' sound to the farmer. You will notice that I specify farmers, for the average city man has about all he can do to keep his wife in the style to which she has accustomed herself since she became a wife and not a wage-earner. The small farmer is forever being quoted as an object lesson to the large farmer. All writers on this subject agree that more chickens, eggs and dairy products and less wheat will make him rich and independent. All right, but why? The wife of small farmer, by saving all of the daylight she can, and then wasting kerosene until 10 o'clock or later, is able to make her living, and the living for the family on these chickens, eggs and dairy products. She can become independent, if she works hard enough and has enough children to work for her, and that will leave the husband with no more to do than get enough to buy fertilizer and pay taxes and any extra help he might need. On a small farm there is very little fertilizer to buy, little to pay in taxes and little for help. But some of the farmers are so unfortunate that they have larger farms, and for these larger farms, more help is needed, as it takes so much more for taxes and fertilizer. At present it takes all that one wife, including the children, can do to make ends on a 40-acre farm. If a man has 80 acres, he will need two wives. If he has 160 acres, he will need 4, and so on. And by the time all of the farmers are so provided with labor which he does not have to pay, and all of them are raising chickens and cows and truck, why somebody's milk is going to get sour, and somebody's eggs will get rotten, for there won't be enough money left from the proceeds to justify the farmer in sending them to a glutted market."
