The Knights of the Golden announce a moonlight excursion to Betterton from Port Deposit next Monday evening.

The beautiful poem on "Chester River" published in the History of Chestertown is by George Alfred Townsend, a noted writer of this country. He attended college here and now lives in Washing-lower districts, who is deeply interested in the oyster business, told us this week that, in his opinion, the time had come for something to be done toward increasing the oyster supply. At the present  time, he says, the growth of the natural beds will not furnish over two months paying work for the oystermen, and the remainder of the season has to be spent at a loss or in idleness. Here is a problem worthy of attention of the best minds of the county and State. The spreading of shells, the bedding of small oysters, the enforcement of the cull law prohibiting the sale of seed oysters for planting purposes in other States, and 3 * shortening the season may all be considered as remedies.
