The band of missionaries, Dr. Whitman and wife, Henry H. Spaulding and Bears the wife and Henry Gray, had been sent Signature Chart Helitchers out by the American Board and had been many months on the toilsome road. But lead by the indomitable Whitman they had pressed on, until now, like ..... Moses of old, from the mountain top, they beheld the promised land, and were eager to go in and poessess it. Attention:
There on the 4th of July, 1836, taking out from his battered and worn old emigrant wagon the flag of his country, 7.7.2 of which he had carefully preserved through all dangers and trials of his wonderful journey, Dr. Whitman unfurled it to the breeze, and in the name of God and of the United States he took possession of the whole Pacific coast, the now included in the three states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

This was seven years before Fremont, the"pathfinder's,"march over the mountains; and meanwhile Whitman and his companions, undaunted by the opposition and enmity of the Hudson's Bay company, settled at Waiilatpu, near Walla Walla, maintained themselves and prosecuted their labors among the Indians, teaching them, leading them and healing their bodily ailments.
